FAITHLESS SERVANTS

by Ben Williams

In Matthew 25, and in Luke 19, we can read the parable of the talents. It is a commentary on men’s motives as revealed by their actions. It depicts two contrasting types of men - those who believe and trust Jesus, and those who do not believe or trust in Jesus (probably because their belief and trust is lodged elsewhere). Jesus gave this parable two millennia ago, and its lesson is as vital today as it was then. But who is listening? Really listening?

The message of this parable has been confused and convoluted by the churches and their hired translators. After their interference, as it is rendered in the King James Version, it puts forth a distinctly different message than it did when Jesus gave it.

In the KJV, and some other English church translations, it appears that Jesus was telling his disciples to wait until a future kingship: “Occupy till I come” (Luke 19:13, KJV). But translated correctly it shows that Jesus was talking about a present kingship.

“As they were listening to these things, He added and spoke a parable because He was near Jerusalem and they were thinking that the Kingdom of God should appear instantaneously. Therefore, He said: A certain nobleman goes into a far land to take a kingship for himself, and to turn again. And he calls ten of his servants and gives them ten minas and says to them, Carry on the work in which I am come.” Lk 19:11-13

Apparently, Jesus’ disciples were expecting the Kingdom of God to instantly show up, miraculously, at a given moment. This tendency to look for physical kingdoms as evidence of God was typical of Babylonian thought back then as well as today. Churches today teach that a physical city will suddenly fall out of the sky and land upon Jerusalem. Jesus was faced with the same sort of error in the first century. Thus, He began a parable to explain certain aspects of His Kingship, and to disabuse his disciples of certain wrong ideas they had about it. He told them not to look outwardly for cities, but to look inwardly for His Kingship (i.e.. His Reign) in men’s hearts. He told them that his Reign - His Kingship - must first take dominion in men’s hearts, changing the nature of men, and of Israel and before an outward kingdom can be manifest.

“...the kingship of God does not come with observation. Neither will they say, Look here, or Look there; for the kingship of God is inside you.” Lk 17:20-21

Jesus gave the parable of the talents to show his disciples the error of their thinking about the kingdom. He wanted them to see His Kingship, and stop looking for a physical city like Jerusalem.

In this parable, Jesus is depicted by the “lord” or “master,” and the “servants” depict his disciples. If we read it correctly it teaches us that Jesus declared His Kingship soon after He was raised from the dead. He then began recruiting disciples (“servants”) to take up His kingdom work.

But English readers of the Bible have been deceived by bad translations and by church doctrines that deny Jesus’ Kingship. (I have substituted ‘Jesus’ for ‘Christ’, as the latter is NOT a name. This will be shown in an upcoming booklet, God Willing, titled: CHRIST - A MEANINGLESS WORD. CIM) Churches teach that Jesus’ Reign was postponed because the Jews rejected Him. We are also expected to believe that Jesus abdicated his post and flew off to outer space, instructing his followers to just “occupy” ... to sit idly and wait till He “returns” to Earth ... and then his kingdom and the work could begin.

Futurists love to quote Luke 19:13 from the King James Version Bible because the KJV rendition excuses their faithlessness and justifies their rejection of Christ’s Kingship. According to the KJV rendition, Jesus told His disciples to “...Occupy till I come.” In other words, “wait around until I return.” This is misinformation designed to obscure Jesus’ present Kingship, and point us to a futuristic kingdom. A mythical kingdom of the type invented by rulers (church & state) who want to keep their subjects pacified and blind.

When the common people accept Jesus as their present King, they stop worshipping the Beast System. That effectively dethrones the rulers. That is why the government systems of the world HATE Jesus and do everything they can to destroy man's understanding of Jesus and His Kingship.

By twisting this verse into a futurist myth the churches have led millions astray, teaching them that Jesus' Kingship was postponed on an undetermined period of time, and during that interim Christians are to assume the status quo, do nothing but wait, and accept the idea that the bad guys have the upper hand. What a depressing scenario!

From childhood I've heard this doctrine taught in churches, and I've read it from the KJV Bible many times, and it always had the same effect on me. "Occupy till I come." It told me to wait, do nothing, and expect nothing in my lifetime. It told me that Jesus was defeated, that He went away, and that any efforts for the kingdom will only result in defeat until after He returns. It told me that Jesus was a defeated, passive, absentee king who had assumed a status quo position, and I must do the same.

After hearing and reading this Futurist rendition most of my life, I was heavily programmed in the Futurist mindset. But later in my life I learned the truth, and it was liberating. This parable does not tell us to assume the status quo. Quite the opposite, in fact. It teaches us to trust Jesus, and to have the faith to forge ahead; to take action.

MOTIVES & ACTIONS

To an observer who has "eyes to see," a man's actions reveal his motives. By the same token, a man's motives reveal his idols and gods, whoever or whatever it may be.

"Beloved, do not trust (your) every motive, but prove the motives whether they are of God, because many false prophets have gone forth into the world." 1 John 4:1

Our motives and our actions should reflect the one true God. It is our responsibility to test our motives and actions regularly to keep them in tune. We can test them by using the many witnesses and tools given in the Bible. Failing to test our motives and actions, and ignoring these witnesses and these tools, can leave us with misidentified gods.

"...we know that an idol is nothing in the world, and that there is no God but one. For even if some are called gods, whether in heaven or on earth, as there are many "gods" and many "lords." But to us there is one God, the Father out of whom are all things, and we in Him, and one Lord Jesus Christ (The Anointed), through whom are all things, and we through Him." 1 Cor. 8:4-6

False prophets are dangerous. They motivate people to accept wrong ideas. There are many false prophets, many wrong motives, and many wrong ideas. That is why we are commanded to always test our motives to make sure they are of the one true God. It is no shame to catch yourself getting off track. It is a shame, however, to ignore the command to test yourself, which is the only means to get back on track.

The worship of false gods usually begins with the acceptance of wrong ideas (from false prophets). Those wrong ideas produce wrong motives. Then, if those wrong motives go untested and uncorrected they develop false doctrine. That, in turn, gives birth to false gods.

But, by referring back to Jesus' words, and by correctly translating them, we can see that the churches have produced motives and gods that do not agree with Scripture. For instance, the gods of the churches are the kind whose creation plans go haywire and must be replaced by improved plans. And the christs of the churches are passive, long-haired mystics who can't stand up to their enemies. The translators of the King James Version Bible have popularized this mythical misidentification by putting their own Futurist twist on the Holy Scriptures.

But when Jesus gave the parable of the talents it was a lesson in common sense. When it is translated correctly, it tells of a nobleman who establishes his kingship in a new land. After taking his kingship, he calls servants (i.e. appoints helpers) and gives them each some funds ("talents" or "minas"), (and instructs them to use the funds for furthering His work ("the work in which He had come").

Then he turns and goes his way, probably to declare kingship in other lands as well. After a time, the new king comes back around to check on his servants to see how the work is going. Two of the servants report they have worked and increased the master's property. The master commends these two for being faithful, and he promotes them to greater positions in his kingdom.

The third servant, however, had done no work, and had hid the funds that had been entrusted to him.

"... I kept your mina hid in a cloth." Luke 19:20
Matthew puts it a little differently"

"...I was afraid, and went and hid your talent in the earth."
Matthew 25:25.

This third servant opted to disobey the new king. He chose to do nothing. He didn't even try. (How many people are there today, who do not use the talents God has given them, to further His kingdom? CIM) He excused himself by claiming he was afraid of the new king ... whom he accused of being a hard, exacting man who takes what is not his, and reaps where he did not sow (in other words, he is a cheat and a thief). But the servant's protest was bogus. He was faithless and a liar. Judging him by his own words, the new king told the servant that if he had truly believed his king to be a cheat and a thief then he should have placed the money with the bankers and collected usury for him (i.e. stolen in the form of interest for him - usury and interest are synonymous. CIM). Interest is theft: it is "reaping where you did not sow."

The servant was caught in his own deception. He had refused to put the money to work in any manner whatsoever. He hid the money to prevent it from being used. This was the act of an enemy. By refusing to use the money for the new king he declared his rejection of the king, and his preference for the status quo. He preferred his former status and the former system that had been in place before the new king came.

Choosing to do nothing, in this case, was not only faithlessness, it was rebellion. The new master had invited him into his company, given him a position, and instructed him to do work. But he refused. Obviously, this servant not only lacked faith in his new king, he actually hated him. He apparently still preferred his former MASTER (the system that had preceded the new king). The servant wanted the OLD system to continue, rather than the new system of the new king.

This character flaw is the basic problem of mankind, and has been common in Israel since she was a nation. When Moses led the Children of Israel (i.e. our Anglo-Saxon-kindred forefathers who were NOT Jews) out of Egypt, and while God was preparing them to become a nation and receive his abundant blessings, they began rebelling against their new king (Yahweh) right away. They made it known in no uncertain terms that they preferred the life-style they had back in Egypt. (obviously, the slavery they were under was more of an economic bondage like we have today, than what is usually pictured. Much like today saying to the Tax Office - "let my people go that they may serve Me" would bring the same response from government as came from Pharaoh! CIM) As it turned out, that generation of Israel proved unwilling to accept the new King, and thus died in the wilderness ... never receiving the promise. The next generation of Israel went into the promised land and received the blessings. In accordance with this precedent, in the New Testament it is the "next generation" (i.e. the "born-again")-( see Arnold Kennedy's article "Born Again or Begotten From The Womb", Apr 98, #147, p7) generation that inherits the Kingdom and the blessings. The old generation (the old man) cannot perceive the Kingship.

"... Except a man be born from above, he cannot perceive the Kingship of God." John 3:3. (again, see #147, p7)

In the parable of the talents, the new master had established his kingship. As with any change of kings, there were changes in policies and laws. The faithless servant rejected change. He attempted to prevent it by deactivating (burying) the funds that were intended to further the work of the new king.

The king then judged this servant. He took away the money he had left in his care, and gave it to one of the other servants who would not bury it, but would use it for its intended purpose. (much like the income of people who do not tithe going down and down, CIM). The lord scolded the faithless servant, calling him "wicked, sluggish, and useless," and had him cast out of his kingdom.

Faithlessness is not only unproductive, it is rebellion. It has no place in Jesus' Kingship. But how easily it creeps into our lives ... especially when we begin to covet comfort and SECURITY!

HOW DO WE MEASURE UP?

Taking the basics of this parable, we can test ourselves and determine if we are thinking correctly about Jesus and his Kingship. We must ask ourselves whether Jesus' intention (motive) was to preserve the Roman/Judean status quo, or if He intended to institute change. The answer to this question will tell us a great deal about our own motives and actions today, and whether our motives reflect those of Jesus.

The obvious fact is, if Jesus had intended to preserve the status quo the rulers would have loved Him. They would not have hated and killed Him. One of the important things accomplished by Jesus' death was that it emphasized the enmity between Himself and the Beast System.

Jesus' death also put permanent enmity between the Beast System and us. When we are born again in Christ we inherit that enmity. If we do not feel that enmity, it means we have a problem. If we forget this, and if we begin making friends with the Beast System, we shame ourselves and deny Jesus' Kingship.

Therefore, we must ask about religions today (churches) that promote the status quo. Are churches founded for the purpose of emphasizing the enmity between Jesus and the Beast System? Or ... are church founded for the purpose of preserving the status quo and affirming the life-styles of their owners and controllers? Do churchgoers attend and support churches in order to salve their con-sciences and get approval for their faithlessness?

You know the answer! Church boards hire preachers who make them comfortable, who say what the church boards like to hear, and will assure them that they are justified in their selfish and faithless capitulation to the Beast System. Churchgoers want to feel good where they are. That's why they invest large sums of money into churches ... which are social clubs for affirming their accepted paradigms. They don't want their waters disturbed.

In fact, most churchgoers who profess to be waiting for Jesus' "second advent" will readily admit that they hope Jesus doesn't "return" in their life time ... because they expect it will be a "bad time" and it will upset things and create havoc (tape A-8206, The Clergy: Do They Really Want Jesus to Return? $5). What hypocrisy! This they have inherited from the churches. What nonsense to base your religion upon a "returning saviour" and then literally dread his so-called "return." In II Pet 3:12, we are told that we should be "Looking for and attending to the presence of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire will be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat."

Most churchgoers are so confused they don't even realize that they have become advocates for Christ's enemies. They harden their hearts while they uphold Babylonian life-styles.

Churchgoers fit the profile described by Karl Marx. He said religion is the opiate of the people. Churchgoers are certainly drugged and comfortable. They have no interest in finding Jesus' Kingdom. Rather, they seek compromise and safe feelings.

If the work of Jesus had been to build churches, make people feel good, and make them socially acceptable, He would not have been hated and killed. The Romans and Judeans would have erected statues of him in their cities, and proclaimed Him a patriot.

If the work He commissioned to his apostles had been to make peace with the religious and political rulers of that day, those apostles would not have been persecuted, imprisoned, and martyred. If the followers of Jesus had taken the attitude of modern churchgoers they would never have found themselves in the Roman Coliseum with the lions.

We should ask ourselves whether or not the world system hates us. If it doesn't ... or if we find ourselves compatible with it, how can we claim to be followers of Jesus? How well do YOU get along with the world system? Are you a Liberal? A Labour (supporter)? A Baptist? A Uniting (member)? A Freemason? A Patriot? Do you get along well with Jesus' enemies?

Think about it. Jesus came preaching against the political and religious status quo, and demanding change. The rulers, in defense of the status quo, conspired to kill Jesus. How then, can anyone claim to be a follower of Jesus while conforming to the Babylonian system of religion and politics?

"Marvel not, brethren, that the world hates you." 1 John 3:13.

"If the world hates you, you know that it hated me before it hated you. If you were of the world, the world would love its own; but because you are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, on this account the world hates you." John 15:18-19

Do churchgoers prefer the status quo? You bet! Can you look at yourself and honestly state that you do NOT prefer the status quo? I hope so!

How can a church claim to follow Jesus when it dreads the fall of Babylon, and when it supports the Beast System whose great purpose is to preserve and control the status quo? Churches, regardless of their hypocritical rhetoric, are in a holding pattern, trying to keep things stable as they are, waiting, not fighting the Beast System. Churches do this while claiming to be the work of Jesus. Anyone who believes in, or sympathizes with, churches is denying the Anoint(ed)(ing).

WHAT DO YOU VALUE?

The third servant in this parable had no faith in his new king. His lack of faith and lack of action tells us he did not want what his new king offered. This was the act of a man who valued the stifling security of the status quo rather than the quickening spirit of truth, new growth and improvement. He valued his investments in the old system, and he acted accordingly. He probably had a bank account, real estate, mortgages, insurance, and a fixed retirement. He was "secure," ... or was he?

"... that which is highly esteemed among men is detestable in God's sight." Luke 16:15.

DO YOU PASS THE TEST?

What is taught by this parable? That blind faith is good? That caution is bad? Not at all! The master did not ask his servants to act upon blind faith. Rather, He asked them to have faith in Him and in the kingship He had established. He established the project. He funded it himself. He set them up in his business, then he merely asked them to carry on the work. The servants were not asked to risk their own money, for the master supplied the money himself. He offered them each a chance to earn a position in his kingdom by proving their loyalty and faith. This was a test to see if they would be faithful with small things. Those who proved faithful with small things could be trusted with greater things.

"Well done good servant! Because you have proven faithful in this small thing, you have authority over ten cities." Luke 19:17

"Well done Good and faithful servant! You were faithful over a few things. I will appoint you over many things. Enter into the joy of your master." Matthew 25:21

"He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much, and he that is unrighteous in that which is least is unrighteous also in much. If therefore you were not faithful in unrighteous mammon, who will entrust you with true riches? And if you were not faithful with that of another's, who will give you that of your own?" Luk 16:10-12.

WHO CAN SEE?

Jesus' Kingship is a mystery to most people because they have been confused by church religion. But the Kingship is understood by the chosen. A man must be born from above (born from the beginning, the origin, i.e. Sarah's womb, see Arnold Kennedy's article, Apr '98, #147, p7) in order to perceive and understand the Kingdom. By the same token, a man must be born from above in order to possess the faith necessary to trust Jesus and to truly believe that He will bless us.

"But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that comes to God must first believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of them that seek him." Hebrews 11:6

Who has the faith to trust Jesus? I mean truly believe in Him and trust Him? Who has the faith in Jesus to seek the truth, regardless where it takes you? Who has the faith to allow Jesus' agenda to take precedence over our own agenda? Who has the faith to step toward light even from comfortable, established ways? Who has the faith to trust Jesus enough to step forward and be a pioneer, and to stand alone if necessary? Who has such faith that he will step forward and gladly risk his perceived "security" to follow Jesus? Who has faith enough in Jesus to trust truth to be the best way for us? Who has faith enough to believe effort spent pursuing truth will be blessed? Who has faith enough to realize that coveting some perceived security at the expense of truth is the surest way to lose both truth and security?

The Kingship of Jesus gives us freedom. It stands for liberty and fairness. The kingdoms of men, on the other hand, are designed to facilitate men taking freedom away from one another, and taking advantage of one another.

Taking advantage of one another is the modern American way, and is called "Capitalism." Based upon this precept the gigantic beast known as Western Civilization was built. These are the kingships of men: the Beast System.

On the other hand, under Jesus' Kingship, taking advantage of one another is prohibited ... the same as theft. Indeed, it is theft. But only the faithful and bold can see it.

The Kingship of Jesus promotes honest work, and just compensation for labor ("The laborer is worthy of his hire" Lk 10:7). In contrast, the kingship of men stifles workers, taxes the productive, and rewards drones and bureaucrats. In modern day Babylon/America/Australia, men learn that in order to "get ahead" they must seek government positions, titles, positions to control (manage) other men. They learn that no one gets ahead by working and accomplishing something on his own. Those who do the actual work carry layers of higher-paid "managers," middle-men, bureaucrats, and costly government upon their backs. About 75% of their wages goes to taxes to fund the system that is keeping them enslaved.

The Babylonian system of this modern era is built upon a particular way of thinking. That doctrine teaches that achievement, or accomplishing a work, is of little or no benefit ... but true benefit is derived from maneuvering one's self into a position to take advantage of other people, as in banking, politics, military, police work, government bureaucracy, sales, and personnel management. This Babylonian way of thinking is personified by the third servant in this parable who had probably established his own fixed income and retirement through government affiliated pork-barrel politics. When the new king came along with a new and fairer way of living, the servant sought to preserve his acquired benefits rather than follow the new king.

By the same token, churchgoers commonly profess faith in Jesus but fail to act ... fail to prove faith. Churchgoers love and defend the very system that seeks to defeat Jesus. Is it possible for them to believe in Jesus while they love His enemies? Can they believe in Jesus' Kingship without making a commitment and an effort to learn about

ABOUT THE CAMP
Sorry about the sudden cancellation of the camp that was planned for late March/early April, but it just would not come together at that time. We are in negotiations with others and will let you know the details when a new date has been set, God willing, for later in the year. We would very much like to hear from those who were planning on coming, so that we can plan accordingly! It has been very warm, due to a late start to the wet season, which really only began in the middle of February, about two months late. In the last week we have had over 600 mm of rain.

it? Can they really believe in Jesus without making the least effort to carry on the work He established? [it has been said that "the disciples were first called Christians at Antioch," therefore, to be a Christian, you have to be a disciple. Webster's 1828 Dictionary defines 'disciple' as one who has a master, who follows the teachings of that master, and who helps to propagate those teachings! This does not seem to apply anymore today. Should they then be called "Christians"? CIM]

"What benefit is it, my brothers, if someone says he has faith but no works? Is faith able to save him?"

Even so faith, if it has no works, is dead in itself. But someone may say, You have faith, and I have works. Show me your faith apart from works, and I will show my faith by my works. [do you have everything well-covered with insurance, in case God brings a calamity on you? That shows a lack of faith!] You believe there is one God? You do well. The demons believe and shudder. But are you willing to know, oh empty man, that faith without works is dead?" James 2:14,17-20.

What is the work that we are to carry on? What is this "work" in which our Lord "is come"? Churchgoers would tell us that the Lord's work is to build and furnish churches. They say He went away, and told us to "occupy till He returns." [Jack Mohr used to say that "Occupy is a military term, and it means to take charge and be in control - as Europe was occupied by the Germans in WWII, and after 1945, Germany was 'occupied' by the allies.] Building churches is somehow supposed to save men and prepare them for "heaven." They would have us believe that this, alone, is the work Jesus left to his followers while He's "away."

But that is not the teaching of Jesus, nor is it the teaching of the Bible. Rather, it is the age-old teaching of the Babylonian religion (read The Two Babylons, by Alexander Hislop, #907 @ $30.75)

Most of us, at one time or another, have attended, or belonged to, a church. Most of us can remember that we once believed that churches manifested the work of Jesus. The apostle Paul made the same mistake in the synagogue church system of his day. Paul was forced to repent of his church idolatry, and so must we! [however, we must remember Hebrews 10:25, "Not forsaking the assembling of yourselves together, as the manner of some is (the hermits, who don't want to 'assemble'); but exhorting one another: and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching."]

In America right now there are millions of people who consider themselves Christians, but they are not carrying on Jesus' work. They are supporting and carrying on the work of the churches, and ignoring Jesus. They are, in effect, giving support and aid to the enemy. Churches are antichrist! They seek to take the place of Jesus' Kingship on Earth. Supporting them and placing your faith in them is tantamount to treason against the Kingship of Jesus.

If you don't like the way this country is headed, it is time to look in the mirror and see who is to blame. It is YOUR FAULT ... if you have depended upon the churches to heal the nation. If you want to help this nation, STOP GOING TO CHURCHES!

On the other hand, if you don't want to stop going to churches, then stop complaining about the direction this nation is going. It is going the way of the Beast system ...

which you support and defend when you support and attend church. (look at "Rev. Dr." Peter Holingworth!)

CHURCHGOERS = FAITHLESS SERVANTS

So, we see the lesson of the parable of the talents. And we see that it applies to today's churchgoers. Churchgoing Christians have been given a gift from their King, just as the servants in the parable were given money from their new king. Christians have been trusted with truth and holy spirit. Now, Jesus wants them to put those gifts to work ... like the talents in Luke 19. However, if the Christian buries his gift under church idolatry, he will lose it.

Wolves eat sheep. That's what they do. In order to eat sheep wolves must gain entry into the sheepfold. If you run all the wolves out of the sheepfold, they will immediately try to get back in. Because if they cannot get into the sheepfold, they cannot eat sheep. And that's what wolves do - wolves eat sheep. Sheep try to keep from being eaten by wolves. To put it another way: sheep don't hate wolves. There is almost no anti-wolfism in the land today. Sheep just have an unreasoning fear of being eaten.

The lesson cannot be discerned by churchgoers who are content to go to church and ignore the reality around them. God help churchgoers to step away from their routine long enough to see truth. May they also have a modicum of courage ... enough to change their faithless ways and try following a REAL KING who motivates men to be REAL MEN instead of faithless lackeys! --

NO ENEMIES?

You have no enemies, you say?
Alas! my friend the boast is poor:

He who has mingled in the fray

Of duty, that the brave endure,

Must have made foes!

If you have none,

Small is the work that you have done.

You've hit no traitor on the hip,

You've dashed no cut from perjured lip,

You've never turned the wrong to right,

You've been a coward in the fight.

THE BIBLICAL LAW OF RACIAL PURITY (PT 1)

by Lawrence Blanchard

There is a major acceptance today in judeo-Christianity of inter-racial marriage in defiance of revealed biblical law. Less than 50 years ago, mixed unions were forbidden in America and the other White nations. But now, they are tolerated and condoned as within God's plan. Under the influence and promotion of the jewish-masonic controlled government and media, Western Christianity has succumbed to the approval of race-mixing. Thus, it affirms what is an abomination in God's sight.

Although the Bible is replete with evidence of God's clear will that the races be separate in every way, this article will focus on the law of kind after kind to support this premise. Much of what follows is taken from Did All Races Come From Adam? pp 66-69 (#584 @ 27.95)

God's First Law of Nature

The first chapter of Genesis reveals that the Creator God set up His first Law of kind after kind, applying it to all of His creation: "trees bearing fruit after their kind" (1:11); all water creatures "after their kind" (1:21); "every winged bird after its kind" (1:21); and "beasts of the earth after their kind” (1:24). God created different kinds of plants, trees, fish, bird, and land creatures, each to reproduce after its own kind. At God’s command, He established a law of nature that ensured racial purity or otherwise, separation of all creatures from other kinds.

Definition of “Kinds”

One objection to this interpretation by professing Christians today is based upon their assumption that the term “kind” means “family,” such as the family of all fish, birds, or cattle. In other words, they believe that God created one male and female fish, bird, or cattle, for example, from which all fish, birds, and cattle were reproduced. Therefore, in this view “kind” refers only to the general family category of all fish, birds, and cattle, and not to different species within each family, such as sharks, sea bass, or salmon (for fish); pelicans, crows, or sparrows (for birds); or the different species of cattle.

Among the most prominent promoters of this theory is Answers in Genesis and their book One Blood: The Biblical Answer to Racism.

The initial problem with One Blood’s theory is that its authors presume that their definition of the term “kinds” is the biblical definition. One Blood assumes that “kinds” refers to the general “families” of creation, such as all dogs or all bears, for example. As will be shown, however, the biblical definition of “kinds” is very similar to the science of taxonomy. A review of the taxonomical terms will be helpful to assist in the biblical understanding of “kind.” Basic taxonomy breaks down the classification of all living things as follows: kingdom, phylum, class, order, family, genus, and species. Although “kind” is not a specific taxonomic term, it does relate to “genus” and “species.”

The word “kind” is the Hebrew word miyn, appearing nine times in the first chapter of Genesis. It means “to portion out; a sort, i.e. species.” (Strong’s #4327). According to Strong’s, “kind” means “species.” “Kinds” does not refer to general categories (families) of dogs or cats or birds. It refers to the subsets (genus and species) within these categories. This is illustrated by its usage within Genesis and the rest of the Pentateuch. For example, in the creation account of Genesis 1:11-12, there are many “plants” and “fruit trees” that were to reproduce “after their kind.” Likewise, in verses 24-25 God created many water creatures and “beasts of the earth” and “cattle” and every land creature “after their kind.” There were many different species or kinds of plants, water creatures, and land creatures that God created, which were subject to the law of nature He set up in the beginning - “kind after kind.” This law is readily observed in nature (as opposed to domestication). The species stay within their own kind and reproduce after their own kind. As the saying goes: Birds of a feather flock together.

Further, this word “kind” is used in Genesis 6:20 when God commanded Noah to take “birds after their kind, and of the animals after their kind” on the ark to be kept alive. There were many different kinds or species within the region of the Flood. Genesis 8:7-10 reveals that Noah first sent out “a raven” and later “a dove,” from the ark. These are not only two different Hebrew words indicating two different birds, but also they are categorized taxonomically in two completely different orders within the bird class. One is categorically clean and the other is unclean.

In the Septuagint (LXX), the Greek word for “kind” is genos, the equivalent for the word miyn in the Hebrew Masoretic text in the above Bible reference. Genos is “a noun expressive of relationship of various degrees and kinds” with the primary meaning of “ancestral stock” or descent or family of relatives (A Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament and Other Early Christian Literature, Frederick Danker, ed., 3rd Edition, p.194). Another lexicon adds “race” and “offspring” (Liddell and Scott, A Greek-English Lexicon, p254). So, genos is inclusive, for example, “of all cattle ... of all reptiles and of all wild beasts” (Genesis 6:21, Brenton Translation). Genos plainly refers to not just one pair of all cattle, wild beasts, reptile, or winged birds, but to all “kinds” of cattle, wild beasts, reptiles, and winged birds. Therefore, each “kind,” as used in the biblical passages above, is the equivalent of a “race.”

Returning to the Masoretic text and the Hebrew word miyn, the Mosaic Law (in Leviticus 11:13-19) continues the distinction between different “kinds” of unclean bird: “the eagle and the vulture and the buzzard, and the kite and the falcon ... every raven ...” and so forth (See Deuteronomy 14:11-18). The eagle, vulture, buzzard, and kite are of the same family taxonomically, but each are a different genus or kind.

In Leviticus 11:22, there is a delineation between different kinds of clean insects, such as “locusts in its kinds ... and the cricket in its kinds, and the grasshopper in its kinds.” Notice the plural “kinds,” that is, many kinds or species of locusts, crickets, and grasshoppers. Again, verse 29 distinguishes between unclean animals and reptiles: “the mole, and the mouse, and the great lizard in its kinds,” that is, different kinds or species of mole, mouse and lizard. This is followed by verse 30 reading: “gecko, crocodile ... sand reptile and the chameleon,” inferring that all are of the reptile family, but comprise different kinds (genus) or species. The word “kind” in the Law clearly means different genera or species within a general category or family of bird, animal, or reptile.

In the above Leviticus and Deuteronomy passages, the LXX does not use the Greek word genos, but instead substituted the term auto. This term is a reflexive pronoun used as an “intensive marker, setting an item off from everything else through emphasis and contrast ... “ (A Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament and Other Early Christian Literature, p. 152). Again, in the context of differentiating between the kinds of clean and unclean birds, insects, animals, or reptiles, auto separates, emphasizes, and contrasts between them, all within each general category.

From the above analysis of the use of the term “kinds” in Scripture, it can be readily seen that the biblical definition is quite broad. Depending on the context, “kinds” can refer to the taxonomical term “genus” (eagles, kites, vultures); or it can refer to that of “species” (kinds of locusts or kinds of grasshoppers). Therefore, it is correct to say that the Bible uses “kinds” to differentiate the species within a genus, as well as the variety of genera (plural of “genus”) within a family. The biblical “kinds” can apply to the taxonomical terms of both “genus” and “species” but not to "family."

One Blood's beginning premise is, therefore, skewed at the first instance by a misleading and otherwise untrue definition of the meaning of "kind," contrary to the Scripture's intention. Rather than "kind" referring to genus, or even the species within each genus category, as it is ascribed biblically, it is applied to the family of dogs, cats, or bears, for example. A corrected definition, however, would not only put One Blood's theory on hold, but provide an emerging picture of what the Creator actually did in His creation. All species did not develop through natural selection from one pair of created plant or animal kind. God created all the different varieties of creation - every kind or specie of plant, tree, cattle, bird, reptile, fish, and so forth. To say otherwise is to rob God of His intended meaning in His written Word and diminish His creative power. (to be continued)-----

HISTORICAL HERITAGE

"Laws Against Interracial Marriage"

by Lawrence Blanchard

(Thanks to Charles Weisman for his well-documented research in Anthology of Racial Issues.)

White American history, and the laws it was founded on, is being rewritten to reflect another alien culture which is Talmudic and anti-Christ. This is inclusive of the subject of interracial marriage. Once, so-called marriages were strictly and resolutely prohibited. Now they have been "legalized" by the de-facto court system and are promoted by the Jewish controlled government, media, public education (the public fool system), and grievously, by Judaized 501(c)(3) "churches" who proclaim universal salvation. The modern worldly order of the day bears no resemblance to yesteryear's historical facts and laws regarding interracial marriage.

Herein is a brief review of what has been, and still is, America's common law, biblical law, and constitutional law on this subject.

The Law in the 1600s

Due to the arrival of 20 Negro slaves in Jamestown, Virginia in 1619 and the resultant incidences of co-habitation and fornication, a law was passed in 1630 that provided for the punishment of a White man for

... abusing himself to the dishonor of God and shame of Christians, by defiling his body in lying with a negro. (Hening, The Statutes at Large, Being a Collection of all the Laws of Virginia, from 1619, p.146)

In 1638, an ordinance was passed in New Netherland prohibiting sexual contact between the races:

Furthermore, each and every one must refrain from Fighting, Adulterous Intercourse with Heathens, Blacks, or other persons ... (Law and Ordinances of New Netherland, 1638-1674, p.12)

Consequences by law against White women who had children by Negro men were enacted in Maryland in 1661:

Forasmuch as divers freeborne English women, forgetful of their free condition, and to the disgrace of our Nation, do intermarry with Negro slaves, by which divers suits may arise, touching the issue of such women, and a great damage doth befall the Masters of such Negroes for preservation whereof for deterring such freeborne women from such shameful Matches ... Be it enacted: that whatsoever freeborne woman shall intermarry with any slave ... Shall serve the master of such slave during the life of the husband; And that all the issues of such freeborne women, so married, shall be slaves. (Proceedings of the General Assembly of Maryland, 1637-1664, pp533-534)

In Virginia, a law passed in 1691 to prevent and punish race mixing as follows:

And for the prevention of that abominable mixture and spurious issue which hereafter may increase in this dominion, as well by negroes, mulattoes, and Indians intermarrying with English, or other white women, as by their unlawful accompanying with one another, Be it enacted, ... That for the time to come, whatsoever English or other white man or woman being free shall intermarry with a negroe, mulatto, or Indian man or woman bond or free shall within three months after such marriage be banished and removed from this dominion forever. (Ballagh, White Servitude in the Colony of Virginia, pp 72, 73)

The Law in the 1700s

North Carolina, in 1715, imposed a heavy fine for any White person associating with or marrying a Negro:

Be it enacted that, by the authority aforesaid, that if any white Man or Woman, being free, shall intermarry with an Indian, Negro, Mustee or Mulatto Man or Woman, or any Person of Mixed Blood, to the Third Generation, bond or free, they shall, by Judgment of the County Court, forfeit and pay the Sum of 50 Pounds, Proclamation Money, to the use of the Parish. And ... if any Minister or Justice of the Peace shall hereafter presume to marry a White Man with an Indian, Negro, Mustee or Mulatto Woman, or any Person of Mixed Blood as aforesaid, shall pay the sum of 50

Pounds for every such offense. (The State Records of North Carolina, p.160)

In Massachusetts Bay, the General Court (1705) responded to two cases of sexual relations between White women and Negro males:

That none of her majesty's English or Scottish subject, nor of any Christian nation within this province, shall contract matrimony with any negro or mulatto; nor shall any person duly authorized to solemnize marriage presume to join any such in marriage, on pain of forfeiting the sum of fifty pounds ... [if] an English woman, or a woman of any other Christian nation within this province, commit fornication with any negro or mulatto man, both the offenders shall be severely whip'd. (An Act for the Better Preventing of a Spurious and Mixt Issue, Acts and Resolves of Massachusetts Bay, 1692-1780, p.578)

Georgia placed an absolute prohibition against interracial marriage:

Intermarriages between the white People and the Negroes or Blacks within the said Province shall be deemed unlawful Marriages and the same are hereby declared to be absolutely null and void. (The Colonial Records of the State of Georgia, p.54-56)

The Law in the 1800s

In 1852, the Supreme Court of Maine held that the marriage of a White woman and mulatto was,

... null, and the children of such marriage, being illegitimate, could not take their father's land by inheritance. (Baily v. Fiske, 34 Maine 77 [1852])

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in 1867 clarified

the lawful reasoning for the separation of the races:

Why the Creator made one white and the other black, we do not know; but the fact is apparent, and the races are distinct, each producing its own kind and following the peculiar law of its constitution ... God has made them dissimilar. The natural law, which forbids their intermarriage and that amalgamation which leads to a corruption of races ... The natural separation of races is therefore an undeniable fact, and all social organizations which lead to their amalgamation are repugnant to the law of nature. (The Philadelphia & West Chester R.R.Co v. Miles, 2 Am Law Rev. 358)

In 1869, the Supreme Court of Georgia answered this issue before it: Do white persons and persons of color have the right, under the Constitution, to intermarry, and live together in this State as man and wife? The Court stated:

The amalgamation of the races is not only unnatural, but is always productive of deplorable results. Our daily observation shows us, that the offspring of these unnatural connections are generally sickly and effeminate, and that they are inferior in physical development and strength, to the full-blood of either race. It is sometimes urged that such marriages should be encouraged, for the purpose of elevating the inferior race to the position of the superior, but they bring down the superior to that of the inferior. They are productive of evil, and evil only, without any corresponding good. (Scott vs. The State of Georgia, 39 Ga. 321,323 [1869])

The last example in this brief list of laws comes from the Supreme Court of Tennessee regarding the cohabitation of the races:

This case involves the grave question, whether a white person and a negro may lawfully intermarry, or cohabit, as man and wife ... We hold that such legislation is not, never has been, and never should be, prohibited to the State. In reference to the intermarriage of the races ... The discrimination as to race and people, in this most important institution, has been observed, even from the days of the patriarchs. "Thou shalt not," said Abraham, "take a wife unto my son of the daughters of the Canaanites; but thou shalt go to my country, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my son Isaac" Genesis 24. The laws of civilization demand that the races be kept apart in this country. The progress of either does not depend upon an admixture of blood. A sound philanthropy, looking to the public peace and the happiness of both races, would regard any effort to intermerge the individuality of the races as a calamity full of the saddest and gloomiest portent to the generations that are to come after us. (Doc. Lonas v. The State, 3 Keiskell 287, 50 Tenn. 287, 300 [1871])

In every State of the Union, and even prior to the founding of America, there was consistent consensus regarding the unlawfulness of race mixing. Now, it is welcomed and even promoted as being in accordance with God's Will. America and the other White nations are reaping what they are sowing. Unless White Christians have enough integrity and virtue to stand up for what is right and say "No" to this abomination of interracial mixing, they will incur the wrath and judgment of the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob along with the rest of the disobedient. *****

"BLOW YE THE TRUMPET IN ZION!"

by Rev Ken C. Kemble

The Sodomites are hard at work corrupting the youth of Britain. We learned earlier this year that Britain has lowered the age for sodomy to 16. This is an outrage! We cannot believe that this would even be considered in this once-great Christian nation! The truth is, according to God's Word, which is the only standard, sodomy is unlawful at any age! It is an abomination, and is absolutely forbidden. Leviticus 20:13.

God help the people of the United Kingdom, the United States, Canada, Australia, South Africa, and all other Israel nations of the world! We have all become profane in the sight of our God.

Turn us, O God, for we have no strength to do right, except that you give it!

When George W. Bush was inaugurated, the Rev. Franklin Graham said the opening prayer. For weeks following, there was an outcry in this land, coming from the Atheists, Jews and Muslims. They were offended because Franklin Graham prayed to God in the Name of the Lord Jesus Christ! They say that because of this, they felt alienated, and like they do not belong. Well, quite frankly, they don't!

You may say, "That's not very tolerant!" Indeed it is not, but why should we tolerate or compromise with the enemies of Jesus and His Kingdom?! To do that would be to damn this nation to an anti-Christ end. If Christians do not stand for the Lord Jesus Christ, who will?!

America, you are at a crossroads! It is either stand for the Lord Jesus Christ, or hand down to your posterity a heathen, third-world, antichrist, multi-cultural, multi-faith cesspool! Light and darkness cannot dwell together in harmony. I say let us not compromise with darkness, but let us rather take this country for Jesus!

This is either a Christian nation or it is an un-Christian nation; we will either serve Jesus Christ and advance His Kingdom or become anti-Christ! There is no in-between! "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other."

I want to live in a country that is openly and unashamedly Christian! And with every ounce of your being you should agree with me, and work toward the advancement of the Christian faith! That is our heritage. The alternative is unthinkable. Modern-day Crusaders, onward! Win the lost! Teach the Word! Make disciples of men! Hold up to the earth the touch divine. Light this nation with the Light of His Holy Word, and cause the darkness to flee! Have nothing to do with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them! Because you don't want to see what this country will be 30 years from now if this 'tolerance' continues.

We have heard for years that the Cold War is over. Perhaps this editor has the wrong idea of what a Cold War is, but it seems clear that the Cold War is anything but over! A Cold War is defined as being "any state of intense political or economic rivalry between nations, stopping short of actual warfare;" and if you don't think that is going on today, think again. Communist China is still after us, and would try to bring us down in a heartbeat if they thought they could, and if it were necessary to meet their ends.

There may no longer be a Soviet Union, but communism is alive and well and growing with each passing day in the hearts and minds of millions of people; even millions of people right here in the good old USA. And the more foreigners we let in, the more that number grows. As long as we are looking at definitions, let's look at the definition of communism. Under this system "all property and goods are owned by the government or state, and the products of labor are shared by all."

If you cannot see that this system is thriving right here in the 'land of the free,' just try not paying your property tax (council rates). The very fact that we have to pay the government to live on our own land, and that if we do not, we will have that land confiscated, should cause all to know just who really own our property. And have you ever noticed that the rich are taxed heavily while the poor are cheerfully given a plethora of handouts such as Welfare, Medicaid, Food Stamps, WIC, Medicare, and on and on and on? Look at the definition of communism again.

No, the Cold War is far from over! Either that, or, it is truly over, and they won!

We were recently made to feel absolutely sick as we heard the report over the radio of a Houston woman who killed all five of her children, ages 7 and under. This pathetic excuse for a mother systematically drowned them all in the family bath tub, and then called the police. When the Police arrived, she met them at the door and placidly ushered them into the bedroom where they laid dead on a bed; the oldest was still in the tub. The report was that she showed no remorse.

Almost more shocking than the crime, however, is the fact that instead of demanding swift justice, many are calling for leniency, and have turned this into a campaign against having large families. That's right - people all over the country, mostly women, are coming to this woman's defense!

You see, she had "postpartum depression," and so, as insane as it may seem, sentiment is rising in her favor. And since sentiment rules the justice system now, and not justice, one wonders what the fate of this reprehensible murderess will be. We have set the stage for this kind of thing, though; thousands of women kill their babies every day with impunity and with the full support of the federal government in the form of abortion (infanticide). What then, one is inevitably led to reason, is the difference?!

While the editor cannot relate to postpartum depression, I do know what the Bible says about cold-blooded murder! It does not matter that this woman was depressed! We have all suffered from depression from time to time - some more than others - but no matter how depressed a person becomes, it is no excuse for murdering practically your entire family in cold blood. It is inconceivable to me that this woman is receiving sympathy. It becomes clear with each passing day that we are living in a time when no one is responsible for their actions anymore. One can only wonder what's next.

God give us back our sanity!

The American Medical Association recently condemned the Boy Scouts of America for standing firm in their conviction not to let the sodomites in. No, I am not kidding. They say that the Boy Scout policy of excluding sodomites could lead to suicide on the part of sodomites. We do not believe this to be the case at all, for we have never heard of a sodomite with low self-esteem, but if this be so, we would say simply, "So be it!"

It seems incomprehensible, though, that the AMA does not actively condemn sodomy; for the practice of sodomy is as unnatural and unhealthy as you can get - so much so that it is just a matter of time before most of those who are engaged in such debauchery contract AIDS.

Ah! That must be it! They must want AIDS to spread! After all, it has filled the pocket of many a doctor in the past 30 years!

We heard recently of a young man who is a Scottish enthusiast. He plays the bagpipes in the School Band, and has Scottish this and Scottish that all over his room. He even has a real kilt, which he wore to his High School Prom back in May - but that was his big mistake!

You see, every kilt has a small dagger, and when it was noticed that there was a dagger on his person at the High School, he was promptly sent home under the new zero tolerance policy! Not only that, he was suspended from school. This kind of thing has been going on ever since the shooting at Columbine High School in Littleton, Colorado a couple of years ago. Since then, there have been countless children sent home from school on suspension for simply holding up a paper pistol, or their finger, and saying "Bang! Bang!" Don't laugh - I wasn't kidding!

I would like to know why a young man dressed in a proper Scottish kilt, simply exhibiting a patriotic sentiment, is treated like a common criminal, while the woman in Houston is treated with compassion and caring?

Wake up, America! Can't you see what is going on here?!
"Woe to them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter! Woe unto [them that are] wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight! Woe unto [them that are] mighty to drink wine, and men of strength to mingle strong drink: Which justify the wicked for reward, and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him! Therefore as the fire devoureth the stubble, and the flame consumeth the chaff, [so] their root shall be as rottenness, and their blossom shall go up as dust: because they have cast away the Law of the LORD of hosts, and despised the word of the Holy One of Israel." Isaiah 5:20-24.

If you are planning a trip to Disney World in Orlando, Florida, do not be surprised if you run across sodomites embracing one another, or skipping along hand in hand, in this fantasy wonderland.

A relative of one of our church members told him that they were recently at Disney World, and were appalled to find that they had the extreme misfortune of picking "Gay Day" as their time to visit the world-famous amusement park. They were disgusted to find that they were surrounded by sodomites, sporting vulgar T-shirts and doing what sodomites do. They were, of course, outraged at the thought of their children being subjected to such filth on what was supposed to be a happy family holiday.

They, of course, demanded their money back, and left, embarrassed and disappointed. Wanting to be sure of the facts before I commented on this, I called Disney World for confirmation of this report. The representative that I spoke with was very polite, and said that there was indeed a "Gay Day" each year at Disney World, and that it is traditionally the first weekend in June, but that it is not officially sponsored by Disney World.

She said that if a person buys a ticket, they can go into the park just like anyone else. This, friends, is a lame excuse. If they are aware of a planned event such as this and want to stop it, they can! But Disney is notorious for their support of sodomites.

We are outraged that there would be such goings on at what is supposed to be a family theme park such as this. Imagine the horror of a decent Christian family showing up on the wrong weekend. When making your vacation plans, we would suggest just going somewhere else altogether,

If you watch television at all, you have seen Miss Cleo, the African Witch. She has managed to get onto just about every station, inviting America to call her up and let her give them a free 'tarot reading.' We do not know what others think about her, but we think this country can do without her and her tarot readings.

We conduct Bible Studies on College campuses regularly, and we know first hand of an unfortunate young man who fell for one of these 'psychics.' He foolishly called, thinking he would just talk a minute, and ended up with a $350 phone bill, all of which went into the pocketbook of the psychic. You see, the free part of your conversation (the first three minutes are advertised as being free) is spent gathering up all your personal information. Once they have all your personal information, it is high finance all the way! He assures me he has learned his lesson.

The Word of God declares: "There shall not be found among you [any one] that maketh his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, [or] that useth divination, [or] an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a witch, Or a charmer, or a consulter with familiar spirits, or a wizard, or a necromancer. For all that do these things [are] an abomination unto the LORD: and because of these abominations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee. Thou shalt be perfect with the LORD thy God. For these nations, which thou shalt possess, hearkened unto observers of times, and unto diviners: but as for thee, the LORD thy God hath not suffered thee so [to do]. The LORD thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto HIM (i.e. the Lord Jesus Christ) ye shall hearken;" Deuteronomy 18:10-15.

We are children of light. We want nothing to do with the dark side whatsoever, and we encourage you to feel the same way about it!

The command of God to our first parents was "Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth."

Most of Adam's children are extremely lax when it comes to fulfilling this vital command. We know and understand that there are a good many people who physically cannot have children. We do not feel badly toward these people in the slightest, and we share in their unhappiness at not being able to multiply. However, may we say in all love that there are countless daughters of Eve who purposefully prevent the conception of children each month, not thinking a thing about it, and never realizing for a moment that they are 1) living in disobedience to God, and 2) missing out on the blessings of domestic happiness and fulfillment that can only come with the raising of children. (We are saddened by the number of singles that we know, who cannot seem to get together sufficiently to want to get married, while their best years are ticking away. Now is the time to have children - CIM)

Further, not only are they disobeying God, and missing out on much happiness, we have discovered that there can be serious consequences to their actions physically as well. Though almost unheard of in generations past (and this may be said of all cancers), breast cancer has become quite common - and there is a reason for this. There is a direct relationship between the use of birth control pills and the risk of breast cancer. In fact, an extensive British study states that "not only is there an increased risk of breast cancer while taking the pill, but the risk remains for ten years after you've stopped. Additionally, women under the age of 20 who take the pill are at a larger risk for breast cancer than older women." (How to Fight Cancer & Win, by William L. Fischer, Angora Health Books, 2000, p.14)

Our God has told us to multiply and to take dominion. You can look around and see the effect that our disobedience has had on our nation. The stranger among us is rising higher and higher, swelling in numbers at an alarming rate, while we are sinking lower and lower, having often only one or no children per family. This is one of the promised curses for national disobedience (Deut 28:43), and it is killing us!

Wake up, daughters of Israel! It is your duty, indeed, your happy privilege, to raise up children to fear God, obey His commands, and take this nation back for Jesus! Don't be misled by the numberless throngs who are spreading the lie that you can't afford to have children, or that you need a career more than you need children. The truth is, nationally speaking, we cannot afford to prevent children!

If you are a boy in the state of Nevada, and are molested by a sodomite, you are just out of luck. In speaking of one such case earlier this year, Clark County District Attorney Stewart Bell said, "We in essence concluded neither the state nor federal authorities are able to pursue the sexual offenses. It discriminates against a class of people, and that's not allowed under the equal protection clause of the Constitution." (Las Vegas Review-Journal, Jan 11, 2001).

Although there is a law which prohibits such despicable activity, calling it "the infamous crime against nature," Deputy District Attorney Doug Herndon said that the law has its purpose, but to use the law wouldn't make sense. "It would be singling out homosexuals, which is bad. We wouldn't want to do that." (LVR-J, Jan 11, 2002)

We think these men - and a legal system that would allow such insanity - are a disgrace! We look forward to the day when the Lord Jesus Christ, the most 'politically incorrect' leader of all time, will set the matter straight, for He will not consult the people at all; He will simply do that which is right and good according to His Own Holy Word. "And out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword (His Word), that with it he should smite the nations: and he shall rule them with a rod of iron."

Amen! Come quickly LORD JESUS! Set this world straight!

TAKE COURAGE!!

"Be of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed."

Have you ever felt like giving up? That life was not worth living? Perhaps you have some spiritual problem that seems to have no solution. Perhaps you are convinced that your efforts are too feeble and worthless. Perhaps you are discouraged by the apparent collapse of our Christian culture all around us. Our text invites you to take courage!

We read in Psalm 31:24, "Be of good courage, and he shall strengthen your heart, all ye that hope in the LORD." We might also list numerous other passages, such as Psalm 91, which opens with this assurance: "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty," and other great Psalms of comfort such as the Twenty-seventh and the Thirty-seventh.

Christianity is not a recreation for emotional delight, nor a camping ground for wishful thinkers - it is a body of bold and courageous men and women who, having looked unto Jesus, take courage and go through life confident of the hope and security that is theirs for time and eternity. We often hear these days that the world needs Christ - "It is Christ or chaos."

This is very true, and I agree completely, but we must first start with the individual. We will only find the solution to our world problems when individual after individual determines in their own heart that - no matter what - they will live solely and completely for Jesus and His Kingdom - regardless of the cost!

A soldier once said that it was not the battle, but the waiting and the anticipation of the battle that gave him fear. But once in the midst of the battle - almost as a reflex - he had courage and confidence. Perhaps you have fears and doubts because you either look too far ahead, or find yourself going in the wrong direction. It may also be that you are thinking too much about yourself and too little about God.

The next time you think God has forsaken you, turn to Psalm 121 and read with assurance: "My help cometh from the Lord which made heaven and earth .. The Lord is thy keeper ... The Lord is thy shade on thy right hand." This Psalm will also assure you that God is ever alert. When your heart would sink within you, read Deuteronomy 33:27, which tells us: "The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms." Be assured, you will never sink with His arms underneath. In Him, you have the supporting strength of all creation. The next time you have a fear about tomorrow and its needs, read Psalm 23, "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want." Then read it again and put the emphasis on "I shall not want." Why be afraid when you can take courage in Psalm 27:1, "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?" Those who walk with Jesus walk through this life with happy confidence!

Get out of the coward's seat, forsake the defeatist and those who lament the difficulties of life, and get going with Jesus! He is a way of life that is the way of life. In this life, we know that there are oppressions, sorrows, doubts, fears and great heartaches. All of these are the products of man in his fumbling. But remember, God's Word has said: "... he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved." (Matthew 24:13). We have no promise, or hope, that the world will somehow be perfect if we trust in Jesus, but we do have an assurance of personal victory through Jesus, and strength in adversity.

In Ephesians 6:13 we read: "Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all to stand." My friends, take courage as you face life's difficulties! God is able and willing to come to our aid if we will but trust in Him and let Him be the Captain of the ship. Jesus said: "Be of good cheer; I have overcome the world." - and, in Him, so do His followers! Take courage in God through The Anointed! And remember, courage does not consist in feeling no fear but in conquering our fears through faith in Jesus.

The Psalmist reminds us that when his mother and father forsook him, he did not bemoan his misfortune - he turned unto the LORD who eternally sustains all those who trust in Him! When fears overtake you, I adjure you to turn to the source of all power! When failures threaten, turn with Solomon to the fountainhead of all wisdom! If doubts get you down, look at the big picture, for God is in control, and He has an eternal purpose. With God all things work together for good. Romans 8:28.

Do not surrender to the evils of the day. If you do, you are like Gehazi, the servant of Elisha, who could only see the enemy compassed round about them (2 Kings 6:15). He was fearful, and thought ultimate destruction was surely at hand. But Elisha prayed and asked the LORD to open his eyes. It was then that Gehazi could see the mountain covered with chariots of fire - the armies of heaven!

Maybe you are afraid for your life because of your commitment to Jesus. Be strong! Our Lord said, "Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul: but rather fear Him that is able to destroy both soul and body in hell." Matthew 10:28.

When fears assail, it is well to remember the simple story of Jesus and His disciples in the fishing boat on the sea of Galilee. He calmly slept as they toiled against a wild storm. Finally in sheer desperation they woke Him. He rose, calmed the storm, and asked them very simply, "Why are ye so fearful?" The sudden calm that fell upon that fearful scene was now as unusual and awesome as the raging storm had been just a few moments before, and they wondered at their own foolishness for having been afraid while Jesus was near. That same Jesus asks of you today, "Why are ye so fearful?" As He was ready and powerful on that day, so He is likewise ready to calm the fears that sweep like a storm over your own life. He can and He will, if you will wholly surrender to Him, and trust Him.

Whatever trouble you face, turn your eyes upon Him who gave Himself for you and who has overcome the world - and receive the vast promises of God as your very own. Look full into the face of Jesus, and the fears of life will grow strangely dim, and fade completely away.

Child of God, be ye strong and of a good courage! Be not afraid! The LORD hath not given us a spirit of fear; but of power, love, and a sound mind! Greater is He that is in you than he that is in the world! Therefore - no matter how bad things get - as long as we are obedient to God, and put our trust in Him, we need fear nothing! Hallelujah!

THE SIXTH COMMANDMENT

You Shall Not Murder (Exodus 20:13 - NASV)

The Bible addresses three types of homicide - voluntary, involuntary and justifiable. Voluntary or intentional homicide is murder committed with premeditation and malice. Involuntary or unintentional homicide is accidental. And justifiable homicide is the lawful or warranted taking of a human life.

Previous installments of "The Sixth Commandment" addressed voluntary homicide. Involuntary or unintentional homicide will be discussed in this installment.

Involuntary Homicide

Yahweh's Law comes from a perfect and just Judge and Lawgiver; therefore, it takes into account the person who accidentally kills another person.

The Cities of Refuge

He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall be surely put to death. And if a man lie not in wait, but God deliver him into his hand; then I will appoint thee a place whither he shall flee. But if a man come presumptuously upon his neighbour to slay him with guile; thou shalt take him from mine altar; that he may die. (Exodus 21:12-14).

In the midst of the judgment for voluntary manslaughter, Yahweh's Law provides protection for the man who accidentally takes another person's life. James Moffatt renders verse 13 more clearly:

...If he did not intend it maliciously, if it was accidental, I will appoint a place of asylum for such among you. (The Bible: A New Translation by James Moffatt, Harper & Brothers Publishers, 1950).

Yahweh identified and expanded upon this appointed place or place of asylum in the book of Numbers:

... ye [Israel] shall appoint ... cities of refuge for you; that the slayer may flee thither, which killeth any person unawares and they shall be unto you cities for refuge from the [blood] avenger; that the manslayer die not, until he stand before the congregation in judgment ... These six cities shall be a refuge, both for the children of Israel, and for the stranger, and for the sojourner among them: that every one that killeth any person unawares may flee thither. (Numbers 35:11-15).

James Strong defines "shegagah," from which our English word "unawares" is derived, as "a mistake or inadvertent transgression. The translators of the New American Standard Bible rendered "shegagah" as "unintentionally," the New Berkley Version translators rendered it as "accidentally." Yahweh further expounded upon the cities of refuge for anyone, Israelite or non-Israelite, who committed an act of involuntary homicide:

... if he [the slayer] thrust [so as to kill] him [the victim] suddenly without enmity, or have cast upon him any thing without laying of wait, or with any stone, wherewith a man may die, seeing him not, and cast it upon him, that he die, and was not his enemy, neither sought his harm: then the congregation shall judge between the slayer and the revenger of blood according to these judgments: And the congregation shall deliver the slayer out of the hand of the revenger of blood, and ... restore him to the city of his refuge, whither he was fled: and he shall abide in it unto the death of the high priest ... but after the death of the high priest the slayer shall return into the land of his possession (Numbers 35:22-29).

Moses also commented upon the cities of refuge:

Thou shalt separate three cities for thee in the midst of thy land ... that every slayer may flee thither ... Whoso killeth his neighbour ignorantly, whom he hated not in time past; as when a man ... fetcheth a stroke with the axe to cut down the tree, and the head slippeth from the helve, and lighteth upon his neighbour, that he die; he shall flee unto one of those cities, and live: Lest the avenger of the blood pursue the slayer, while his heart is hot, and overtake him, because the way is long, and slay him; whereas he was not worthy of death, inasmuch as he hated him not in time past ... And if Yahweh thy God enlarge thy coast, as he hath sworn unto thy fathers ... then shalt thou add three cities more for thee ... That innocent blood be not shed in thy land [by the blood avenger] ... and so blood be upon thee. (Deuteronomy 19:2-10).

Justifiable Homicide The Blood Avenger

"Imprisonment" in a city of refuge may not initially seem just. However, sanctuary is much more charitable than death at the hands of the blood avenger or the dead man's kinsmen. Furthermore, there was no specified time limit for a slayers confinement in a city of refuge except for the life of the high priest. If the high priest died the following day, the slayer would have the lawful right to leave that same day with immunity, although he may not choose to do so depending on the vindictiveness of the kinsman. If, however, after the death of the high priest, the blood avenger took the slayer's life, the blood avenger would be guilty of murdering an innocent life. On the other hand, if a person relegated to one of the cities of refuge departed prior to the death of the high priest and was then subsequently put to death by the slain person's kinsman, the blood avenger would not be guilty of murder:

... if the slayer shall at any time come without the border of the city of his refuge, whither he was fled; and the revenger of blood find him ... and ... kill the slayer; he shall not be guilty of blood: Because he [the slayer] should have remained in the city of his refuge until the death of the high priest ... (Numbers 35:26-28).

Consequently, it was justifiable homicide if a blood avenger took the life of the slayer who prematurely departed from the city of refuge in which he had sought asylum.

In Defense of Others

It is also justifiable homicide when someone must be killed in order to protect the life of another person or to thwart someone in the commission of a capital crime. Moses and Abraham provide biblical precedent for taking the law into one's own hands in such instances. In Exodus 2, Moses slew the Egyptian taskmaster who was brutally assaulting another Israelite. In Genesis 14, Abraham justifiably killed others in order to rescue his nephew, Lord, from his kidnappers. Therefore vigilantism is biblically justified when defending to rescuing another person from being victimised by a criminal.

Self Defense

It is also justifiable homicide when a criminal is killed in order to protect your own life or the life of your family.

If a thief is caught while breaking in [to someone's home after dark], and is struck so that he dies, there will be no bloodguiltiness on his account. But if the sun has risen on him [the thief], there will be bloodguiltiness on his account. (Exod 22:2-3 - NASV).

In other words, Yahweh's law exonerates someone who kills a burglar. Bouvier's Law Dictionary defines "burglary:"

The breaking and entering the house of another in the night-time, with intent to commit a felony therein, whether the felony be actually committed or not. (Bouvier's Law Dictionary: A Concise Encyclopedia of the Law, Kansas City, MO; Vernon Law Book Company, 1914) Volume 1, p.404.

A person who defends his family, home or possessions by killing a thief in the dark of the night is not to be held accountable for putting a burglar to death. However, if an unarmed thief, who in the judgment of the homeowner does not intend bodily harm, is killed during daylight hours, the killer is to be held responsible for the thief's blood. The reason for this distinction is because it is impossible to determine an intruder's intentions in the dark of night. Thus, during a night raid, Yahweh gives the benefit of doubt to the homeowner. The same statute implies that a person who kills an armed daytime assailant under any circumstances is likewise vindicated.

Not only does Yahweh's Law provide for self-defense, Yahshua promoted the same by using self-defense to illustrate two different spiritual points:

But be sure of this, that if the head of the house had known at what time of the night the thief was coming, he would have been on the alert and would not have allowed his house to be broken into. (Matthew 24:43, NASV)

When a strong man, fully armed, guards his own homestead, his possessions are undisturbed .... (Luke 11:21-22) NASV).

Every Christian should be such a "homesteader," in spite of how the government, media or even some preachers may try to vilify such a person. According to the Apostle Paul, anyone who fails to care for his family is in jeopardy of serious judgment:

... if any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel. (1 Timothy 5:8).

After first providing for your family's spiritual safety, a Christian needs to provide adequate protection for his family and their possessions. There is limited benefit in providing food, clothing and shelter for your family if a "welcome mat" has been laid out for thieves, rapists and murderers to come and take it from you.

Furthermore, Yahshua commanded His disciples to buy self-defense weapons.*

... He [Yahshua] said unto them [His apostles], ... he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment, and buy one. (Luke 22:36).

Yahshua's command agrees with the Patriarch David's admonition:

Let the high praises of God be in their [the saints] mouth, and a two-edged sword in their hand; to execute vengeance upon the heathen, and punishments upon the people; to bind their kings with chains, and their nobles with fetters of iron; to execute upon them the judgment written: this honour have all his saints. Praise ye Yahweh (Psalm 149:6-9).

Not every individual Christian is responsible for everything contained in this passage, but every Christian householder is commissioned by Yahshua and by the law of Yahweh to defend his family, his possessions and himself. Therefore every Christian man should be armed. Moreover, every woman without a man to protect her should be likewise armed.

Accidental slayings, killing someone who prematurely departs from a city of refuge, killing capital criminals in defense of others and in self-defense are some instances of justifiable homicide provided for in the Bible. In the next installment, we will examine at least two other cases where taking the life of another person is justified.

*Governments that conspire to disarm their citizens often identify defense weapons as "assault weapons." By employing the term "assault weapons," the anti-gun lobby deceptively attempts to associate all gun owners with criminal behaviour.

GOOD OL' TEA

by Adam de Witt

I think by now most readers know that vaccinations are the cause of cancer, they lay hold of the part of our bodies that have a slight weakness (either acquired or inherited). For one person that maybe in the lungs; in another in the blood; in another in the brain; in another in the bowel, and so on. Cancer may well, in a vaccinated person, not grow for a long time, but a 'trigger' is all that is needed. In the case of the lungs, the 'trigger' may be smoking, but the trigger can not work if the person is unvaccinated. The reason Christians should not smoke, is because we are NOT to pollute the Temple of the King, HRH Jesus the Anointed. For smoking is a heathen practice, which 'dumb Whitey' learnt from the pagan North American Mongoloids (American Indians). In the same way, we are not to listen to Rock, Rock 'N Roll, Hip-Hop, Jazz, Judeo-Christian Rock, and so on. For these rhythm and beats dumb whitey learnt from the pagan African Negroids. It is true, we did take many food stuffs and 'grasses' (herbs) from lands where pagans live, but the pagans did not invent spuds, tomatoes, rice, tea and so forth.

God created these foods for our use when we find such. We are simply to use these things in the light of God's Laws. So, although for instance we in Old Testament, and much of New Testament times never heard of Bison or Wildebeest, and pagans ate them traditionally, we too can eat these if they fit within the clean guidelines of God's Laws.

Vaccinations are most definitely unclean; and unclean things are bad for one's health. Vaccinations stem from paganism. 'Grasses' (the English word for 'herbs', - herb is French for grass), were given from God for healing, indeed, all the earth and its fullness is the LORD's. Pagans have simply used and misused, as we have too, those things God created. Pagans, Judeo-Christians, and Christians alike, have used 'grasses' for healing, .... Edomites tend to add the element of alchemy that lead to pharmaceuticals. Witches and Judeos both used 'grasses' coupled with 'spells,' ... the pagans to the goddess, the Judeos to the goddess as well, which they thought was God (but that is a story in itself). Herbalism in Western culture goes back to Adam - the race of Genesis One which went to Egypt, Sumeria, Assyria, Greece and so on.

The beginnings of vaccinations are hard to trace. It seems to be shrouded in mystery. One of the first Judeo-Christians to use inoculations (vaccinations) was Cotton Mather, 1663-1728. He was a Colonial American Puritan leader, a leader of witch-hunts in New England and a writer of books on the history of superstitious beliefs.

His study of paganism then begs the ask, was he inspired by something he learnt? Mather's method of inoculation, first done in 1721, was to take a toothpick, dip it into "the pus from a pustule of a smallpox patient and smearing it into a scratch on the arm of a well person." (The Poisoned Needle, Eleanor Mc Bean, 1974, #453 @ $28.05). Of the 224 persons he experimented on, six died soon as a result; six seemed unaffected, whilst the rest had suffered poorly in various degrees. Thereafter some died of the afflictions. He created outrage at the time and for a while his life was in danger. Cotton Mather dabbled in pagan unclean practices which, it seemed, he learnt from those he persecuted. A 'woodcut' (an early picture print) from 'De Ianijs et phitonicijs Mulieribus' by Ulrich Molitor of 1489, shows a witch inoculating a man by shooting a twig into his foot. The woodcut has been reprinted in the Encyclopedia of Witches and Witchcraft by Rosmary Ellen Guiley, 1989.

Of course, who is going to admit they learned from the heathen? Particularly if they are 'upstanding' Christians, right? And how, several doctors have claimed never to have seen cancer in an unvaccinated person. Yet we do have cases of cancer before the era of mass vaccination. But the cases have been very rare, and, may I add, often suffered by the 'well-heeled.' One of the German Emperors of the 18th age, for instance, died of cancer. But then the rich could afford to hire quacks who used such woeful methods such as 'bleedings' using leeches. 'Bleedings' come from paganism; the cutting of the flesh, and the letting of blood was believed to let out a spook, for illnesses were seen as being nothing more than a naughty spook taking hold of us. That is why one said, "Bless you," when you sneezed, because the 'morons' believed that a sneeze was a spook (they called it a demon) leaping out of the body. That is why King Jesus had to suffer the ignorance of so many morons who called every illness from a cold to epilepsy a demon. That is why, for that matter, the term demon was used in Scripture for an illness, our poor feeble-minded, stupid-stitious folk could not handle truth. Logic is something Saxons hate, they love siding with heathen stupid-stition. Yea, even to this day many Saxons still believe in superspook, Mr. S.A. Tan, a 'Fiery hell,' a Golden city on clouds, rapture and a whole range of wackey ideas. They prefer mystery to logic.

I find it interesting that the average life-span God has set for law-breaking Saxons has been pretty much the same for Saxons today. Several writers have written books to show that Saxons have a foe, a clique of plotters, a brood of vipers who wish the untimely death of the Saxon race, and that vaccinations is one of the tools used to help in their evil scheme. Yet, the average age has not changed. I find it interesting that so many greenies, hippies, New Agers, health freaks and assorted food geeks come down on tea, and yet the average life-span of Saxons is still 70+ years.

I believe that the aim of vaccinations was to lower the life span. It is noteworthy that tea did become a cheap household drink when vaccinations became more widespread. Tea is a medicinal 'grass.' It is a clean 'herb.' I believe God gave us tea for the throngs when the brood-of-vipers gave us vaccinations for the throngs to slow down the side effects of inoculations.

The following findings on tea are worth noting: Tea holds antioxidants called flavonoids (any of a class of compounds including several white or yellow plant pigments. From Latin: flavus 'yellow.'). US researchers have found the vital functions of artery wall linings bettered in folks with artery disease who drank four cups of black tea a day. The outcome of Endothelial function bettered with those who took part in the research, who drank four cups of black tea a day, while those on water had no such betterment. Antioxidants have also been hailed in the fight against cancers. It seems that 'grasses' particularly in the humble 'cuppa' have been a gift and thus a disguised blessing from God, despite the anti-tea claims by assorted Neo-Pagans in the 'Health Food' industry.

IMMIGRANTS, NOT AMERICANS, MUST ADAPT

(you could substitute Australia for America in much of this! I heard someone read this to John Laws on 18-02-02), and he agreed with it!)

I am tired of this nation worrying about whether we are offending some individual or their culture. Since the terrorist attacks on Sept. 11, we have experienced a surge in patriotism by the majority of Americans. However, the dust from the attacks had barely settled when the "politically correct" crowd began complaining about the possibility that our patriotism was offending others.

I am not against immigration, nor do I hold a grudge against anyone who is seeking a better life by coming to America (provided they apply legally and don't gate-crash). Our population is almost entirely comprised of descendants of immigrants. However, there are a few things that those who have recently come to our country, and apparently some born here, need to understand.

This idea of America being a multicultural community has served only to dilute our sovereignty and our national identity. As Americans, we have our own culture, our own society, our own language and our own life-style. This culture has been developed over centuries of struggles, trails, and victories by millions of men and women who have sought freedom. We speak ENGLISH, not Spanish, Arabic, Chinese, Japanese, Russian, or any other language. Therefore, if you wish to become part of our society, learn the language!

"In God We Trust" is our national motto. This is not some Christian, right-wing, political slogan. We adopted this motto because Christian men and women, on Christian principles, founded this nation, and this is clearly documented. It is certainly appropriate to display it on the walls of our schools. If God offends you, then I suggest you consider another part of the world as your new home, because God is part of our culture.

If Stars and Stripes offend you, or you don't like Uncle

Sam, then you should seriously consider a move to another part of this planet. We are happy with our culture and have no desire to change, and we really don't care how you did things where you came from. This is OUR COUNTRY, our land, and our life-style.

Our First Amendment gives every citizen the right to express his opinion and we will allow you every opportunity to do so. But, once you are done complaining, whining, and griping about our flag, our pledge, our national motto, or our way of life, I highly encourage you to take advantage of one other great American freedom, THE RIGHT TO LEAVE!

(This should be handed to immigrants! CIM)

A DIFFERENT PERSPECTIVE

by John L. Kucek

Since the United States is such a good, peace-loving country, with peace-keeping troops in over one hundred countries, I can't imagine why anyone would hate the United States to the extent that they would deliberately sacrifice their own lives to attack our nation.

While that may be our perspective, Khalid Amayreh, a Palestinian, has different views. He says, "You have narrowed our horizons, so much that you have made us feel that only two 'choices' are awaiting us, either to die as suicidal bombers or to be slaughtered as sheep."

Now that the government has declared War on Terrorism, it appears that we are headed for really big trouble. Why? Because the government declared War on Poverty, and we got more poverty. When they declared War on Illiteracy, we got more illiteracy. When they declared War on Crime, we got more crime, and when they declared War on Drugs, we got more drugs. Following the pattern, now that they have declared War on Terrorism, brace yourself for more terrorism.

A Terrible Racist Poem

In Vietnam things not O.K. Think to self "Must get away". So jump on boat and come to Aussie, "Ah soi" I say, "What lovely possie." Go quick smart to welfare feller; He hand me money - I give bank teller. Welfare say: "Come here no more, we send you cheque right to your door." Six months on dole - no longer poor, Drive around in Commodore. Write to friends in Vietnam, Tell them: "Come here quick as can." Still on Welfare (but work at job) so get loan from finance mob. Get pretty smart - know what to do, Buy big house in Waterloo. Friends write and tell me: "On the way! Can I find them place to stay?" When they arrive - with beds I fix, In just four rooms get twenty-six. Soon I am banking plenty rent. Five in back yard (live in tent). All are drawing social money - Must think Keating (Hawke, Howard) "Bloody bunny." With all my friends living there, Next door neighbour start to swear, Tell me he must move away - I buy his house - with cash I pay. Now everything is going good, Soon I own all neighbourhood. Open fish shop next to Coles. Make big profits from spring rolls. Get real fat from eating nice, Sure as hell beats bloody rice. Still on welfare - still gets rents, Think I buy Mercedes Benz. Very happy real good life, Bring out girl and make her wife. Take up hobby - call it breeding, Baby bonus pay for feeding. Kids need dentist - wife needs pills, We get free, we got no bills. White man good he pay all year, To keep the welfare running here. We think Australia damn good place. Too damn good for Aussie race! So if you not like yellow man - PLENTY ROOM IN VIETNAM (perhaps you'd like to substitute Iran, Iraq, Afghanistan, or any Asian country for Vietnam).---

May the God of Abraham bless and keep you safe,
