"Blessed be the LORD God of Israel; For He hath visited and redeemed His people, And hath raised up an horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David; as he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began; That we should be saved from our enemies and from the hand of all that hate us; to perform the mercy promised to our fathers and to remember his holy covenant; The oath which he sware to our father Abraham, That he would grant unto us, that we being delivered out of the hand of our enemies might serve him without fear, in holiness and righteousness before him, all the days of our lives." WHEN WILL IT COME??

by Francis Christen

UTURISM has neutralized most so-called "Christians" to-day. It has reduced most to sky-watchers, believing that Jesus will back any minutecoming wmewhere up in the clouds. They are so obsessed with the sky that they nevnotice their own godless lifestyle here today - on ground level. Their business is conducted as if the following of Christ and His law was the farthest thing from their minds. They go on in their usury, their banking and debt, trusting in insurance and the system, and mindlessly supporting the immoral Christ haters in government who take pleasure in flaunting their sin before others.

In order for the controllers of society to be successful it is paramount for them to teach the people that "the Kingdom or Reign of God has to be a thing of the future because right now, He is not in control – WE are."

They have gone to great lengths to rect systems of theology to support their false image. "Dispensationalism" is the pet system of most Judeo-Christians today, whether they knowingly claim it or not. The Evangelicals (you know, those funny-mentalists) believe in a "Millennium" which is supposed to occur in the future. But they are not alone. Even the so-called "cults" of Judeo-Christianity, like the Mormons, believe in a coming "thousand year" age when Jesus will rule with Joseph Smith at his side. Joseph Smith said:

"For I will reveal myself from heaven with power and great glory, with all the hosts thereof, and dwell in righteousness with men on earth a thousand years, and the wicked shall not stand."

(D&C 29:11)

Even the Jehovah's Witnesses (founded in 1879) who usually tell you they don't believe in the "heaven" or "hell" of the Evangelicals, still believe in a future age on the earth, after the Battle of Armageddon, when they, along with "their Jesus," will rule all the nations (one-world central government). In their lust for this vision, they have foretold the end of the world many times over the past 100 years. In 1889 they said,

"...The 'battle of the great day of God'Almighty' (Rev. 16:14), which will end in A.D. 1914 with the complete overthrow of Earth's present rulership, is already commenced." (C.T. Russell, THE TIME IS AT HAND, p. 101)

While their desire to see the demise of Earth's governments is admirable, their failure to recognize Christ's present rulership is not.

Well, their prediction of "the end" in 1914 was found to be flawed, and so they had to revise their time schedule a number of times. Thus, in 1904 they said it would happen ...

"somewhere between 1910 and 1914."

In 1914, in view of the conspicuous absence of "the end," they published their regrets. Then, in 1920, they told their followers that:

"1925 shall mark the resurrection of the faithful worthies..." "...We are standing at the very portals of that blessed time!" (Golden Age of the Kingdom)" J.F. Rutherford, MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE, pp. 97, 105.

They continued, with seeming impunity, setting dates right up to 1979. Then they decided that they should be more general in their terms. They consequently adopted the method of the Evangelicals with their "any moment now" philosophy of "coming doom" and "the New Age." Today, with Bush's New World Order in the news, many JW's are swooning with ecstasy...assuming that this is (once again) the beginning of "the coming kingdom."

The misconceptions about a "future" age or a "Millennium" can be directly traced to two things:

First: there are mistranslations in our English versions of the Bible. The Scriptures, for centuries, have been translated by men who have inserted into them their own pre-supposed beliefs. As a result, the English versions often portray the translators' ideas rather than the writers'.

For example, take the case of the "supernatural devil" theory. Translator who already believed in a super-natural devil with great power – equal to God – rendered the English versions with him in there. Instead of translating the word "Satan" as "adversary," as it should be, the translators merely transliterated it, capitalized it, and made it into a personal noun (a name). However, when the careful Bible reader correctly translates the word, the mythical "superspook" suddenly disappears. And, the context of the verse determines the specific "adversary" being talked about – usually a man.

Secondly: Judeo-Christianity (and their related "cults") are first and foremost Jewish in their doctrine. All share the common false teaching that the Jews are "God's chosen people" and they will eventually rule supreme over the whole world; a belief straight out of Judaism and Jewish sources.

"The throes of mother Zion which is in labour to bring forth the Messiah—without metaphor, the JEWISH PEOPLE."

Kethuboth 111a, note #4 of the Talmud

Roland B. Gittelsohn, THE MEAN-ING OF JUDAISM:

"Jews do not expect the Messiah to be the son of God. Most non-orthodox Jews hinge their hopes more on a messianic age than on an individual messiah." p.50.

He quotes a rabbi as saying:

"There is a spark of Messiah in each of us [Jews]; when WE succeed in putting together all our individual sparks, the result will constitute the coming of the messiah!" (p.51).

And, as usual, the Jewish-influenced churches are a step ahead of their "goy" victims because secretly they support world government and central controllers.

So, let's turn our attention to this "Millennium." Does the Bible really teach a future 1,000 year reign of Jesus Christ? And, why do all the denominations (including the denominational cults) teach it?

All the major present-day groups of Judeo-Christians were started by MA-SONS. Joseph Smith and Brigham Young, who started Mormonism, were Masons. Judge Rutherford, who started the Jehovah's Witnesses, was a Mason.

Mary Baker Eddy, the founder of Christian Science, was married to a Mason. And, not to be eft out, even the Fundamental / Evangelicals who take great pride in Scofield Bible 'heir should know that Mr. Scofield was a Mason (and he was never a member of any bar as a lawyer as he had claimed). He was a liar and deceiver, as were all the rest of these "great" founders of religious groups.

Ail of these groups were heavily influenced by the counter-Reformation movement of the Roman Catholic Church. The Catholic church in an effort to undo some of the damage which had been ione by the Reformation, enlisted the aid of their "think tank" troops - the Jesuits. It was a Jesuit priest who originally came up with the seed of Dispensationalism and futurism. Keep in mind that the Catholic Church was the first Judaized organized church, (For a more complete treatment of this subject see THE RAPTURE OF SAINTS booklet.) John Darby then enters the picture and a little charismatic lady who, by prophesy, foretold the Rapture and soon-coming second advent of Jesus Christ which would usher in the Millennium. Of course that was in the late 1800's ... and the Lord has been returning regularly almost every year since (according to prophecies from one or more of these groups).

While all this may be amusing to some, to others the vital questions are: What is the Millennium, and does the Bible teach it?

"The Millennium," according to the Catholic Dictionary, refers to...

"...Christ's reign of a thousand years on earth, described in the Apocalypse XX (Revelation 20). Catholics take the number one thousand to designate an indefinite period of considerable length, and refer the reign of Christ to his spiritual reign in the Church on earth..."

Catholic Dictionary

So the Catholics, at least at one time, took the Millennium to be a present reign on earth. However, they see that reign via the Pope and his church over the world. Current Catho-

Israelitish (i.e., Jewish), universal, over which God's son, David's heir, shall be king, and which shall be for one thousand years, the manifestation of the righteousness of God in human affairs." pg 1343, note (1).

"Two resurrections are yet future, which are inclusive of 'all that are in the graves.' These are distinguished as 'of life' and 'of judgment.' They are separated by a period of one thousand years." pg 1228, note (4)

Now, it is important to note that the only place in Scripture where such a thing can possibly be inferred is in the book of Revelation, 20:1-9 ... so let us look at that.

"And I saw a messenger walking down out of the heaven, having the key to the pit and a great chain in his hand. And he laid hold of the dragon, that ancient serpent, who is the devil and the adversary, and bound him a thousand years, and he threw him into the pit (grave), and he shut him up, and sealed him, that he might not make to err yet the nations, until the thousand years should end; after these (things) he must be loosed a little time.

And I saw thrones, and they sat down upon them, and judgment was given to them and the lives of the ones having been executed with ax for their witness to Jesus and for the word of God, and who had worshipped neither the wild beast nor its image and who had not received the mark upon their foreheads, or upon their hand; and they lived and they reigned with the Christ a thousand years. This is the first resurrection, Happy and holy the (one) having part in the first resurrection; on such the second death has no authority, but they will be priests of God and of the Christ, and they will reign with him for a thousand years. And whenever should be ended the thousand years, the adversary will be let loose out of his prison, and he will go out to mislead those nations in the four corners of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together for the war. The number of these is as the sand of the sea ... '

Revelation 20:1-9

Now, in comparing the words of Revelation with the comments quoted

In order for the controllers of society to be successful, it is paramount for them to teach the people that "the Kingdom or Reign of God has to be a thing of the future because right now, He is not in control — WE are."

lic theology however, tends to accept Scofield's pre-millenarian view combined with the "Darbyite" conception of the church and the Jews. What does Scofield teach? Let me quote from the Scofield Reference Bible:

"Upon His return, the King will restore the Davidic monarchy in His own person, regather dispersed Israel, establish His power over all the earth, and reign one thousand years." page 1227, (note 6),

"The dispensation of the kingdom begins with the return of Christ to the earth, runs through the 'thousand years' of his earth-rule, and ends when he has delivered up the kingdom to the Father." page 1341, (note 1)

"The gospel of the kingdom. This is the good news that God purposes to set up on the earth, in fulfillment of the Davidic covenant, a kingdom, political, spiritual,

HOSKINS REPORT

INTERVIEWS: "Dear Dick: What do you advise when a newspaper reporter wants to interview you?" R. C. - Lynchburg

ED: The job of the establishment press is to suppress dissent. It is everyones potential enemy. Beware. Their smiles and pleasantries are fly-paper. Don't be fooled - they are hired mercenaries paid to do a hatchet-job. If they don't do it well they will be fired and replaced by another who will. Give written answers if at all possible, and keep a copy. Keep a tape recorder handy. In my 63 years I have seldom met an establishment reporter whom I would consider honest and straight (except for the reporters on the old Lynchburg News and the old Richmond News Leader). The new owners of the papers demand things that twist reporters into what they are - and what they are isn't pretty. Bank robbers and pimps appear to have a more honest from the Scofield Reference Bible, there are notable differences. Even the most casual reader can observe that there is little similarity between the two. The Bible is not a mystical jig-saw puzzle which was given only to Scofield and his accomplices to sort out for the rest of us poor fools.

Read the Scofield notes again! Then read Rev. 20:1-9. Note also, that it says absolutely nothing about:

- a return of Jesus Christ (from wherever they think He went);
- a restoration of the Davidic monarchy;
- ✓ setting up a Jewish rulership;
- a newly established kingdom over the earth;
- ✓ the gospel of the kingdom;
- the Davidic covenant; a kingdom, political, Israelitish, universal, the manifestation of God's righteousness in human affairs; nor a thousand years between two physical resurrections.

All those ideas are pulled out of context from other places in the Bible and made to fit the dispensational-futurist system of theology. After all, that's the only way you can make up one of those nice big colored charts to impress those who want instant answers (and depend on their priests instead of God's Word)!

It is vitally important to know the CONTEXT and the times in which John penned Revelation. We must and by the side of John as he writes "to the seven ecclesias which are in Asia." That is the context—Rev 1:4.

John was told by Jesus:

"What thou seest, write in a book, and send it unto the seven ecclesias which are in Asia; unto Ephesus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamos, and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and unto Philadelphia and unto Laodicea." Rev. 1:11.

And remember, the WHOLE BOOK, not just the first three chapters, was to be read by the first and second century reader in those seven ecclesias. The audience was to hear and understand the message as it was written to them—not to some reader 2,000 years yet in the future. The application of the WHOLE book was FIRST TO THEM OF THAT GENERATION, and TO CIRCUMSTANCES AND CONDITIONS OF THEIR DAY.

To say that when John heard the voice, "come up hither," in Rev. 4:1, refers to "a rapture of the church," as Scofield and the fundamentalists do, is to rob those first congregations of the remainder of Revelation both then and now, and is to be "wise" above that which has been written. This is only one example of many which could be made of the contrasts between teachers such as Scofield and what the Scriptures really say. But this must suffice for now.

Belief in a future rule of Christ, what you still believe, then you had better examine yourself and "see if ye be in the faith!"

"Dr." Scofield's Millennium is first and completely a JEWISH concept. He, as well as most of his many followers today, knows nothing of the true people of the Bible: the Christians, wrongly called "gentiles." Futurists, regardless of which denominational cult they join, are nothing but Judaised Christians - not unlike the Pharisees. They are the Babylonians of the present day who believe a Babylonian-Zoroastrian religion. They are the revival of the old Roman Empire and the foretold culmination of the great statue in Daniel's dream of all the empires of the world and ages which is being destroyed by a Kingdom "cut out without hands" which has struck the figure at the feet and is destroying it

Hal Lindsey, a Scofield disciple and author of the best selling book THE LATE GREAT PLANET EARTH, stated not too long ago that "The 'kingdom now' people are the biggest threat fundamental Judeo-Christianity."

That means us! We profess that the Kingdom of God is NOW, not off in the future. And Mr. Lindsey is absolutely correct ... we are the greatest threat to Judeo-Christianity and the beast government which it supports. Thank God we can be a threat to such an abomination!

No, my friend, there is no future millennium. There is no future return of Christ because He is present already. He never left! There won't be two future physical resurrections after you die either

It is time to sort out what we have been trained to believe, and see if the Bible really teaches it. It is time to stop reading into the Bible what we think it says, or would like it to say, or someone tells us it says, and it is time to start rebuilding our house "precept upon precept" on the firmer foundation of the original wording and intent. These things cannot be shaken!

Belief in a future rule of Christ presupposes that He is not reigning NOW, which is an affront to those of us who worship Him as King in a present-day reign.

presupposes that He is not reigning NOW, which is an affront to those of us who worship Him as King in a present-day reign. He is not coming back, because He never left and is here now. If some cannot understand that, then they do not know Him. They know "a christ" but not the Christ of Scripture. Jesus, the true Christ of Scripture, is not an absentee king... off in some supernatural realm in space. He is not in another realm battling "spirits" and "devils" or fallen angels. Jesus said, "Wherever two or three are gathered, there I am in the midst of you." He is here present and a ready help for those of us who follow Him. His Kingdom or reign is not future and it isn't going to last just a thousand years and then fall into disarray while some "god of this world" (the church's devil) gains control. If that is occupation. Pity them, one day they will have to face their maker and they won't be able to lie, twist, and distort their way out of that interview.

HOSKINS REPORT

© 1991 Richard Kelly Hoskins - Editor

December 1, 1991

No. 207

Jerry Falwell and his family were viciously accused by Lynchburg's anti-Christian News & Advance. He was allowed to answer fully. Dick Hoskins was similarly attacked in a front page article. The paper refused to print his answering letter. Welcome New World Order, the censorship of books, death of fair play and denial of freedom of speech and religion! President Andy Jackson was right - the media IS NOT the guardian of liberty - It is the whip of tyrants. Help tear down the paper curtain by passing on this letter after reading.

LYNCHBURG'S NEWSPAPER WAR AGAINST THE PHINEAS PRIESTHOOD

Richard Kelly Hoskins, author of two best sellers, has published a new book Vigilantes Of Christendom, the story of the Phineas priesthood.

Both book and author have come under fire from the N.Y. Times, Nashville Herald, Lynchburg News, Charlottesville Daily Progress, and other newspapers across America.

What is this "super secret" Phineas priesthood that lawbreakers fear, the priesthood that Dick Hoskins has written a history about? Who are its members? Why is America's media so anxious to attack the book and its leading character - Phineas?

What is so important about this Phineas priesthood that newspapers level lengthy front page attacks against both book and author and then not only refuse to print the author's letter responding to their unfounded criticism, but print his address in the article so that those taking exception to his writings will have no trouble locating either him or members of his family. This is playing hardball and the threat is clear. QUIET about God's Phineas priesthood - or some dark night something just might happen.

Then too, what about the freedom of speech and religion that America's left wing media claims for itself? Why don't they extend it to their victims? Their excuse is that Hoskins' answering letter exceeded 300 words. This is a weak excuse. Almost every week the paper classifies "letters" from readers as "columns", letters that are often many times longer than 300 words, and prints them. Perhaps, the real reason is that allowing one to defend himself is reserved for those the newspaper considers "politically correct", or for the rich and famous.

There are only two ways you can find out why the newspapers are trying to drop a paper curtain over Vigilantes, a book that has reached best seller proportions without a single review by an establishment newspaper. You can believe their quotes from people who have axes to hone, their distortions and fantasies - or get a copy of the book and judge for yourself.¹

One Lynchburg reader says: "Next to the Bible it is the best book! have ever read." Another says: "Thank God that some one has the courage to say what must be said in this day and age. No wonder newspapers are trying to suppress your book."! have a stack of letters almost a foot high - all saying the same.

Order your copy now and find out what the newspapers are afraid to tell you. Find out what the paper curtain of the News, the N.Y. Times, and the rest are trying to conceal - and why! Today's media thrive on dissent, violence, and misrepresentations. It is a world they have helped create. They don't like it, but like it or not, America has once again begun to take tentative steps toward law and order. That's what the book is about.

The letter that Dick Hoskins wrote to the News in defense of his books and himself - the letter which the The News returned to him stating that they would not publish, follows:

The Censored Hoskins Answer to "The News" Dear Sir: I would like to comment on certain items in a story you ran on the Phineas priesthood, Byron de la Beckwith (accused of assassinating Medgar Evers), and myself, in a front page article in the News and Daily Advance on November 1, 1991.

Today, lawlessness rules the land. Traditionally, when the law won't protect the people - the people will protect themselves against their oppressors. To justify their actions they call on their ancient religious teachings. The Arabs call on the Koran, the Jews call on the Talmud, and Christians call on the Bible.

The Christian Bible says that God created the Phineas priesthood to enforce obedience to the Law, and the Law is the pillow on which Christendom rests (Numbers 25). All Law abiding Christian men are members of the Phineas priesthood. The scriptures hold him up as the example to follow. St. Phineas is the patron saint of law enforcement. He is a Christian spiritual concept. Other faiths hold that their kings are responsible to enforce their laws. Christian scriptures hold that every Christian man is a king, he may be great or small - but he is still a king, and therefore responsible to help the downtrodden, relieve the oppressed, and protect the defenseless.

I wrote a history on the renaissance of law enforcement called VIGILANTES OF CHRISTENDOM, The Story Of The Phineas Priesthood, Virginia Publishing Company, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, Virginia 24505

The Start Of A Media Hype

An AP story, datelined Jackson, Mississippi, May 24th, and printed in the Knoxville Journal, states that Delmar Dennis, the FBI informer who is scheduled to testify against Byron de la Beckwith (now up for his 3rd trial for the 30-year- old killing of Medgar Evers of the NAACP), states that he WILL NOT testify. He gave as his reason that a super-secret terrorist organization called the Phineas priesthood is after him.

Three weeks later, on June 15, after the news had gone around the world that Dennis had been scared from testifying against Beckwith, the Knoxville Journal reversed itself and said that Dennis had just been kidding. The article reports: "Dennis said he cannot legally refuse to testify, and knew that when he wrote the letter." Of course, this is after his book was ready for sale. Evidently, the AP missed this.

On the same page in the next column to this announcement is another report that says, "Dennis went back to Mississippi Friday, not to go to court, but to sell a book."

The AP picked up Dennis' first announcement and ignored the second. Based on all this activity by Dennis, Richard Kelly Hoskins, described in the article as a "white supremacist", the author of the history of the Phineas priesthood, VIGILANTES OF CHRISTENDOM, came under scrutiny. After all, it is the super- secret-terrorist-organization of Phineas, described in the Hoskins book, that is said to be responsible.

Dennis blasphemes God's institution by calling it a shadowy secret terrorist organization, and saying that it is after him for 4 being a witness. His being a witness is no crime. Thus, God's priesthood being after him would make it unlawful, and God an unjust tyrant.

If in fact Dennis has committed a bona fide crime, he should confess his sin and get right with God. He certainly can't flee where God can't find him, and blasphemy doesn't help.

Dennis coined the blasphemy, the Nashville Herald added their voice, the commonwealth attorney of Hinds County, Mississippi gave it credence by repeating it, the New York Times repeated it again, and the Lynchburg News - once again. A lie repeated five times is still a lie. God's priesthood is not a shadowy terrorist organization. It's in the open where all can see.

The News left the Dennis affair and concentrated on the author. Diligent research on their part uncovered the fact that I wrote OUR NORDIC RACE in 1958 (The name "Our White Race" didn't have the pizzazz). I believe it is the only history of the white race now still left in print. Other races have scores. It has remained in constant demand since it was first written and has been pirated at least 30 times. I have been told that as many as 500,000 or more may have been printed. I don't know. I have been trying to get someone in the media to notice it for years. It only costs $6 from the above address. The News wouldn't begrudge Whites having one little history book -would they? If they would - why?

In spite of what the N.Y. Times says, I'm really not a White supremacist and anti-Black - any more than Mr. Woodrum, who wrote the article, is a Black supremacist and anti-White. Neither am I a racist. I do not believe that any race should rule another. Personally, I prefer my own. Others may prefer their own. I see nothing wrong with preferring one's own. It would be fairer if people were given a choice.

Your article says that I am a "friend and associate" of Mr. Beckwith. I'm sure I met Mr. Beckwith at one of the talks I have given to church groups in Tennessee, North Carolina, or perhaps Georgia. I remember him as a kindly old man who laughed at his longtime persecution by the media. I printed a letter he wrote to my newsletter, in which he commented after reading my book - "Phineas for president," which is another way of approving "law and order" in the office of president. I think that was a very proper feeling. Incidentally, I have also met the Queen of England and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., if you think it matters.

As you say, I write the HOSKINS REPORT newsletter - $15/10mos. In May, I copied a news item from THE NEW AMERICAN magazine, Apr. 9, p29, which stated, "Another potential witness who was not called in the original trial (of Beckwith) is Delmar Dennis ... Dennis said in a book, published 16 years ago, that Beckwith told him he had shot Evers. ... Dennis was a Baptist minister."

I added the editorial comment: "Sixteen years after Beckwith's first trial they brush off the tired old statements by another preacher-informer for a last ditch THIRD trial. The talk' should be about double jeopardy! Or better - about informers. Is it true that almost every FBI informer is an informer to keep from prison himself? Are informers' crimes reviewed by juries? If not - they certainly should be." I thought those were good questions. I still think so. The use of captive informers by government agencies to produce evidence to convict hapless people has played havoc with American justice. These are the comments you say Dennis perceives as criticism. I'm sorry he feels that way.

Your article says that the "sources" the media contacted to learn about this new organization, the Phineas priesthood, are puzzled since no one has ever heard of it. This is what one might expect when you remove Bible study from the classroom.

It appears that the aspiring assistant district attorney of Hinds County, Mississippi, eager to justify his politically inspired persecution of Beckwith, accepted Dennis' blasphemous statements like a drowning man clutches a straw, and repeated them. This shows the depth of his education and spiritual development. He's now reportedly diligently looking for a "Phineas priest". All true God-fearing men are members of the Phineas priesthood, but they are not members of the priesthood that the assistant district attorney is imagining in the dark shadows of his mind. Perhaps some kindly person will take pity and talk to him.

Your article quotes a Mr. Halpern as saying that, "It's conceivable that someone could act on the suggestions in Hoskins' book." Yes, it is conceivable that someone might act on one of the Biblical quotes in my book. Not likely in certain circles, but conceivable. But, if that person acts on a Biblical command in an unlawful manner - the law abiding men of Christendom appointed by God to enforce his laws will be on him like ducks on a June bug. Count on it!

Your article of November 1 called my writings extremist. I am not an extremist. Quoting Biblical scripture is not extreme. I quote scripture in all my writings. For Christians, telling the truth and dealing fairly is the Way - and to them the Way is the natural way.

Thank you for quoting someone who said that he doesn't think that I am dangerous. I don't think you are dangerous either. Neither do I belong to any extremist organization. Not the Nazi party, ACLU, NAACP, Communist Party, KKK, ADL, Democratic Party, Republican Party, right wing, or left wing organization. I belong to a Christian service organization that distributes Bibles, a nature preservation organization, a couple of genealogical organizations, and teach two Sunday schools. I have made a point to distance myself from all organizations that might be considered controversial to prevent being mentioned in a derogatory manner in the newspapers. Now I find that one only has to write an unpopular book they wish to censor.

I have met as many extremists as you have. As a writer and historian I have interviewed many of them. I have spoken on the same platform with scientists, blacks, healers, Jews, communists, Catholics, right wingers, and goodness knows who else. But, hey - this is America! Remember?

You say that I doubt that 6 million died in the HOLOCAUST - as if an honest doubt were a crime. An Israeli historian doubts. He recently stated in the Jerusalem Post that only 3.2 million Jews died in WW II from all causes. The old Aushwitz camp markers claiming almost 4 million deaths have been replaced with ones claiming a fraction of the earlier figure, and Poland claims that most of them were Polish. The Soviets have recently released the Auschwitz death certificates captured from the Germans - 75,000 of them - that's all. A leading British historian says that he believes the whole story is nothing but wartime propaganda that has not died. Which answer is the truth? Which is permissible? No deaths at all? 75,000? 3.2 million? 6 million? or what? Would it make your paper feel better and make me "politically correct" if I said I believed it was really 6 million? Why can't I believe another figure if I feel the first one is in error? The Lynchburg News seems to have many answers - tell me what I should believe so that I too may become wise.

Yes, you are correct again. In 1985 I wrote WAR CYCLES / PEACE CYCLES. It too can be gotten from the above address if people really want to see what I actually said. It is the economic history I learned while working on Wall Street, a story vastly different from the one told by the media. In it I predicted the Mideast War which has just been fought, the present anti-South Africa crusade (launched for economic reasons), the four-year-economic cycle, the massive bank failures now taking place, the 50-year cycle, the coming collapse of the municipal bond market, the next commodity collapse, and the next bull market in stocks. Over 20,000 copies are in print and it is still selling well. And, almost every comment in it about Jews is from Jewish sources. Could you write a history of finance and not mention Jews?

Your front page headlines label me as extremist, yet you quote as a source for your information the Anti-Defamation League, Klanwatch, and the Center for Democratic Renewal." These are some of the most extremist groups in the entire country. Radicals go to radicals to get radical opinions conservatives go to conservatives to get conservative opinions. The FBI ran an exhaustive investigation on me and cleared me for top secret while I was in the service. I've been investigated and cleared - has Mr. Woodrum? - have you?

In the meantime - God is biasphemed, Mr. Dennis sells his books, the assistant district attorney of Hinds County gathers votes, I'm labeled a white supremacist, the media gets grist for its mill, and Mr. de la Beckwith languishes in jail, and Beckwith is deserving of better treatment. At least, he is deserving of a speedy trial - and waiting 20 years to get it is certainly pushing it. In fact - it's disgraceful. Sincerely, Richard Kelly Hoskins

Editor's Note: I think that if you plan on getting any of my books you had better go ahead and do it. Remember - it is the day of The New World Order - and that kind of order is fully capable of censoring both books and the authors that wrote them.

DAVID DUKE: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: What do you think of David Duke?" - H. H. - California

ED: What I am about to say is important.

The only way an aspiring white politician can secure media coverage today is to promise the minorities access to his women.

David Duke on the Donnahue Show said that he would not like it if his daughter married someone of another race, but he would still accept her if she did.

The scriptures teach: "If the priest's daughter also be married unto a stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien), she may not eat of an offering of the holy thing (The Word). But if the priests' daughter ("Ye are a ... a royal priesthood." 1 Pet. 2:9) be a widow or divorced, and have no child, and is returned unto her fathers' house ... she shall eat of her fathers' meat; but there shall no stranger (Heb: zûwr) eat thereof."Lev 22:10-13.

Duke, a self-proclaimed "bornagain-Christian", took the media's litmus test on racial intermarriage and passed. He passed the media test and failed God's. "By their acts ye shall know them." Now he gets media coverage and the resulting underdog sympathy vote.

Remember, Duke was a KKK man. I have warned you about the KKK. I spent the summer speaking against it. I regard both the KKK and the Nazi party as federally controlled fly-paper organizations designed to trap the unsuspecting. Active membership may equal to a prison term. The suppressed truth is that the Federal government ran the KKK in the South after the War Between The States, from 1869 until the late 1870s, which is why Southern intellectuals flee these type of organizations. In the 1920s the re-born KKK became acceptable only because it was strictly a political organization. It was then destroyed by the media when radical agents provacateur infiltrated and committed atrocities in their name. The present KKK is a 1869 type in my opinion. It's all in Vigilantes.

If scientists are reading the signals correctly, we may be headed into a global cooling trend that could bring massive tragedies for mankind or several years now, odd and unpleasant things have been happening to weather round the world. Unknown thousands of people have died of famine in well-publicized droughts south of the Sahara. It is not so well known that this drought belt is part of a much larger dry-weather pattern extending all the way through the Middle East to India, South Asia and North China. Drought has struck Central America as well. But while these regions were drying up, places as widely scattered as the midwestern

Not too long ago, if anyone asked whether something was going wrong with the climate, weather scientists answered with a slightly superior "No." It was assumed that

THE MYTH OF SOCIALIZATION

By Rev. Rousas John Rushdoony

The sense of community once marked the United States, and, from one area to another, a variety of cultures and communities existed. As immigrant people, we settled close to our kind, and I can remember how from county to county, and town to town, there was a distinctive character, a dornant Christian group, and a strong sense of community. I can recall, in some areas, where as many as six generations, a long time in the United States, had lived in the same home or the same farm.

However, James Patterson and Peter Kim, in The Day America Told the Truth (1991), describe in one chapter "The End of the Hometown in America: The End of Community." People have lost respect for private property; they are no longer charitable; they want to be left alone; and their relationship to their children is not good.

Meanwhile, we have a militant statist effort to compel socialization in the school, and the workplace, and in neighborhoods. Its failure is very conspicuous.

One of the major arguments against Christian schools and home schools is that the children are deprived of the necessary socialization which they see as basic to modern education.

The words society and community have closely related meanings: something is closely shared and held, and this has during most of history been a common faith. The word communion tells it all: it refers to the central sacrament of the Christian faith. In the pre-conquest era, the English form of the Apostle's Creed read, where we now say, "the communion of saints," "of the saints the society." The enduring basis of community has not been race nor nationality but religious faith, communion in Christ for Christians.

The primary society of Christendom has been the Christian family. It has been a community of faith. Its stress has been above all, first and foremost, communion with God in Christ. The foundation of community is seen as supernatural and sacramental. No naturalistic, statist demand for community can replace its Christian and sacramental basis. Of course, the statist and humanistic hostility to the family has been anti-Christian to the core. Church and family must go, and certainly the Christian and home schools, to make way for the state as the "true community." George Bernard Shaw wrote, in The Quintessence of Ibsen, "unless Woman repudiates her womanliness, her duty to her husband, to her dical individualism has been promoted among men, and children to destroy the Christian family and community.

Second, in the Christian family which is truly under God the basic socialization is with adults, parents, grandparents, and relatives. In our humanistic and statist model of public or statist schools, the socialization stressed is with other children. But maturity must be the goal, and, in the familycommunity, the child is prepared for adulthood and maturity by the centrality of the family. Adolescence is a modern phenomenon, and it has occurred only as civilizations decay and collapse. A dying culture promotes rebellion among its youth, whereas once it meant, in stable and Godly societies, the happy entrance to maturity. The rite of confirmation, once common to most churches, meant confirmation in the faith by affirming for oneself the baptismal vows made by one's parents; it meant entrance into maturity and adultod; and it meant that one was confirmed to change the ... orld. Having been made a new creation by Jesus Christ, the persons confirmed were now introduced to the mature task of bringing about the Kingdom of God in their lives, calling, and community.

Where socialization with other children is the primary stress, the result is not maturity but an emphasis on perpetual childhood. Maturity as a goal is replaced with childhood as a goal. Instead of the faith governing the person, then peer pressure does. Some have held, and with good reason, that today the two governing forces among people are peer pressure on the one hand, and an anarchistic individualism on the other; neither manifests maturity.

Third, this emphasis is destructive of the family. It shifts authority from the family to either the group or the individual. Another factor has contributed to the destruction of the family: welfarism. Welfarism dislocates authority. It shifts it from the family to the state. It is not at all surprising that so many welfare families are fatherless. The man's authority and headship are nullified, and he abandons the family and his manhood.

Fourth, socialization then works outward and downward. The pattern is not only set for the child by forces outside the family but also by the school. With the family's influence undermined, moral authority is replaced by immoral authority. Socialization then takes place with the worst elements in the school or area. The state school, with its emphasis on socialization with the peer group, also undermines its own influence. Its teachers are the object of disrespect and violence. The Christian and home school are attacked for lacking socialization, but what is meant by that is simply that the evil state-prescribed socialization is avoided. Fellowship with godly children and with godly parents and family members is somehow detested by these statists.

Fifth, in demanding socialization through public or statist education, these humanists are insisting that true socialization must be beyond good and evil, without any moral considerations. "The real world" for these educators is an amoral and godless world in which all Biblical considerations are invalid. The only values tolerated or taught are autonomous, self-created values. In other words, socialization for them means and begins with the tempter's program, every man as his own god, knowing or determining for himself what is good and evil (Gen. 3:5). This type of education turns schooling into an agency of man's fall and a perpetuator thereof.

Sixth, where peer pressure prevails, as it does in godless schooling, the moral and intellectual excellence is resented. The stress on peer equality means that superiority is out of step with the rest of the people. Basketball coach Al McGuire once observed, "I think the world is run by C students." It is indeed, and the situation grows worse daily. Cornelius Van Til spoke of the direction of all anti-Christian thinking as "integration downward into the void." Before long, we will feel that rule by C students is wonderful, as the D students take over! Unless we re-Christianize society, the disintegration will continue. Already, Patterson and Kim have found that among the sleaziest occupations, in the minds of most Americans, are drug dealing, organized crime bosses, TV evangelists, prostitutes, local politicians, and congressmen.

The humanistic attempts to effect socialization have left us a deeply divided people. In the name of socialization, we have hate-mongering against Christians and their schools. We have a "society" of conflict, and morality is now equated in some circles with hating Christians, businessmen, parents, employers, the military, the police, and so on and on. These people equate morality with hating various groups and persons!

The liberal myth of socialization is an evil myth. It is time to counter-attack and to see it as the evil that it is.

The Boy Martyr of Brentwood

In the morning of 26th March, 1555 the whole of Brentwood town was in a state of excitement. Many people had gathered in the street. Why those priests, friars, monks and other dignitaries of the Romish Church? Why those soldiers with bows and spears and other weapons?

They had assembled to see a young citizen of Brentwood - William Hunter by name, suffer death by burning.

What awful crime had he done to deserve such dire punishment?

Some months before he had dared to read the Word of God. In the chapel he was seen reading the Bible by a servant of the Bishop named Atwell. "Why meddlest thou with the Bible?" he angrily enquired. The youth made the modest and courteous reply that he 'read it to his comfort'. Atwell retorted, "If you do not turn, you and many other heretics will broil for your opinions."

William Hunter - fearing to implicate his parents and home in the doom which seemed to await him - fled from the town.

Returning after a brief time he was at once seized and thrown into prison. Bonner - Bishop of London, endeavoured to persuade him to recant by the offer of a sum of money and a position in his household. The reply given by the young martyr may well serve as an example to us in these days of compromise and indifference. "My lord", said he, "if you cannot persuade my conscience by the Scripture, I cannot turn from God for the love of the world, for I count all things but loss in comparison with the love of Christ."

After his trial by the Bishop of London he was taken back to Brentwood, and as there was no prison in the town, was guarded by constables in the Swan an. There his mother saw him and to her, William said, "For a little pain I shall receive a crown of life and may you not be glad for that?" His mother answered saying that she thanked God her son was such a champion for Christ.

On the morning of his death his father broke through the crowd saying, "God be with thee, son William," to which he replied, "Be of good comfort, father, we shall meet again where we shall rejoice together."

While he was chained to the stake, a pardon was offered if he would recant. This he refused and amidst jeers, threats and taunts the flames leaped around him. He exclaimed amid the fires, "I am not afraid Lord! Lord! receive my spirit." He then prayed, "Son of God shine upon me," and immediately the sun broke through the dark clouds and the light shone full upon his face. It was as though God gave him an outward and visible sign that prayer was heard in heaven, His dwelling place. Soon his head bowed in the smoke and William Hunter, but nineteen years of age, yielded his life for the Truth and sealed it with his blood, but the trumpet sounded for him on the other side.

A SHORT, SHORT STORY

"Years ago, a man knelt with his pastor and prayed as he committed himself to God to tithe. His first week's pay was $10.00 and the tithe was $1.00.

As he grew older, he became more prosperous. His tithes became $7.50 a week, then $10.00. He moved to another city and his tithe was $100.00 a week, then $200.00, then $500.00. He sent his pastor friend a wire, "Come to see me."

The pastor arrived at the man's beautiful home. They had a good time talking over old times.

Finally the man came to the point. 'You remember that promise I made years ago to tithe? How can I get released? When I made the promise I only had to give a dollar, but now it's $500.00. I can't afford to give away money like that."

The old pastor looked at his friend, and said, I'm afraid we cannot get a release from the promise, but there is something we can do. We can kneel and ask God to shrink your income so you can afford to give a dollar again." Author Unknown

Health Break

With Ken Anderson Sorry, But... (For Men Only)

Signs of prostate enlargement, a common problem in men over age 50, causes variable degrees of bladder outlet obstruction. It affects about 55% of all males between ages 40 and 59 years of age. It involves the overgrowth of cells and tissues within the prostate. As prostate cells enlarge, the bladder's outflow of urine will progressively diminish and sometimes stop.

The flow of urine will decrease in size and force, or a sense of incomplete bladder emptying can result, thus causing several visits to the restroom at night. Incomplete bladder emptying causes stagnation and infection and if not corrected, it can inevitably result in progressive kidney failure and azotemia (an excess of urea and other waste in the blood).

CONVENTIONAL TREATMENT

Conventional treatment involves catheter drainage, estrogenic hormones, drugs, prostatic massage, and surgery. As men age, the percentage goes, up, with an increase to 80% of the men having a prostate problem over the age of 60. Second only to cataract removal in the number of surgical procedures performed on Medicare-eligible men is prostatectomy (prostate surgery). There are about 400,000 prostate operations a year in America at an estimated cost of $3-4 billion, according to Harvard Medical School.

It is also a fact that only 25% of those surgeries were mandatory (the men could no longer urinate, were bleeding, or had recurrent urinary-tract infections). It might have been mandatory in some surgeon's opinion, but certainly not that high of a percent was necestry if they had tried natural, atritional, health building and/or cleansing programs st or in place of the medical method.

DOCUMENTED RISKS

With prostate surgeries, the risk is well documented: .2 to 1.5% die within 90 days, 1% develop urinary incontinence (cannot hold urine), and 5 to 10 % become impotent. One study showed that after this operation, death is a 70% higher likelihood in the 5 years following the surgery. After this 5 year period, the death rate drops to 20 - 45% more than the national average for men in e same age group. Another operation is a balloon dilation but its side effects have not yet been subjected to any rigorous controlled testing.

Prostate enlargement interferes with urination to some degree in 80% of men over the age of 60. Two of the common drugs used to treat this condition are terazosin (Hytrin) and prazosin, neither of which is the natural way to help make healthy tissue. It is true that there can be several causes of prostate enlargement -- none of which are a drug deficiency! In many cases, it is an infection of the prostate that causes the enlargement. When it is infected, it swells, thus cutting off urine flow. Doctors will operate, give antibiotics, or use drugs, all of which have side effects.

NATURAL IMMUNE BUILDERS

When any infection occurs in the body, there are certain nutrients and other health practices that can help alleviate these infections. God's natural immune builders or infection fighters are: Vitamin A, Vitamin C, Bioflavonoids, Zinc, Garlic, Acidophilus, Protein, Enzymes, Thymus tabs, and any or all of several herbs (Golden Seal, Ginseng, Comfrey, Echinacea, Juniper Berries & Rose Hips). If the condition has progressed past the infection, to the point there is or has been damage done to the prostate, I would suggest taking prostate tabs (protein specifically for the prostate), the herb Saw Palmetto Berries in capsule form (this herb seems to inhibit dihydrotestosterone, a hormone that causes the prostate cells to multiply excessively), eating pumpkin seeds (about one handful a day), Vitamin E and Vitamin F, along with a free amino acid supplement. Lots of walking and jumping on a mini trampoline for 3 minutes, 4 times per day may be helpful. Fresh fruit and vegetable juice every day is advisable, but do not use sugar, coffee, or alcohol.

I know of many men who, after suffering for weeks (and some had taken antibiotics with little or no results), went back to work in a few days, after going on a cleansing program and giving their body nutritional support. If a low protein diet (or bad digestion) can be replaced by a high protein diet (or improved digestion), the production of ' antibodies can increase by 100 times within a few hours. There is and has been success. Men do not have to suffer or always have an operation.

If natural help is not done, it can eventually lead to cancer of the prostate, which often leads to bone cancer — a very painful type of cancer. Like everything else dealing with health problems, prevention is the key: a good diet, a few supplements and exercise are a must in today's toxic environment.

TESTING AVAILABLE

The reason I mention toxins is that "cadmium" is a toxin that destroys or replaces zinc in men, causing a deficiency and often a prostate problem. Adding zinc rich foods and supplementing with zinc can help but a cleansing is also needed of the cadmium and any other toxic element that might be causing problems. Testing for the minerals and toxic elements can be done through the mail which can pinpoint what your particular system might be lacking or toxic in. By finding out, you can know which of the above supplements are needed and supply only those. It takes the guesswork out of which nutrients are needed.

With Martha Barley "TALEBEARING IN AMERICA"

Have you noticed how our government and media are encouraging talebearing? Think back to two recent cases that have gotten huge play in our media; the sexual harassment charge against Clarence Thomas and the William Kennedy Smith rape trial. How would both of these cases have been handled under God's As it tells us in Deuteronomy we must have two or three witnesses so that a matter can be established. In both of the above cases there was only one witness, so the cases would have immediately been dismissed. You see it is irrelevant whether or not these two men were guilty. If you do not have two witnesses, you can not charge someone with a crime. Does this mean that these men, if guilty, will go unpunished? No, it means that man does not have the authority to punish these men; but God knows whether or not they are guilty and He will punish them for their sins as he punishes each one of us for ours.

Have you noticed how our whole judicial system only requires one witness -- and they can be anonymous? Do you have a Silent Witness program in your community? about a Child Protective Services or its equivalent? Do you alize that with ...ionymous phone call your children can be taken from UnBiblical? You bet! riow have we gotten so far away from what our forefathers fought for? And more importantly how can we get back to what God intended?

I suggest that our first steps are prayer and repentance. How many of us have believed someone guilty on the hearsay of one individual? How many of us have not followed the steps required in Matthew 18 regarding disputes among brethren, but instead held anger and malice in our hearts wards that brother? Remember what it says in I John 4:20-21 which says: "If any man says, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar; for he that loveth not his brother, whom he hath seen, how can he love God, whom he hath not seen? And this commandment have we from Him, that he who loveth God love his brother also."

The next step is another big one. Whenever someone comes to you, you need to stop and make sure that this situation involves you. If the person is coming to you because he's angry with someone else, tell him to go to that person. Don't allow yourself to be a listener of gossip or allow yourself to be put in the middle of something that is none of your business. Now if it does involve you, there are two witnesses to the event and you need to follow Matthew 18 to do your part to resolve the situation. If it is not important enough for you to do that, it certainly is not important enough to be bitter and angry about.

We also need to examine how we resolve disputes within our own families. Do we allow talebearing or tattletelling? Do we make our children go through Matthew 18 when they have disputes with their brothers, sisters, or friends? Perhaps if we start following this process when they are small they will continue it when they are big. Remember what is said in Isaiah 28:10: "For precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; bere a little, and there a little."

It hit me like a ton of bricks the other day that most of us are teaching our children to be good communists when we allow talebearing. Instead of their differences resolving scripturally, they come to the government or state (Mom or Dad) and expect it to mete out judgment on the basis of one witness. Can we do that? Yes, but is it scripturally correct? NO! Unless we have two witnesses to an event we cannot make a judgment. Do you realize how much power is given to people when judgments are made on the basis of one witness? What happens when one child is always believed over another? That child realizes he can get the other in trouble at any time. The other child also realizes it and is bullied by it.

Let's use a hypothetical situation. Johnny comes running and crying to Mommy saying, "Tommy, hit me!" What should Mommy do? She needs to calm the children down and then require the two to talk to one another and state why they are mad at the other one. Once they have communicated what sin they feel the other one has done, they should then have to ask for the proper corrective action by the sinner.

The role Mommy plays should be one of a mediator rather than a judge. If the children both state that one of them has broken a rule, then Mom has two witnesses and the child should receive the appropriate punishment. We need to admonish the offender to seek the other's forgiveness and to remind the offendee of his obligation to grant forgiveness "seventy times seven." This teaches children to accept the fact that another person's feelings are important. We all need to learn to put ourselves in each other's shoes and change our behavior if it is upsetting to others.

Forgive Us Heavenly Father

Forgive us, Heavenly Father, why did we let this be, we butcher our own children, in the land that once was free. Their blood cries out against us, all the small ones that we've slain.

no excuse for what we've done, or reason to explain.

We murdered tiny babies, and looked the other way, and didn't hear their silent scream, as their life was torn away.

How did we allow this?
What have we become?
The torture of the helpless, what evil thing we've done.

Twenty seven million, have been slaughtered in our land did we take the time to stop it?

Or to even understand?

Cut, and burned, and ripped apart;

the choices that we made, we chose to have blood on our hands,

a debt that must be paid.
The grapes of wrath await us,
we'll drink most bitter wine,
when America is punished;

TRUTH FROM THE WORD!

Joshua 10:12-13 II Kings 20:8-11

"Did you know that the space program is busy proving that what has been called "myth" in the Bible is true? Mr. Harold Hill, President of the Curtis Engine Company in Baltimore, MD, and a consultant in the space program, relates the following:

"I think one of the most amazing things that God has for us today happened recently to our astronauts and space scientists at Green Belt, MD. They were checking the position of the sun, moon, and planets out in space where they would be 100 and 1000 years from now. We have to know this so we don't send a satellite up and have it bump into something later on in its orbits. We have to lay out the orbit in terms of the life of the satellite, and where the planets will be so the whole thing will not bog down! They ran the computer measurement back and forth over the centuries and it came to a halt. The computer storped and put up a red signal, which meant that there was thing wrong either with the info fed into it or with the results as compared to the standards. They called in the service downment to check it out and they said, "It's perfect." The Ib... head-of operations said, "What's wrong?" "Well, we have found there is a day missing in space in elapsed time." They scratched their heads and tore their hair. There was no answer.

"One religious fellow on the team said, "You know, one time I was in Sunday School and they talked about the sun standing still." They didn't believe him, but they did not have any other answer so they said, 'Show us.' So he got the Bible and went back to the book of Joshua, where they found a pretty ridiculous statement for anybody who has 'common sense.' There they found the Lord saying to Joshua, 'Fear them not, I have delivered them into thy hand; there shall not a man of them stand before thee.' Joshua was concerned because he was surrounded by the enemy and if darkness fell they would overpower them. So Joshua asked the Lord to make the sun s. , still! That's right! 'The sun stood still and the moon stayed and hasted not to go down about a whole day.' The space men said, 'There is the missing day!' Well, they checked the computers going back into the time it was written and found it was close but not close enough! The elapsed time that was missing back in Joshua's day was 23 hours and 20 minutes ... not a whole day. They read the Bible and there it said 'about (approximately) a day.'

"Those little words in the Bible are important. But they were still in trouble because if you cannot account for 40 minutes you'll be in trouble 1000 years from now. Forty minutes had to be found because it can be multiplied many times over in orbits. Well, this religious fellow also remembered somewhere in the Bible where it said the sun went BACKWARDS. The space men told him he was out of his mind. But they got the book, and read these words in II Kings, Chapter 20, 'Hezekiah, on his death-bed, was visited by the prophet Isaiah who told him that he was not going to die. Hezekiah did not believe him and asked for a sign as proof.' Isaiah said, 'Do you want the sun to go ahead ten degrees?' Hezekiah said, 'It's nothing for the sun to go ahead ten degrees, but let the shadow return backward ten degrees.' Isaiah spoke to the Lord and the Lord brought the shadow ten degrees BACKWARD! Ten degrees is exactly 40 minutes! Twenty-three hours and 20 minutes in Joshua, plus 40 minutes in II Kings make the missing 24 hours the space travelers had to log in the log-book as being the missing day in the universe! Isn't that amazing? Our God is rubbing their noses in His TRUTH!

Presbyterians tackle thorny question of sex

NEW YORK: American Presbyterians, the fourth-largest religious order in the US, will be posed next month the most divisive issue the church has faced in two centuries — sex.

A 196-page report, prepared over three years by a 17-member task force, recom-mends the church of 2.9 million American re-evalaute their attitude to sex before marriage, homosexuals in the church, abortion and masturbation.

The report, Keeping Body and Soul Together: Sexuality, Spirituality and Social Justice, has already caused splits in the church, with 89 of the 174 American presbyteries objecting to the recommendations. dations.

The issues will be put to the vote of 650 church delegates at the 203rd General Assembly in Baltimore next month.

The ancient yin-yang symbol was chosen by SIECUS as its official emblem. According to ancient Chinese tradition, yin represents the passive feminine principle in nature, which is exhibited in darkness, wetness, evil, and death; yang, the active masculine principle, is exhibited in light, dryness, good, and life. The union of the two is said to produce all that comes to be.

The symbol itself dates back at least to the fourth century B.C., and has been identified with the Eastern philosophical religions of Confucianism, Buddhism, and Taoism. In the Western world it has long been adopted into the symbolism of myth, magic, astrology, and witchcraft. In each case it represents a man-centered natural universe made up of male and female principles with no place for God.

The selection of this esoteric symbol by SIECUS to represent its own philosophy immediately suggests a close relationship with the man-centered philosophies that the symbol has historically represented. The SIECUS Circle is an attempt to explore the history of SIECUS itself and the many facets of its relationship with other members of an atheistic cartel operating in America.

> Any similarity between the Ying and Yang symbol and Qld. Ed. Dept symbol are of course purely coincidental and unintentional????

Mixed-Faith Service at Westminster Abbey 3

THE Joint Commonwealth Societies Council, which organises the Commonwealth Day Observance service at Westminster Abbey, seems determined that the name of Jesus be well nigh obliterated from the service.

Although His name is above every name, it was mentioned only twice at the service last year, and only once at this year's service on March 11th.

Not only that, but "a Sikh chanted praises to his lord in Punjabi, and a Hindu chanted about the god Krishna in Sanskrit. A Buddhist read a discourse of the Buddha." And words of the Islamic religion, which denies the deity of Christ, also "floated around the historic abbey"

It is particularly distressing that the service was attended by both the Queen and the heir to the throne, the Prince of Wales.

A petition, with 77,000 signatures, was presented to the Palace. Its request, that the Observance should not include worship of non-Christian deities and not marginalise Jesus Christ, was rejected, "lest it upset people of other faiths."

This shocking response is grieving and deeply upsetting to all who "love His blessed name." They know, by blessed experience, that "there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved."

May we and our rulers learn that the name of this glorious Saviour and King is the name May we and our rulers learn that the name at which every knee shall yet bow. Presbyterian Rulers particularly are counselled: Now therefore kings be wise; be taught, ye judges of the earth: Serve God in fear, and see that ye join trembling with your mirth. Kiss ye the Son, lest in his ire ye perish from the way, If once his wrath begin to burn: bless'd all that on him stay.

"I consider it as nothing less than a question of freedom or slavery. And in proportion to the magnitude of the subject, ought to be the freedom of debate. It is only in this way that we can hope to arrive at truth and fulfill the great responsibility which we hold to God and our country. Should I keep back my opinions at such a time, through fear of giving offense, I should consider myself guilty of treason toward my country, and of an act of disloyalty toward the majesty of Heaven, which I revere above all earthly kings.

man to indulge in the illusions of ope. We are apt to shut our eyes against a painful truth -- and to listen to the song of that siren al she transforms us into beast. Is this the part of wise men, engaged in a great and arduous struggle for liberty? Are we disposed to be of the number of those who, having eyes, see not, and having ears, hear not, the things which so nearly concern their temporal salvation? For my part, whatever anguish of spirit it might cost, I am willing to know

They tell us, sir, that we are weak -- unable to cope with so ormidable an adversary. But when shall we be stronger? Will it be the next week, or the next year? Will it be when we are totally disarmed, and when a British guard shall be stationed in every house? Shall we gather strength by irresolution and inaction? Shall we acquire the means of effectual resistance by lying supinely on our backs, and hugging the delusive phantom of hope, until our enemies shall have bound us hand and foot?

Sir, we are not weak, if we make a proper use of those means which the God of nature hath placed in our power. Three millions of people, armed in the holy cause of liberty, and in such a country as that which we possess, are invincible by any force which our enemy can send against us. Besides, sir, we shall not fight our battles alone. There is a just God who presides over the destinies of nations, and who will raise up friends to fight our battles for us. The battle, sir, is not to the strong alone; it is to the vigilant, the active, the brave.

Gentlemen may cry, peace, peace -- but there is no peace. The war is actually begun. The next gale that sweeps from the North will bring to our ears the clash of resounding arms! Our brethren are already in the field! Why stand we here idle? What is it that gentlemen wish? What would they have? Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

HUGUENOT TERCENTENARY

Wake Up Magazine

"In the 17th century the church of France fell under the control of the state and any divergent faith was regarded as heretical and treasonable. The revocation in 1685 of the Edict of Nantes deprived the Protestheir religious of freedom. Rather than forego their faith and be forced to accept the doctrines of the Roman Catholic Church, about 250,000 Huguenots fled from France to settle in countries like Germany, England, Switzerland and Denmark. Also, be-Ruse of its proximity, more an 50,000 fled to the Calvinistic Netherlands where they ere received with compaso10n.

These events took place at a time when the young settlement in the Cape of Good Hope in Southern Africa needed more colonists and the Council of Seventeen, directors of the large Dutch East Indian Company (DEIC), a large trading company in the Netherlands, encouraged the Huguenots to settle at the Cape. 1988 marks the tercentenary of the arrival of our Huguenot-Israel kinsmen in South Africa.

It was in 1688 that seven DEIC ships with about 200 Huguenot men, women and children, reached the small Dutch settlement in the Cape which had been established by Jan van Riebeeck just 36 years earlier. They were settled in what is now the Stellenbosch district of Cape Province and within one generation they had become assimilated, discarding their French language and even pronouncing their names in the Dutch manner.

The huguenots who arrived in the Cape had plied 31 different trades in France such as baking, carpentry, wagon-building, surgery and farming. The DEIC had, however, brought them to the Cape primarily as farmers. Although they had to develop virgin land and in the first few years often experienced crop failures, the newcomers were hard-working people most of whom eventually succeeded in their new way of life.

Although they numbered only one sixth of the inhabitants of the Cape, they made a contribution to the population out of all proportion to size, and left a rich legacy to the country. While ceasing to speak French, they also exercised a great influence on the development of the Afrikaans language. Today, nine Huguenot surnames are found among the country's 36 most numerous families. Examples

Nel (50,000), Du Plessis (49,000), Fourie (47,500), Du Toit (40,000), Le Roux (32,000), Viljoen (30,000), Marais & Joubert (28,000) and Du Preez (26,000).

The original emigres who came to the Cape and the other Huguenots who followed them, are commemorated by our Israel kinsmen in the South Africa of today because it is recognized that these staunchly Calvinistic Israelite Protestants have played a very important part in shaping the sturdy character of the Afrikaaner community."

Stalin's Involvement In The European Economic Community

Wake Up Magazine

"Addressing the Soviet politburo in 1926, Joseph Stalin said:

"There should be a Federated State of Europe, to which the U.S.S.R. would adhere and in which, depending on the pace of revolutionary development achieved by our comrades in the Socialist movement, Great Britain should be included. Once Great Britain had been absorbed the U.S.S.R. would, with the assistance of its comrades in the Baltic States, France and Italy, become the dominant power." [APM Editor's Note: And yet we are told that Communism is Dead?]

Scrolls refer to Messiah

LOS ANGELES: Newly released text from the Dead Sea scrolls mentioned the execution of a Messiah-like leader, suggesting that some ancient Jews shared the Christian concept of the slaying of a Messiah, scholars said yesterday.

One fragment contained five lines of text that described a "leader of the community" being "put to death" and mentioned "piercings" or "wounds", an expert in Middle East religions at California State University, Long Beach, Professor Robert Eisenman, said.

The text also used Messiahrelated terms such as "the staff", "the Branch of David" and the "Root of Jesse", Professor Eisenman, who helped translate the scroll fragments, said.

Its language is close to that in the Old Testament Book of Isaiah, which says "for our sins he was wounded". Many Christians use Isaiah's prophecies to aid their understanding of Jesus.

The scrolls contain the oldest known copies of the Old Testament and numerous other writings.
