BASICS

by Ben Williams

"No man can lay any foundation other than the one that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." 1 Corinthians 3:11

Jesus is the Foundation of the Kingdom of God. Yahweh placed Him as the Chief Cornerstone of the Kingdom (Eph 2:20; 1 Pet 2:6). He is the Basis of our faith. Other foundations have claimed to be of God. But there can be only one true foundation ... because there is only one Jesus Christ. All other foundations claiming to be Christian are imposters and illusions, and the structures built upon them cannot be the Kingdom of God.

The foundation of a building is the most important part of a structure. Both Paul and Peter call Jesus "the Chief Cornerstone." The chief cornerstone was the first and largest anchor stone in a foundation. The rest of the foundation stones were laid from the chief cornerstone. Thus, Jesus is the Foundation of the foundation. Jesus is THE BEGINNING (the foundation; the basis) of the system we call "The Kingdom of God." Since Jesus ascended his throne, the Kingdom is also called "the Reign of Christ."

Jesus was the basis for the Kingdom even before He took his throne. Before He was born, the Kingdom was based (founded) upon the promise of his birth. Then Jesus became King and brought in the New Covenant phase of the Kingdom, and it was based upon his presence. Thus, Jesus was and is THE FOUNDATION (the basis) of the Kingdom of God ... past, present, and future.

Indeed, He (Jesus) was foreknown before the founding of the system, and He was manifested at the end of the times for your sake. 1 Peter 1:20.

Jesus was known before He brought in the New Covenant system (i.e., before He became King). He had been revealed to Israel through the messianic prophecies. Yahweh had promised Israel that a Saviour would save her from her sins (Micah 5:2). In the end of that "time" of the prophets, Jesus was manifested. As an adult He proclaimed the Kingdom of God. When He was raised immortal as King, He instituted the New Covenant Age: the new "System" (i.e., the "new world"). It was the new phase of The Kingdom of God. Jesus confirmed it when He announced his Reign as King.

... All authority in heaven and upon the Earth is given to me. and, behold, I am with you always, till the end of the age. (Matthew 28:18, 20).

The Kingdom is "the system." There are many kingdoms (many systems), but God's System is a distinct and separate system ... exclusive of all other systems (all other kingdoms/governments). Thus, to find the true Kingdom of God we must be foundation inspectors. If we find the true Foundation we will have found the Kingdom of God. If the foundation is not genuine, the whole structure is wrong.

WORLD

In the KJV New Testament, the term "world" appears 238 times, translated from three Greek words:

1. cosmos, 186 times;

2. aion, 38 times;

3. oikoumene, 14 times.

"Cosmos" means "system."

"Aion" (eon) means "age."

"Oikoumene" means "homeland" (i.e., the Greek/Roman world). All three words are translated "world" in the KJV, but none of them mean "the Earth" as most people assume, and as most English translations have inferred.

"Cosmos" means "system," but is usually translated "world" in English versions. This creates a big problem because the English term "world" is thought to mean "the earth." And in most places where "cosmos" appears in the Greek New Testament it cannot possibly mean "the Earth." The Greek "cosmos" was a "system," and it meant a network of components working together. It is conceivable that the term could possibly be used to mean "the Earth (with all its components)." It might even be used to refer to "the whole universe." But, the writers of the Bible simply did not use the term in that way.

The fact is, "cosmos" simply meant "a system"; often it meant "a government system," or "a kingdom." A

The views and opinions expressed in the articles herein or herewith are those of the authors and not necessarily those of CIM. They are written by fallible men. You must ask Jesus to guide your studies!

“cosmos” is a “system.” Depending upon the context in which it is used, it can mean any system (any “world”). In Jesus’ day there were several “worlds”: there was the Roman world (the Roman system), and there were the various other “worlds” (non-Roman kingdoms/systems) outside the Roman Empire. Furthermore, there was the Cosmos of God (God’s System) .. over which Jesus became King. [world of music, world of sport, world of art, etc.]

Thus, only when one interprets the term “world” to mean “system” can its use be understood in the context of the Bible. In English versions of the Bible, when we read about something happening “in the world” we must determine which “world” (which system) the writer is talking about. He could be talking about the System of God, the System of Rome, or about some other system.

When the KJV translators rendered a verse to say that Jesus was “the foundation of the world,” the original writings actually intended that Jesus was “the Foundation of the SYSTEM” (the System of God). Thus, in the New Testament we find several verses associating Jesus with “the beginning of the system” (“the beginning of the world”-KJV), “the founding of the system” (“foundation of the world”-KJV), and “before eonian times” (“before the world began”-KJV). These verses - poorly translated in the KJV to sound as if they refer to the whole Earth - actually describe Jesus as the Basis of the System (Kingdom) of God.

This is a basic truth. Ignorance of this basic truth causes confusion and loss of direction, and prevents you from going on to more truth. In order for our people to grow up and develop normally (mentally) and spiritually (speaking) and enjoy a sensible and worthwhile grasp on reality, it is essential that we begin with a firm grasp of this basic concept. (check your concordance and lexicon).

THINKING RIGHT HOW -VS- WHAT

Learning HOW to think is more important than learning WHAT to think. Our grasp of basics governs the way we think about everything. Our thoughts are produced from our grasp of basic concepts! At the level where thought is produced, then, is where we must focus our attention. THE WAY WE THINK IS MORE IMPORTANT THAN WHAT WE THINK. If our way of thinking is good we stand a better chance of generating right thoughts. On the other hand, if our way of thinking is bad we stand a better chance of producing faulty thoughts.

We must make sure our thought factories are in tune. This is essential. We must first focus upon the basics, which in turn will facilitate good thinking. As a teacher, my job description is not only to help people learn what to think, I am also to help them know HOW TO THINK. The “how” is all-important.

Learning facts and details is not enough. How many people do you know who have read and memorized the Bible, but still can’t understand it? We must learn how to reason and how to keep our thinking apparatus in tune. An old proverb says we can give a man a fish which feeds him for one day, or we can teach him how to fish ... which feeds him the rest of his life. Likewise, handing out a thought feeds a man for the moment. But teaching a man how to think feeds him for the rest of his life.

Learning HOW to think begins at the level of BASICS. Learned teachers know this. This is why philosophers focus upon basics ... because basics are the foundation of the whole thought process. Visionaries tend to focus on basics. For most of recorded history, the atom was considered too small and too basic to be of importance. But now, thanks to some visionaries, mankind knows that the basic atom (the foundational component of all materials) determines the attributes of every physical thing in the universe. Basics affect everything. The teacher that affects a student’s basic views affects everything that student thinks or does the rest of his life. (another reason to home-school)

Today, with so much access to technological, legal, and religious data, we can easily forget that we need basics before we start trying to digest tons of data. We take up issues, and even argue them, without knowing their origin. We tend to jump in mid-stream and try to navigate without knowing from where the stream comes, or where it is going. We tend to look at the tree without considering the root system, or the fruit. Ignore the basics and you run a high risk of error in your thinking.

• So our first BASIC is this: Jesus, the greatest teacher, taught us how to think more than what to think. When He admonished us to follow Him, He did not mean that He expected us to think His thoughts, but rather that we should develop HIS WAY OF THINKING. That is, we should learn to look at things from His point of view. That requires learning the basics.

“The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.” (Psalms 111:10)

With that in mind, let us consider a few basics in our lives. This will be an exercise to hopefully spur you to greater investigation on your own. Let us go back to some basics and adjust our thinking caps.

IN FOCUS - OUT OF FOCUS

There is a proper way for us to perceive God. When we perceive Him correctly, blessings flow naturally. In fact, the blessings flow so naturally that they are often taken for granted. Again, perspective is everything. The same is true concerning family. When family is perceived correctly, natural blessings flow within the family ... automatically.

The wisdom man needs above all else is knowing how to perceive God. When God is perceived correctly, the result is sanity or a “sound mind.” When God is not perceived correctly, the result is insanity (an unsound mind). Thus, we cannot but conclude that the majority of people today have been robbed of much of their sanity since they have been given incorrect perspectives of God and family. This sad condition has infected the people, without them knowing. Thus, most people today are mentally damaged ... but they assume they are normal.

It behooves US ALL to run checks on ourselves, and to strive to keep our grasp on reality in tune. None of us are immune to the effects of Babylon in our lives, and the insanity that can infect us. Without Jesus, we are simply confused. Consider, if you will, your own basic concept of God.

It may seem odd to question this, but think about it. In order to see the world correctly we must first have a correct way of thinking about the One who created all things. If we attribute wrong motives to God we place wrong values in the things He does.

Our ways of thinking about God affect our perceptions of Him. Each man has a limited perception of God. Our knowledge of Him is limited because man is created LOWER than God. To fully understand God it would require that we be on a par with God. That not being the case, man must constantly strive for improvement in his

FREE WILL VS OWNERSHIP

Many disagree about whether man has a free will or not. This 26-page booklet shows from the Scriptures that free will is not the fundamental issue, but rather the fact that the Creator OWNS all things and is responsible for all that He owns. There are very interesting legal implications in this.

imperfect knowledge of God. We must strive for growth in our knowledge, while also striving to re-tune our knowledge daily for more accuracy in our perception of God. This is a life-long endeavour, the reward of which lies in the effort itself. We are made better in the doing of the work, notwithstanding the additional benefits of the knowledge produced by the work. Being occupied in this effort is healing in itself, and creates a wholesome state of mind (a sound mind) in us so as to make us wiser and more productive in our personal and public life.

The importance of this consideration cannot be overemphasized. The thinking patterns, beliefs, and the thousands of minute suggestions we assimilate during our youth accumulate together into a body of thought that affects our concept of God. If we amass a body of erroneous thought patterns, it is possible that our whole perception of God can be wrong, and we can find ourselves believing in a god who has little or no resemblance to the true God of the Bible. Thus it behooves us to constantly, in our daily lives, to test ourselves in our thought patterns and maintain a workable perception of God and His plan for us. So, how do you perceive God? What kind of god is He? What is the basis of His relationship with you?

I am not asking for his name, or his title. It is not enough to state a name for Him. We can call Him by any name we want ... any of which may be correct. But to learn the right name is not enough. We must know Him! We must know HOW to think about Him. For instance, how do we see Him? Do we perceive Him as a Ruler, or a Father? Are we his subjects, or his children? Does He wait for us to find Him, or does He initiate the search by calling us to Himself? Do we struggle on our own to reach Him, or does He reach out and grasp our hand? Is He indifferent, or is He caring? Does He watch us merely to catch us in error, or is He watching over us to guide us away from harm? Is He unknowable and mysterious, or does He reveal Himself to us? Does He give us Law to condemn us, or to guide us and teach us right from wrong?

Do we view our God as someone with whom we can bargain to get favours and advantages? Do we suppose that our quality of life (or the afterlife) depends on how proficient we are at bargaining with our God? How we view the basic nature of God is the thing in question. Is our God angry, dangerous? Does He need to be appeased to ward off his vengeance? Does the quality of life (or afterlife) depend upon how well we appease the anger, passion, and ego of our God? Do we serve him out of fear of what He will do to us if we don't? Again, we must inquire as to the basic nature of our God. Why do we worship Him?

• BASIC #2: Regardless of what name you use for your God, it is your definition of his basic nature that defines whether or not your God is the true God. You may call him by a particular name, but that does not define Him. It is your basic view of him that determines what/who you actually worship. If we attribute incorrect traits to our God (the way we think of Him) our whole perspective of the Bible and its teachings can be amiss, and our view of ourselves and our purpose in life can be defective.

BASIC FAITH

Upon what do we base our faith? Is our faith in God, or is it in an organization (church, government, etc.). Or, do we merely believe in the consensus of the masses (the voice of the majority)?

In other words, what source do we look to for ultimate answers? Whatever that source is, that is the true foundation of our faith. We must first settle the basic question, "Is my faith really in God, or am I placing my faith in a tenet of some organization? Am I looking to God, or am I looking to men who claim to know God?" Be honest with yourself.

Gathering data from all sources is good. However, a data source is not where we should place our faith. A data source is only information. If we are not careful in this, we can end up putting a data source in place of God himself. That is idolatry. To view the creation from Jesus' point of view, we must first believe (have faith) in the Creator Himself. We must believe that He exists, and that He rewards us when we seek Him. That is the starting point.

"But, apart from faith it is impossible to please God, for he that approaches God must believe that He exists, and is a rewarder to those seeking Him out." Heb. 11:6

This may seem a mute point, but don't forget that it is possible to think you believe in God when you really only believe in an organization that claims to speak for Him. How many times have we heard people say, "My preacher says ..."; or "My church teaches ..." [or as one pastor once told me "Our church doesn't teach that ..." when it came to a Biblical doctrine! CIM]?

If we begin our search for truth by actually believing that God exists [see Does God Exist, Pinter, #888 @ $22.00], and that He will reward us for seeking truth, we have a good chance of finding both. If, on the other hand, we begin by allowing a church organization to tell us who God is, and what is truth, we will find neither. Nor will we find truth by looking to the masses, or to the government.

• Here is a basic #3: In order for it to be possible for you to begin learning truth, you must first possess and practice a sincere, basic belief in God. You must believe that He exists, and that He will lead you to truth if you seek it sincerely [and in obedience to His Law]. Expect it to take a lot of work and time.

If your concept of God is one who is unable or unwilling to lead seekers to truth, then He would not be the God He claims to be [always in the context of Israel, of course! CIM] So begin by letting God be God. Don't put yourself off by trying to insert man, church, or government between you and God.

MYSTERY BABYLON

Babylon still lives in spirit. See Daniel 2, wherein is foretold the evolution of world-ruling kingdoms from the time of King Nebuchadnezzar until our day. The descending order of worldruling kingdoms was symbolized by a huge metallic statue with head of gold, chest and arms of silver, belly and thighs of brass, legs of iron, and feet of iron and clay. The spirit of Babylon (the head of gold) was inherited by the kingdom of Persia. The spirit of Persia

(the chest and arms of silver) was inherited by the kingdom of Greece. The spirit of Greece (the belly and thighs of brass) was inherited by the kingdom of Rome. And the spirit of Rome (the legs of iron) was inherited by the multi-headed European-type Beast System (European/American republics/democracies) that have ruled the world ever since. These European type republics/democracies were represented by the statue's feet of iron and clay. The United States, with its European-type government, falls into this category too.

The government of the United States is Roman in nature. In fact, nearly all "republics" are Roman in nature. The Republic of Rome was the basis of all succeeding republics - including the United States. The Roman fascist symbol [the fasces is a bundle of sticks bound together with a hatchet in the middle] is displayed openly for the world to see on the rear wall on both sides of the chairman's podium in the House of Representatives in Washington DC. Rome lives today in Washington DC, as well as in Canberra ACT and in every republic or democracy in every nation. And in every place where Rome still lives, Babylon still lives. Babylon lives through all these kingdoms which followed in its image.

Babylon exists. It is a real and tangible system ... even though the whole thing is built on lies and illusion. Babylon's foundation is illusion and lies, but the system is made up of real people and real organized crime. Scripture refers to Babylon as a "mystery." No doubt the mystery is that Babylon is held up by popular belief in a foundation that doesn't really exist. (refer to various leaflets put out by the Institute for Constitutional Education and Research, pointing out that Australia doesn't have a lawful constitution, nor a lawful government, nor a lawful tax office - its all just a con and hoax, kept in place by force, CIM).

Babylon is a fact of life, like it or not. We have no choice but to cope with her. She affects us every day of our lives, and we cannot help reacting to her ... if only in trying to avoid her.

Life-as-usual in this country means coping daily with Babylon, and it can get confusing. Confusion and illusion are the lifeblood of Babylon ... which is no surprise since her name ("Babylon") comes from "babel" which means "confusion." Babylon is a world of systematized deception and confusion.

Babylonians learn to be comfortable with confusion, deception, and illusion. They learn to spurn truth and reality. Sadly, this is the case with the majority of our people today. They resent truth. It has become a matter of principle to them. Illusion, aberration, and deceit are the popular ways ... and reality is unpopular.

Some of us seek truth. We like being in touch with reality. But, truth is often shadowed by mountains of deceit. Institutions of education and religion usually don't allow it. They generally serve up a cocktail of truth and lies mixed together which leaves us confused and our heads spinning. The news media certainly doesn't offer truth. They carefully edit the truth and give us only what they want us to hear (biased in the way they want us to hear it). It has been that way in this nation for more than a generation. They've been this way so long that the average citizen no longer expects truth from the media. In fact, most citizens actually shy away from truth because it can get them in trouble.

For government to prosper truth MUST be suppressed. Truth and man's government are mutually exclusive. Wars are political tools for creating governments, and they say that the first victim of war is truth. War requires an environment of lies. Creating an environment of deception gives government a jumpstart. As the leviathan (gov't) increases, truth decreases. Reality is replaced by illusion (or like Fred Toben has said - the title of his book - WHERE TRUTH IS NO DEFENCE, I WANT TO BREAK FREE. CIM).

We must contend with Babylon. We have no choice. It is around us and among us. Our challenge is to walk through the valley of confusion ... without being overcome by it. This requires determination and strong will. It requires a solid faith in Christ's Reign.

To avoid being overcome by Babylon we need an objective view of the many systems (worlds) around us. We must resist institutionalized lies and degradation. We must not trust the politically-correct people around us. We must never become comfortable with confusion. The masses are willing victims, and weak. They are compromised. When they fail to strive for truth they become enemies of truth ... that makes them our enemies. They cannot be trusted.

The mind programmed with the Babylonian thought process ceases to value truth. Truth becomes repugnant and hateful: a tool of "haters." When deception is institutionalized, truth becomes "hate crime." As in George Orwell's "1984" (published in 1949) the nightmare has become reality today. Unsanctioned thoughts can be labelled "thought crime," which can bring "Big Brother" down on you. This is especially the case now with the government's new Gestapo-like police agencies created for the so-called "War on Terrorism."

Lies and myths are popular in Babylonian society. In fact they are enshrined. Monuments are erected to them. Such monuments symbolize the principles of Babylonianism: i.e. deception, the worship of man, and the pursuit of power and pleasure. Monuments to these principles can be seen all along the grounds on Capitol Hill in Washington DC. Statues and monuments inscribed with religious verse praising "human achievement" are at every turn. The display of Free Masonic artifices rival the Acropolis of old Athens, the pyramids of Egypt, and the temples of Babylon. The monuments canonize illusion and extol guile. The worship of pleasure (fornication), also, is indigenous to the Capitol Grounds. Politicians are markedly active in this particular homage. Of course, the whole political process is a monument to deception.

• Here is the fourth basic: Babylon the Great has never died. She continues to this day because the governments and religions of the earth have inherited her spirit. The Kingdom of God is constantly assaulted by Babylonian kingdoms of the Earth.

WORLDS AT WAR

We live in an on-going war of system-vs-system (world-vs-world). It is, literally, a "war of the worlds."

Babylon (the system of man) wars continually against Christ (the system of God). The two worlds/systems exist simultaneously. People are divided along the lines of these two systems. Some choose Babylon. Some choose the Kingdom of God. Some choose neither and become Babylonians by default.

Babylon competes against the Kingdom of God for the hearts and minds of men. These two kingdoms share the same space, and they oppose one another. One is the product of God's mind, and the other is the product of man's mind. We must understand this basic fact before we can begin to understand the rest.

We live with these two systems (two worlds), and we are forced to discern between them and choose one or the other. Sadly, very few people have identified them, much less made a good choice. To discern and choose correctly we need a good grasp on reality. Jesus is the only one who can give us a grasp of reality and enable us to circumvent Babylon. There is no way but through Jesus. Every other way systematically diverts us away from reality.

Religion is a diversion away from reality. Millions of church people think they are following Jesus. They even claim to be "Christians." But most are not. They are unwitting Babylonians, confused by religious hucksters. They do not identify the real Jesus.

One may think it simple enough to discern the Kingdom of Jesus from the Kingdom of Babylon. The great differences separating the two worlds could not possibly be missed ... or could they? Experience has taught me that the differences ARE missed by most people today! For proof, just look at the profound differences and enmities separating church groups. It is not possible that they are all following the same Jesus. Yet they all claim to be Christians. This conflict of belief proves that the church world does not really know who they follow.

One churchgoer may believe in a triune god (the Trinity) which they claim is one god in three persons (according to the dictionary, a person is a 'human being.' CIM). Another churchgoer may believe in a Father God and a Son as two distinct individuals (God is not an individual, but an omni-present spirit. CIM). By the same token, one churchgoer may believe that the Government is God-inspired, while another churchgoer believes the Government is anti-Christ.

These men can arrive at their conclusions based upon their religious faith which they claim is "Christian." One churchgoer may believe there is a "Hell" ruled over by a supernatural devil (Satan), where unrepentant sinners are sent by God to receive perpetual punishment in flames and torment. Another churchgoer may believe "Hell" is merely a word for the grave, and that there is no burning Hell for sinners.

One churchgoer may believe that good people go to an outer-space "Heaven" when they die. Another churchgoer may believe people stay in the grave when they die, and are raised later to live on Earth. One churchgoer may believe that Jesus was a Jew, and that the Jews are the Israelites of the Bible. Another churchgoer may believe that Jesus was not a Jew, and that Jews are not Israelites.

Obviously, all these men cannot be correct in their beliefs. They cannot all be following the same God or the same Jesus. They may live in the same culture, and each may claim to be Christian. But their opposing beliefs prove that at least one follows a false religion (i.e. Babylonianism - note also that Baptism by full-body-immersion is also a Babylonian-Egyptian concept, CIM). They cannot both be Christians. No doubt you have seen such examples. This paradox DOES exist with our people! It exists in every State and every County in America - and elsewhere among our people. Some of these men have been tricked into believing false information about the Kingdom of Jesus.

It is a fatal mistake to assume that Babylon is easily recognized. If it were easily discerned by the average citizen, it never could have achieved the success and popularity it has enjoyed throughout the ages. Babylon's popularity relies upon confusion. Confused people do not know that they are confused. They certainly do not choose to be confused. No one wakes up in the morning and says, "Wow! Look at all that perversion, deceit, and confusion! That's for me!" No one knowingly chooses confusion (except maybe - Prov 4:14-16). However, millions unwittingly follow it, supposing that it is truth.

This problem threatens everyone today. No one is immune to the effects of institutionalized deception and confusion. Each of us need to regularly run checks on ourselves to be sure we are not taking too much for granted. Defining Babylon in contrast to the Kingdom of Jesus is a discipline that requires practice and effort ... and help from God. Too many people take this for granted, and that is why they get off track without realizing it.

• Basic #5: Babylon exists today. In order to be able to reliably identify the Kingdom of God today we must also be able to recognize Babylon. If we lose track of either kingdom it can cause us to misidentify, or simply lose track of, the opposing kingdom.

BIBLE = DIAGNOSTIC TOOL

The Bible is a diagnostic program for Christians. Like diagnostic software used to test for problems in a computer system, the Bible can be used to test for problems in man's thinking patterns. When we run diagnostic evaluations on ourselves - our own religious and political views - we are analyzing our basic thought patterns. We are analyzing our basic methods for making basic determinations and judgments. For instance: ask yourself how you arrived at your opinion about important Bible matters. Is your opinion based upon your own judgment, or have you accepted someone else's word for it without analyzing it yourself? What, basically, is it? Where does it come from, and where is it going? Do the characteristics and basic purpose of this thing make it basically good, or basically bad? How much effort have you put into discerning the basic nature of things?

For instance, you might visit Washington, DC and observe the grand architectural designs that make up the capitol grounds. The layout is impressive, designed to awe-inspire. The grand buildings and monuments evoke a sense of confidence and pride in the government ... and in ourselves. In fact, Babylon of old was the same. Old Babylon was universally admired for her architectural grandeur, her temples, her gardens, and her monuments to the glory of government and the achievement of mankind.

Only when one steps back and inquires into the basic characteristics and motives behind the buildings and monuments can we objectively discern why they were built. Beneath her aggrandized, awe-inspiring facade, Babylon was rotten through and through. The same is true of Washington DC and Capitol Hill. The superficial grandeur on display there is rotten to the core. Babylon was built with men's lives. Men's lives were considered the least valuable of all its components (Rev 18:9-13). This principle was also used in the construction of the US Government. The mortar and stone of its grand superstructure is mixed with the blood of men. That which is built upon deception and crime must itself be corrupt ... even is it has a grand and elevated outer appearance. Jesus Himself stated the principle. A bad foundation cannot support a good structure.

"A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit." (Matt 7:18)

"Either make the tree good, and his fruit good; or else make the tree corrupt, and his fruit corrupt: for the tree is known by his fruit." (Matt 12:33).

• Basic #6: God's Word is to be used as a diagnostic tool to keep our minds and hearts healthy and in tune. Examine and analyze your own thinking patterns and judgments, using the Bible as your basis. Don't be fooled and neutralized by Babylon's facade of grandeur. Don't memorize the Bible, but rather learn its spirit (its thinking patterns). Use the Bible's thinking patterns to run checks often on your own thinking patterns.

REALITY CHECK

Here is an exercise in basics. This model can be used as a template for examining most organizations. Let us examine the foundation of the US Government to determine if its beginning was good, or evil. If the foundation is evil, there is no way the superstructure can be good. A bad tree produces bad fruit. It cannot produce good fruit (Matt 7:17-18). If the motives and foundational designs of the US Government (or the Australian government for that matter, CIM) are evil, then the whole structure is irretrievably bad. That is basic!

Let us look at the founding documents to examine the foundation. The founding document is the Constitution. It not only defined that government; it vested it with the powers it required to do what it has done. The content of that document (the Constitution) reflects the motives of the men who created it. Thus, in examining the document, we are examining the motives of the men who created it.

The "Founding Fathers" created the Constitution to create a government that could control and manage its citizens, and insure its own survival and well-being. The ultimate purpose of any government is to perpetuate itself by raising a military to protect it from any enemy ... foreign or domestic. Accordingly, the Government was created and popularized under the guise of being the "protector" of its citizens, and most citizens have accepted the charade. However, government's first act, once in power, is to overthrow and subjugate its citizens militarily, economically, and spiritually. The reason for this, as all advanced politicians know, is that the most imminent danger to any central government is its citizens. They can rise up and throw off the new government quite easily if they have a mind to. Thus, the first order of any government is to directly subjugate the citizens and turn them into assets, (soldiers, taxpayers, etc) for the benefit of the government. Governments are businesses. They are financed by extorting money, goods, and services from the citizenry. Governments protect themselves by forcing citizens to fight wars to protect them. Any citizen who refuses to participate in the government's agenda is labelled a traitor or a terrorist, and he is destroyed.

The Constitution of the United States empowered Government to create its own laws (Article 1, Sections 1-5) ... (Australian Constitution, Part V, Section 51, CIM) ... a power which God had reserved to Himself alone ("You shall have no other gods before Me") That is not to say that the Constitution recognized a power of the people to create their own laws, but rather it gave power to the government to create its own laws ... not for the protection of the people, but for ITS OWN PROTECTION.

Governments do NOT protect citizens. It is not governments purpose to protect citizens. It is government's purpose to protect itself, using citizens as disposable collateral and/or assets.

What does the Bible say about governments? In essence, God tells us that creating and/or recognizing any sovereign other than Him is a basic evil. Any power that makes law is a god. Any power you officially recognize to make your law IS YOUR GOD. This basic evil is responsible for most of man's sorrows. This, in fact, is the basic evil in the Garden of Eden described in Genesis 3 ... the basic sin underlying all the problems of man-kind. No government of man that claims to be sovereign can be anything but evil. The Constitution of the United States confers sovereignty upon the Government ... to create law, enforce law, and change law at will.

The Constitution empowers politicians to decide for themselves how much they should be paid (Article 1, Section 6). This is a basic evil admitted by all. The government has always had "the best politicians money can buy." Politicians are always for sale to the highest bidder. Today politicians are so well paid, and rewarded by their financial "friends," that they spend in excess of a million dollars to just campaign for election. If they lose, no problem. They can afford it. If they win, they get it back ... and more.

The Constitution empowers the US Government to tax its citizens by force (Article 1, Sections 7-8). Forced taxation is theft, and is the reason American Colonists protested and fought for independence from England in 1776. Yet, today, runaway taxation is generally accepted in America. Americans wave flags and proclaim pride in their government while it bleeds them white and tells them it is good for them. The parasitic government is near to the point of killing its own host (the citizens), and shows no signs of slowing down. When the parasite kills its host it kills itself too. Maybe that is the only way to stop the beast.

The Constitution empowers the Government to borrow unlimited funds upon the credit of the people (Article 1, Section 8)[Section 51, iv, Aust]. Unlimited borrowing means unlimited finances. Unlimited finances means unlimited power. This evil cannot be made to look right with any amount of deception or propaganda. There is no way to hold a government responsible for its actions when it has unlimited blank checks to write for itself whenever it wants.

The Constitution empowers the Government to create and regulate its own money (Article 1, Section 8)[Section 51, xii, xiii, Aust]: a power which automatically corrupts government. This power alone is enough to enslave the people, regardless of who makes law or pretends to run the government.

"Whoever controls the volume of money in any country is absolute master of industry and commerce." President James A. Garfield.

"Permit me to issue and control the money of a nation and I care not who makes its laws." Mayer Amschel Rothschild.

The Constitution empowers the Government to raise standing armies to defend itself and enforce its laws against anyone, foreign or domestic, who may oppose it (Article 1, Section 8)[Section 51, vi, Aust]. Perpetuation of itself is government's supreme purpose.

The Constitution empowers government to declare and wage war at its own discretion with or without consent from its citizens (Article 1, section 8). Through the War Powers act, the Government is empowered under the guise of "National Security" to refuse to disclose its motives and deeds. To invoke these powers all government has to do is allege that there may be a threat to the nation [like the new anti-terrorism bills being passed now in Australia]. Meanwhile, the government and the news media conspire together to tell citizens whatever is deemed expedient to keep the public confused, passive, and under control. Under these conditions, there is absolutely NO WAY for the average citizen to address, or even know about, abuses and wrongs at the government level.

The Constitution declares itself "the supreme law of the land" (Article 6) with no recognition whatsoever of the Laws of God. In doing so, it declares sovereign power, without peer, for the government it created. The US Government recognizes NO POWER ON EARTH ABOVE ITSELF.

The clear, unmistakable picture, produced from these points is this: THE NATURE OF GOVERNMENT IS AT FIRST TO DECEIVE THE PEOPLE INTO THINKING THAT ITS PURPOSE IS TO PROTECT THEM. THEN, WHEN IT COMES TO POWER IT SUBJUGATES THEM FOR ITS OWN PURPOSES TO INSURE THE PERPETUATION OF ITSELF. TO GAIN POWER, GOVERNMENTS LIE, STEAL, AND MURDER. TO KEEP POWER, GOVERNMENTS LIE, STEAL, AND MURDER.

Governments rise to power on the premise that they will serve and protect the citizens. That, however, is a sales pitch. It is patently false ... as any unprejudiced soul can reason for himself. Governments subjugate their citizens and use them for its own benefit and perpetuation. Government rides on our backs, but without gratitude for being carried. Governments act as if they deserve to be carried by us. In fact, they convince us they are doing us a favor by enslaving us and letting us carry them. Citizens serve government.

These principles are some of the basic foundation stones upon which the giant structure of the Government has been built. With anti-God motives and anti-God principles, the US Government system is the GREAT SATAN: THE HEAD OF THE BEAST SYSTEM OF BIBLE PROPHECY. Other governments around the world are built on equally evil principles, however the US Government is the leader of the world-wide beast system.

This 'satan' seeks to destroy and/or murder any and all entities that oppose it. It also funds and justifies the unspeakable slaughter of millions of innocent unborn babies each year. Jesus and all things Christian, are hated and rejected by man's governments. No wonder central governments target people who don't like the mark of the Beast. No wonder Jesus was crucified by this same system two millennia ago. And no wonder this system still hates and fears Jesus.

• Basic #7: The United States Government is evil. No amount of spin, deception, salesmanship, or indoctrination can change the nature of this anti-Christ system. No amount of "patriotic propaganda" can make it look good. It was conceived in sin, and born in iniquity. It is based upon lies and illusions. It can only produce evil.

A PARADOX

With these points in mind, there is a paradox that confuses Americans. Americans like to believe that the Constitution and the Government are good, and that America is "the land of the free and the home of the brave." Believing this makes them feel good, and they like to feel good ... even at great cost to their own character. Thus, in order to maintain faith in the faulty structure of the American system people must look away, and not notice the rotten foundation. They attempt to find attractive things in the upper structure's facade, while ignoring the bad foundation and the leaky roof.

Nonetheless, all the lies, thefts, and murders haunt the masses who turn a blind eye ... especially since these bad things so greatly outnumber the good. It becomes increasingly difficult for them to explain away the evil aspects of government and keep turning a blind eye. Citizens get built into the structure, therefore they have a stake in the system and want it to look good. Thus, they choose to remain ignorant of the rot in the foundation. They make up excuses to explain the growing failures in the superstructure. The act of refusing to see the rot leaves them and the structure confused and compromised. Eventually, the whole Babylonian structure must come crashing down (like the failed structure of the World Trade Centers).

CONCLUSION

People need to go back to basics if they want to stop being confused. We all need to go back to basics. We need to ask the basic questions about ourselves. We need to ask, "What kind of government do I support?" "What kind of religion do I believe?" "What kind of god do I worship?"

The kind of god that we worship determines the state of our mental health, and our ability to find and apply truth. Men who worship the true God have healthy thought patterns. They get the opportunity to grow, progress, and develop healthy lives, even in the face of constant insult from Babylon. Those who worship false gods are doomed to stunted lives and various degrees of mental paralysis and dysfunction. Confused people worship idols (governments, churches, occult fraternities, men, etc.)

Man's sanity and quality of life depend totally upon his view of his god. Getting answers to basic questions can

ITS ABOUT TIME -- THE SABBATHS

They will get it right, one day.... Part 2.

Adam de Witt

Chapter 2 - Pinpointing the ‘Rest’

The argument that the Bible orders a rest on the seventh day ‘of the week.’ is also a tradition that is not Biblical. The Bible states to do your work in 6 days and to rest therefrom the next or 7th day (Ex 23:12, 20:9-10, Deut 5:14, Lev 23:3) but NOWHERE do we find the wording “seventh day of the week.” If one was to start work on Tuesday and worked six days ... then rested the next day, the rest would take place on the seventh day. In that case, the seventh day would be Monday. Neither does the word ‘Sabbath’ mean seven, seventh, or Saturn-day - or even Sun-day.

“Six days shall work be done, but the seventh day is the Sabbath of rest.” Leviticus 23:3. This does not point to any day of the week or any day on the calendar; at best it can point to a seventh day of a cycle beginning at the time the law was given. Moses highlighted the law of seven day cycles often as in:

“if the bright spot be on the skin of the flesh ... then the priest shall isolate him that has the plague seven days, and the priest shall look on him the seventh day, ... and if the plague in his sight be at a stay ... cut him off seven days more...” Leviticus 13:4. or:

“If a man dies very suddenly ..., (then the Nazarite dealing with the death was to) ... shave his head on the seventh day.” Numbers 6:7. There are many other such examples. No doubt everyone in the O.T. times got sick or died on Saturday, if we are to take 7th day to mean 7th day ‘of the week.’ Likewise, in order to be healed, or to have the priest look on the person ... Of course it can not have been so. Likewise, when Jesus rose on the third day it must have been on Tuesday if 3rd day meant, 3rd day

‘of the week.’ OR when a woman falls pregnant, and she gives birth in the 9th month it is always in September Again, the answer is, of course not. The only ‘day’ references which are followed by the words “of the,” are NEVER, ‘of the week’ but rather, ‘of the month,’ ‘of the year,’ or ‘in the reign of.’ Months, years, and reign of, are the only fixed points the Bible gives, for us to hang the rest and Feast upon.

THE FEAST

DAYS FELL ON REST DAYS

“...concerning the Feasts of the Lord, which ye shall proclaim to be holy convocations, even these are my feasts. Six days shall work be done but the seventh day is the Sabbath of rest, an holy convocation ye shall do no work therein; it IS the Sabbath of the Lord.” Lev 23:2-3.

From this we can see the Feasts are Sabbaths, the Feasts are holy convocations, the holy convocations are the same; all three being held as one and the same. So with this in mind we can now go ahead and pinpoint just which days the Sabbaths fell on by working out God’s rules on holy convocations, Feasts and Sabbaths by looking at His Laws as to when we are ordered to keep such days. It really is that simple.

It is really quite pointless to chide what Constantine did or didn’t do, or what the Jews did, or what Sun-day means to pagans. Why chide endlessly over who did what or who called what? Let’s dump all this and go straight to the ‘boss’ and ask Him. Don’t ask others what they think is righteous, such as Constantine or Armstrong. Don’t rely on establishment boys, they only add disorder. After all, how many of you know that the Romans and Greeks used an eight day week (as early as 200 B.C.) until the rule of Theodosius who was killed at Carthage in 376 AD? The 7 day calendar week was not brought in until after Theodosius’ reign! (Encyclopedia Britannica, 9th Ed., 1903). If that does not muddy the waters of history, then our Gregorian Calendar which replaced the Julian Calendar surely would. The Julian Calendar was brought in, in 46 BC, during the eight day week. It was dumped in 1582 by Pope Gregory XIII when it was noticed that the seasons had drifted 10 days away from the Equinox of March 21st. Ten days were promptly dropped from the following year to pull it in line with the true Equinox making for a shortened one-off year.

Correctional steps were then put in place. But Britain did not follow suit until 170 years later! She was so far out that she needed to drop 11 days, and Russia did not make the change over until 1910 when 13 days had to be dropped. All this does not help. These are establishment calendars, utterly muddled. Should we seek to find God's will in these man-made stuff-ups? Yet God had a perfect calendar and it always started on the Spring Equinox (northern half) and thus Autumn Equinox (southern half of the world). Equinox is the time when the Sun crosses the equator, making the night the same length of time as the day; thus 12 + 12 hours neatly. This happens twice a year, but in this case we are looking at the Spring (north) Autumn (south) Equinox around March 21st.

By establishing when God ordered us to start the year, we can then work out the months and the Feast/Sabbath days which fall upon "days of the month" (not - "of the week"). We can then also work out the Sabbath system of God, as opposed to the systems of men!

Weekly Sabbath of Year Barleymonth 1st or Abib 1st

"And the Lord spake unto Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying, 'This month shall be unto you the beginning of months: it shall be the first month of the year to you.' Exodus 12:1-2. Which month is that? Read on ...

"And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, "On the first day of the month shalt thou set up the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation." Exodus 40:1-2.

"In the first month, that is the month Nisan (called before the banishment:- Abib), in the twelfth year of king Ahasuerus, they cast Pur, that is, the lot, before Haman from day to day, and from month to month, to the twelfth month, that is the month Adar." Esther 3:7

So the first month is called Nisan; also called Abib.

"Observe the month of Abib, and keep the Passover unto the Lord thy God: for in the month of Abib the Lord thy God brought thee forth out of Egypt by night." Deut 16:1.

Below, we read of two Sabbaths in a row and the Wave Sheaf Offering 726 BC, 775 years after the Exodus when the Sabbath laws were (re)given.

"And the priests went into the inner part of the house of the Lord, to cleanse it, and brought out all the uncleanness that they found in the temple of the Lord into the court of the house of the Lord. And the Levites too it, to carry it out abroad into the brook Kidron. Now they began on the first day of the first month to sanctify, and on the eighth day of the month came they to the porch of the Lord: so they sanctified the house of the Lord in eight days; and in the sixteenth day (wave sheaf) of the first month they made an end." (2 Chronicles 29:16-17)

It was customary to cleanse the house of the Lord at the beginning of each year as above. They used the first Sabbath of the month to hallow the house of the Lord, another service on the eighth day, or second Sabbath (notice the repetition of first and eighth days in the N.T. resurrection accounts), and ended after the third Sabbath, the day of the Wave Sheaf Offering or the 16th of Abib. To cleanse means to hallow, to make pure, innocent or to separate (holy). The collective nation is also a temple so in Ezra we read the following about the men of Israel;

"And they made an end with all the men who had taken strange (nokri=foreign) wives by the first day of the first month." (Ezra 10:17)

The above was the first Sabbath of the year 456 BC, 1335 years after the Exodus when the Israelites started keeping the true Sabbath after coming out of Egyptian bondage. This was a Sabbath day, the first day of the year when the Israelite men had to end their interracial wedlocks (marriages) to strange (racial-alien=non-Israelite) wives.

"And it came to pass in the seven and twentieth year, in the first month, in the first day of the month, the word of the Lord came to me saying," (Ezekiel 29:17)

The Lord came to Ezekiel above on the first Sabbath of the year and again below in the first day of the year.

"Thus saith the Lord God; 'In the first month, in the first day of the month, thou shalt take a young bullock without blemish, and cleanse the sanctuary,'" (Eze 45:18)

"And it came to pass in the first month in the second year, on the first day of the month, that the tabernacle was reared up." (Exodus 40:17).

As can be seen from the above references the Israelites were keeping the first of Abib [new year's day] as a Sabbath and day of worship in the first year after the Exodus, and the second year, and as late as 1335 years later, were still keeping the same days. As you can see, the first day of Abib (Barley month) must also fall 16 days before the Barley harvest which by commandment always started on Abib 16th, that being the Wave Sheaf Offering. We also see that the first day of the year (New Year's Day) is always on 'Onesday' the 1st of Barleymonth (see my calendar). Therefore as we see from the holy writ that the next Sabbath falls on the 8th day, the 15th day and so forth, always on 'Onesday.' We see that Wave Sheaf was on day 16, after the Sabbath. Thus day 15 was a Sabbath. This backs up the fact that day 8 (15-7) is a Sabbath and so too is day 1 (8 minus 7). Or if you will 1 + 7 = 8, 8 + 7 = 15; 16 is Wave Sheaf.

"And in the fourteenth day of the first month is the Passover ..., in the fifteenth day of the month is the Feast ... In the first day (the Feast) shall be a holy convocation ..." (Numbers 28:16-18).

The 16th day, Wave Sheaf is Twisted, 16th of Barley month, the Barley harvest starting date. Which is just over half way of the month starting at the Equinox. Ears of Barley had to be green as the word Abib means 'green herself barley). So we have plenty of Bible references to show when the new year began and which day was the first Sabbath of the Sabbath system. To stress the point, the Bible shows that the next year begins the same ...

PROOF THAT THE SABBATHS WERE THE SAME IN THE and YEAR & FOLLOWING YEARS

"And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, 'On the first day of the first month shalt thou set up the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation.'" (Axed 40:1-2).

"And it came to pass in the first month in the second year, on the first day of the month that the tabernacle was reared up." (Axed 40:17).

New Book

Dr Stephen E. Jones

The Bible Says: Divorce and Remarriage is NOT Adultery.

A study of a portion of the 7th Commandment with special focus on the divorce law in Deut 24:1-4. This book was NOT written to encourage divorce, but rather to show that if one remarries after divorce, he has NOT committed adultery. Divorce itself is not a sin, but a judgment for sin. Many translation of Matthew 5:32 make Jesus appear to forbid remarriage and makes Jesus contradict the law of God, but this study shows that He actually upheld the Law and denounced its abuse. #436 @ $6.25

So again we see that a year begins with a Sabbath New Years Day. From this it is all too clear that the seven day cycle is counted from a 'Onesday' rest and the first working day is 'Twosday,' the last working day is 'Sevensday.' Then the next day is the 8th day (8 being the number of new beginnings) or the 1st day of the following week, which falls on the 'Onesday.' So let me now back up my claim that 'Twosday the 16th of Barley month' is a Wave Sheaf Offering and that it falls after the third Sabbath ...

BARLEYMONTH (ABIB) 16

Wave Sheaf Offering. Ordered Work Day or Day of First Fruits

"And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, 'Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, when ye be come into the land which I give unto you, and shall reap the harvest thereof, then ye shall bring a sheaf of the firstfruits of your harvest unto the priest: And he shall wave the sheaf before the Lord, to be accepted for you: on the morrow after the Sabbath the priest shall wave it.'" (Lev 23:9-11).

"And ye shall eat neither bread, nor parched corn, nor green ears, until the selfsame day that ye have brought an offering unto your God: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations in all your dwellings. And ye shall count unto you from the morrow after the Sabbath, from the day that ye brought the sheaf of the wave offering seven Sabbaths. Even unto the morrow after the seventh Sabbath shall ye number fifty days; and ye shall offer a new meat offering unto the Lord." (Leviticus 23:14-16).

The commandment to begin harvest always fell the day after the Sabbath. The Sabbath fell on the 15th of Abib, or 'Onesday' the 15th of 'Barleymonth.' The best sheaf of grain every year that was picked in Abib 16th the day the harvesting began, was used for the wave offering. Hence being the "morrow" or the first working day of the week every year. Abib 16th could never be the seventh day, or the Sabbath. It was always a work day. The main harvest is a little later when the grain turns golden brown, for long term storage. The year therefore began on a seasonal change, not upon a change of moons.

The season, in this case, Spring, began at the Equinox or 'Even-nights.' In our present year-teller (calendar), the 'Even-nights' falls on March 20th or 21st. God's year-teller (calendar) was thus self-correcting every year. There would never be a need to alter the year teller as was the case with the Julian calendar. All of man's year-tellers need altering or tinkering on because the Earth's orbit is not a neat 365 days, it's not quite 365 and a quarter days. A leap year (extra day) every fourth year does not work, so rules have been added to tinker with a year to fall in line with the measuring staff, the 'Even-night.'

So, if the 'Even-night' helps astronomers to fix the year-tellers of man, then why don't they just do as God ordered ... namely, begin each year on the day of the Even-night? Curiously, Sunday-ites claim that Jesus dumped the Hebrew calendar ... so we could turn to man-made, stuff-up year-tellers. Hardly a smart move. We will look into this folly later on. For now let us study the Sabbath cycle or system of God further, for a mark-worthy quirk takes place which doubles a 'Onesday.' This means that if the Onesday fell on our Saturday, the second Onesday would fall on our Sunday, thereby changing the following Sabbaths from a Saturday cycle to a Sunday cycle. This double Onesday or double Sabbath happens once every year. The next year's cycle could see the Sunday cycle change to a Monday cycle and so on, depending on the next Even-nights; therefore one calendar cannot be superimposed over the other without major confusion. It has to be one or the other!

Of course it all works around a six working day cycle ... as God ordered. Six is also the number of man and in a way the six working days represent a long-term six days (or ages or millenniums) of toil by man. These six millenniums are basically the six 'days' man tries to build the kingdom on his terms, thinking it pleases God, after-all, man thinks he is a free agent [see the booklet FREE WILL vs OWNERSHIP, #435 @ $6.00]. He forgets however that he has no say in his life other than doing everything as God wills.

The two trees in the garden of Eden represented two choices to follow: 1) the way of strife, the broad-way, sometimes called 'the school of hard knocks,' and 2) the other tree is the strife-free way, the narrow way, fellowship with God is given therefore we do good works.

Either way was put before us by God, so either way was in God's plan. Each will lead to do His will.

The seventh day or 7th millennium then, is a cleansing day/age in which the temple (body of Anointed) and the bride of Jesus (the church) are cleansed. On the 8th day/age the folk are presented clean. This whole ordeal can be taken as a wedding feast (see the feast at Cana). Wedding feasts were once held 'seven-days-long' before the wedding, not after ... This pattern that is used over and again such as with the cleansing of lepers. We are all deemed mental (ghostly - gas-like- spiritual) lepers. It takes seven days to cleanse a leper; on the eighth day he is clean. Or as is with priests, to be hallowed, for on the eighth day the priest is presented ... or as in the rite of circumcision (better called, cutting), in which the flesh (fleshly nature) is cut away on the eighth day, ... as in Noah, "a preacher of righteous news" as "the eighth person" (2 Peter 2:5). To say as many do, that the week reflects creation is too simplistic, as we have just read. It has manifold meaning which includes God's creation 'week' of days/ages. For the millennium cycle of man is in short, a 'week' that followed the creation 'week' which in turn is played out in God's year-teller (calendar).

'Day' in this outworking therefore does not always mean 24 hours but rather simply a time span or age, but more to the point it may mean one thousand years. The holy writ tells us that to God a day is as a thousand years and a thousand years is as a day (2 Peter 3:8). Therefore, although we have no proof of the length of the creation week it almost surely is not 7 times 24 hours. The word week based on 2 Peter 3:8 can mean 7 times 1000 years, or put more loosely, a cycle of seven time-spans.

Genesis 1 reads therefore somewhat like unto God's year-teller. Gen 1:1 and Gen 1:2 are not the first working day. The year-teller shows that God hallows the temple, cleans it up to make it ready for (the next) six days of work. Onesday, the 1st of barleymonth being the first hallowed day of the year, with Twosday being the first working day. "In the beginning God created the heaven and the Earth, and the Earth was without form and void, and darkness was upon the face of the deep." From this we see that the Earth was in being before the first day is talked of. Also the word 'was,' in this verse is interesting and comes from a Hebrew word which could have been translated 'became.'

When I was a child living in a Queensland country town, together with some friends I came across fossilized remains in soft grey rock that would easily split like sliced bread. The site was on high ground of sedimentary rock. It was formed by some ancient flood and following landmass upheaval. But it was not Noah's flood for this was localized: see Charles Weisman's book, Facts & Fictions Re Noah's Flood (#291 @ $9.40). I will not back up this claim of a local Noahadic flood as that is a study in itself, and Charles Weisman covers the subject nicely. There is no time or room here to repeat Weisman's research. (also of interest in this area are Pastor Pete Peters 2 tapes: S-103 and S-104 What Noah's Flood Was Not, $10)

The fossils were of earlier floods and show us species we no longer have on earth. Noah's Ark was to keep (for the future) the species that were alive at his time in his area. If any of those species which were on the Ark have since become extinct, then it would have been pointless to save them. Clearly the species that have died out since the flood were not the type found in the Ark. This means that all species that have died out before Noah's flood such as the great Lizards, and those that have died out after Noah's flood right up to the last of the Tasmanian Tigers, were not found in the Ark. There was a time however when many species, particularly the great Lizards, seem to have died out quite swiftly. Furthermore, they dwelt upon landmasses that were vastly different to the ones we know having risen and drowned. It would seem they belonged to an earlier time that ended in a world of darkness without form, ready for the creation order as we know it. Could it be that Gen 1:1-2 outline a world in the beginning which God then made void; drowning lands into the deep so that "darkness was upon the deep" and then raised new lands?

There is very good reference to this in Jeremiah 4:23. "I looked on the Earth, and it was formless and void. And to the heavens and they had no light." Let us look at the words 'formless' and 'void.' Firstly, 'formless' nowadays hints 'without form,' but I guess that it can also imply 'lifeless' or 'without worth, i.e. worthless.' The word 'form' is a Latin word and 'formless' in Hebrew is H8414 - TOHOW- and translates as 'waste, desolation, desert, (fig) worthless.' This to me all hints 'lifeless' or 'without life.' A fitting Saxon replacement word for formless would be 'waste.' Now in old Saxon English, if one "lays waste" to a thorp or village, does he not kill and destroy all things? Does this not mean that there was something to lay waste? Some of Webster's meanings of waste are: "uncultivated, untilled, unproductive" or "desolate, uncultivated, as a waste country, a waste howling wilderness" or "destroyed, ruined" or "worthless, that which is rejected." Now to be worthless is to not have 'worth' which is a Saxon word and means: "value, the quality of a thing which renders it useful, or which will produce an equivalent good in some other thing" or "value of mental qualities, excellence, virtue, usefulness, as a man or magistrate of great worth." The word desert means: "literally forsaken, hence uninhabited, as a desert isle" or "void, empty, unoccupied." The word desolation means: "the act of desolating, destruction or expulsion of inhabitants, destruction, ruin, waste" or "A place deprived of inhabitants or otherwise wasted, ravaged and ruined."

Now none of these possible translations of tohow give the meaning of 'not in existence' or 'without shape' as the use of the word 'formless' would hint at in Genesis. In fact they imply the opposite; that being a world in ruin; a world destroyed by water. Whereas this age is to be laid waste by fire. Now to look at the word 'void' which is translated from the Hebrew word, H922 'bohuv' and this word is only used twice in the whole Bible (Gen 1:2 & Jer 4:23), and is translated as "to be empty, a vacuity, (superficially) an indistinguishable ruin, emptiness, ruin." 'Empty' means: "containing nothing, or nothing but air" or "evacuated, not filled" or "unfurnished" or "void, devoid" or "unsubstantial, unsatisfactory" or "unfurnished with intellect or knowledge" or "unfruitful, producing nothing" or "destitute, waste, desolate" or "without effect." Vacuity means: "emptiness or state of being unfilled" or "space unfilled or unoccupied" or "emptiness, void" or "inanity" or "vacuum." 'Ruin' means: "destruction, fall, overthrow, defeat" or "mischief, bane, that which destroys" or "the decayed or enfeebled remains of a natural object" or "the remains of a decayed or demolished city." In closing, it clearly shows that there was something to start with if we look at the meanings of the two descriptive terms, that being 'formless' and 'void.' We start to get the picture of an already existing Earth that was laid waste and was made empty of any life that has meaning. An older age dies as a new age begins with Genesis 1:3.

Thus, Genesis 1:3 is where the first working day begins, with, "Let there be light," a new age, a new week of time-spans kicks in. If this be so, then when we liken this to God's year-teller and other 'types' such as that of lepers, priests and so on; together with eyeing nature (such as the fossil record) as God behested; and the case I put it to you, seems sound. But I would like to draw before you another witness as I have already done in the past with the fossils, because these are part of God's creation. Paul states that:

"The invisible things (the plan, will and mind) of Him (God) from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made ... even His everlasting might and Godhead ..." (Romans 1:20)

Creation is God's witness in itself; it is a witness to understand God's plan, will and mind. Being an artist and one who studies art, sculpture and architecture, I can testify that what one makes is a witness to what one believes. Art, sculpture and architecture reflect their creator's mind and also the time in which he lives for these affect his outlooks, thus his mind. I can look at a painting or a building and learn a great deal about the designer without studying his personal history. And so it is with God, as we have just read in Romans 1:20. His creation is a strong witness that a world order of things existed before the world order of life as we know it.

With this in mind, I then conclude that, when God gave the year-teller to the Israelites of the 'outgoing' (Exodus), he did not change the commemoration of creation (as so many claim) but rather, He brought back the commemoration which like the rest of the law had been forgotten. The commemoration of creation at the same time recalls the 'outgoing' and it likewise acts as a type of outworking of racial history (always ongoing) and shadows racial outworkings yet to happen.

God's year-teller therefore was not a historical quirk as so many claim, but a living, breathing and culturally relevant measuring staff of the life of God's plan. His son, body and bride are the main players of this plan. The year-teller is a sort of play or program guide. Seeing that God, His Son, His body and bride are to live forever, then so too is their story everlasting, and also their year-teller. That is why we are told to keep God's year-teller and its Sabbaths forever, as a sign "Between Me and thee," as God says.

"Wherefore the children of Israel shall keep the Sabbath, to observe the Sabbath throughout their generations, for a perpetual covenant. It is a sign between me and the children of (Anglo-Saxon-Celtic-Germanic) Israel (NOT the Jews) forever: for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, and on the seventh day He rested and was refreshed. And He gave unto Moses, when He made an end of communing with him upon Mount Sinai, two tables of testimony, tables of stone, written by the finger of God." (Exodus 31:16-18) to be continued

THE BIBLICAL LAW OF RACIAL PURITY - PT 2 by Lawrence Blanchard

In Part 1, it was evidenced from the Bible that the term "kinds" and the phrase "kind after kind" meant that the Creator God had instituted the first law of nature, prohibiting the interbreeding between the various kinds or species. It is commonly believed that "kinds" are families (such as the cattle family, the bear family, and so on), instead of species within a family. As a consequence, this errant belief assumes that interracial breeding is lawful.

We will discover more evidence that God's Law, practiced by Israel's forefathers, specifically prohibited interracial breeding of any kind.

THE MEANING OF "ADULTERY"

The commandment, "You shall not commit adultery" (Ex. 20:14) comprised a broad range of prohibitions. This not only applied to having sexual relations with another man's wife within Israel (Lev 18:20), but also unlawful mixing of any kind.

In the Septuagint (LXX)[which we have on order and hope to have available shortly, CIM], the Greek word for "adultery" is moicheuo, which means "the intermingling of animals and men or of different races" (Theological Dictionary of The New Testament, Kittel). Generally, it means to add something or mingle things together, whether in a physical or spiritual sense. This Greek word was used widely in early Greek literature to refer to any kind of mongrelization.

THE "KINDS" ARE NOT TO BE MIXED

God's statutory law specifically defines that which is prohibited to be mixed. For example, in Leviticus 19:19, God declared that Israel was not to breed two different kinds of cattle, sow two different kinds of seed, or mix two different kinds of material for clothing.

"You are to keep My statutes. You shall not breed together two kinds of your cattle; you shall not sow your field with two kinds of seed, nor wear a garment upon you of two kinds of material mixed together."

Here it is obvious that within the cattle family there are different "kinds" of cattle. In this verse alone, it is clear that God did not originally create just one pair of male and female cattle from which all kinds came. God created the different kinds of cattle in the beginning and, by His law of nature of kind after kind, prohibited their interbreeding in nature or in domestication in order to preserve the different kinds or species.

The principle of Leviticus 19:19 was not only based on the law of nature established in Genesis 1, but also under the commandment not to commit adultery. This law prohibiting the mixing of kinds also applied to the mixing of the racial family of Israel with other non-Adamic races.

In Numbers 25:1-18, Israel was judged because some of the men were having relations with the daughters of Moab. The Moabites were descended from an incestuous relationship between Lot and his daughters. They were forever excluded from ever entering the congregation of Israel.

"No Ammonite or Moabite shall enter the assembly of the LORD; none of their descendants, even to the tenth generation, shall ever enter the assembly of the LORD.- Deut 23:2. [according to a booklet by Destiny Publishers, the Ammonites and Moabites became the Chinese and Japanese people]

Although they were of Adamic stock, the Moabites were cursed by God for their treatment of Israel in the past and because they were notorious idolaters.

EXAMPLE OF ABRAHAM

Abraham had also provided that his covenant son, Isaac, find a wife from his own racial family stock. In Genesis 2:4, Abraham commissioned his bond servant to find a wife for Isaac from his relatives and likewise prohibited this servant from taking a wife for Isaac from the cursed Canaanites.

"Abraham said to his servant, the oldest of his household, who had charge of all that he owned, 'Please place your hand under my thigh, and I will make you swear by the LORD, the God of heaven and the God of earth, that you shall not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites, among whom I live, but you will go to my country and to my relatives, and take a wife for my son Isaac.'" - Genesis 24:2-4.

The wife chosen for Isaac was Rebekah, the granddaughter of Abraham's brother, Nahor. The racial line was carefully considered by Abraham so as not to pollute the holy covenant family line. [there was an interesting article in Time magazine not long ago, about the marriage of first cousins, especially the high numbers of such amongst the Arabs. While forbidden in parts of the U.S. it is still practiced also among western nations. CIM]

EXAMPLE OF ISAAC

Isaac also sent his covenant son, Jacob, away to his family's relatives to find a wife. Isaac's other son, Esau, had already indiscriminately married two cursed Hittite women (Genesis 26:34-35). But at Rebekah's bidding (Genesis 27:46), Isaac sent Jacob away, commanding him not to take a wife "from the daughters of Canaan" (Genesis 28:1). Instead, Isaac gave Jacob this instruction:

"Arise, go to Padan-aram, to the house of Bethuel your mother's father; and from there take to yourself a wife from the daughters of Laban your mother's brother."- Genesis 28:2.

And so he did. He took not one wife, but several who bore him sons who would become the fathers of the tribes of Israel. Again, racial purity was the order of that day. [May our sons be as successful as Jacob was]

EXAMPLE OF EZRA

In another example, some men of the house of Judah who had returned to Judea after the Babylonian captivity had taken wives, not of Israel, but of the cursed and racially mixed people. Ezra recorded the situation:

"Now when these things had been completed, the princes approached me, saying, 'The people of Israel and the priests and the Levites have not separated themselves from the peoples of the lands, according to their abominations, those of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians and the Amorites. For they have taken some of their daughters as wives for themselves and for their sons, so that the holy race has intermingled with the peoples of the lands; indeed, the hands of the princes and the rulers have been foremost in this unfaithfulness.'" -Ezra 9:1-2.

These forbidden marriages were an abomination to God and unlawful.

"Furthermore, you shall not intermarry with them; you shall not give your daughters to their sons, nor shall you take their daughters for your sons." -Deut 7:3.

As a result, the men of Judah who had done this either had to put away their foreign wives and children and leave them in Babylon OR be barred from coming back into the land of Judea and forfeit their inheritance in Israel.

"So now let us make a covenant with our God to put away all the wives and their children, according to the counsel of my lord and of those who tremble at the commandment of our God; and let it be done according to the law." -Ezra 10:3.

"They made a proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem to all the exiles, that they should assemble at Jerusalem, and that whoever would not come within three days, according to the counsel of the leaders and the elders, all his possessions should be forfeited and he himself excluded from the assembly of the exiles." -Ezra 10:7-8.

As difficult as this might have been, the law against intermixing with the cursed peoples had to be obeyed. Should it be any less today?

The purity of race is viewed and labelled today in most of Christendom as "racist." And any White person who stands for racial purity is considered ungodly. However, God's Word clarifies the laws and examples for His covenant people to obey. We must hold fast to the practice of separation unto our own race in marriage, church, and nation. To do otherwise is an abomination in God's sight!

IT DOES NOT PAY TO TRIFLE WITH THE LORD Adam de Witt

Our history (His-Story) books tell us some things of the great empire of the Minoans. The most well-known parts of their empire (riche, reich)(that most of us know something of) are the ruins of the Palace of Minos at Knossos on the island of Crete, which is the largest island between mainland Greece and Anatolia - now called Turkey. We are told that their world blossomed between 2000 BC to 1400 BC. They had fine buildings, art, plumbing, trade and wealth. Then, suddenly, it was over. They only had a society for 600 years. A recent BBC documentary filmed geologists who tried to work out why it all ended so swiftly.

The heart of the Minoan trade lay about 100 miles away on an island to the north of Crete called Thera. Thera today is a hollowed out island. It is almost horse-shoe shaped. Basically, it blew up by way of one of the meanest volcanic eruptions for some 10,000 years. One town on the island was found under 10 meters of rubble. Whilst another was all but vaporized. It seems the volcanic burst sent so much dust into the heavens that up to ten years of colder weather set in. The next summer was a disaster for crops and food supplies. Its fallout was felt as far away as Ireland. This took place about 3500 years ago, or more accurately at the end of the Minoan empire.

Tidal waves then followed which struck Crete to the south.

Yet this did not wipe out the culture on Crete, although it did on Thera. Yet those that overcame on Crete were never the same. When 50 years later the Hellens came over to run the island, they were hardly resisted. The Hellens (of Celtic stock) could simply walk in. For all these events, the secular world chooses to overlook the obvious, "Shall there be evil in a city and the LORD hath not done it?" Amos 3:6. Yes the obvious is this, all evil in a city is brought by God! If that then is so, then we need to ask why has God done it?

God says in Isaiah 45:7, "I form light and darkness, I make peace and create evil, I the LORD do ALL these things." There is good reason for evil. Evil means hurtful - in this sense: hurtful to man. Blowing up most of a nation then starving what's left is somewhat hurtful, or evil to those folk hit by it. But in God's eyes, if man befouls an area God has to clean it, to fleshly man this is seen as evil in the same way weeds (or tares) don't like good gardeners.

In Ezekiel 8:17, speaking of the Israelites of Judea, God asks, "Is it a light thing to the house of Judah (not to be confused with 'Jews') that they commit the abominations which they commit here? for they have filled the land with violence, and have returned to provoke me to anger: ..." Basically, God is 'cheesed off' with dumb whitey as this verse shows. It also shows a principle, namely, ... you forget God's laws, or say, We are fine because we have great laws in the land 'based' on His Laws, such as the Constitution. You think you are doing OK ... but God says NO!! God does not want you to have laws 'based' on His Laws. He calls such laws a violence to His Law. Let us not forget that the Talmud is 'based' on God's Laws, just like the Constitution. At least the Talmud is protective of the Jews, whereas the Australian Constitution is not a safeguard for Whites. The Constitution allows for non-Whites to rule over Whites. The Talmud would never allow non-Jews to rule over a Jew. The Australian Constitution also allows folks of other religions to rule over Christians, totally contrary to Scripture (Deut 17:15); it also allows for the Sydney Mardi-

Gras. But God's pure Law does not! During the 'rule' of law under our Constitution, our finest men were killed in WWI and WWII. Pagans have become the head. We have sex, drugs, Rock 'n Roll, baby slaughter, and marriage break-downs now being commonplace. Per household, we have only 1.5 children. Usury and multiculturalism (I thought that multiculture was what you found in a Petri dish) has become the cornerstone of society. It seems God has not smiled on the 'based-on-His-laws' document. God does not even seem to hear our prayers (Prov 28:9). "Therefore will I also deal in fury: mine eye shall not spare, neither will I have pity; and though they cry in mine ears with a loud voice, yet will I not hear them." Ezekiel 8:18.

So why was God so angry with the Minoanians? They were white, they were kinsfolk, thus, somewhere in history they must have had God's Laws. Yet from the few surviving wall paintings it is clear they made their own laws. One such law may well have read like this, namely: "That in our empire, we.. shall not make any law for establishing any religion or for imposing any religious observance, or for prohibiting the free exercise of any religion, and no religious test shall be required as a qualification for any office or public trust " (Oh? 1 Tim 3:2-4, Deut 17:15). Note well that this law does not say that it will not infringe upon variations of a religion, what we call denominationalism, rather it states it will not infringe upon any religion. Such a law is the cornerstone of multiculturalism.

Indeed, the problem with the Minoanians was that they became multi-cultural or better put, multi-racial. Their domain's latter frescos show all races, from brown skins to blue-eyed whites living together. One fresco showed whites outnumbered four to one. Seeing that God causes calamities against breakers of His Laws, that multiculturalism is violence to His Law, that society tolerates such then it is clear that the Minoan domain or commonwealth was wiped out because of violence to God's Laws. Violence to God's Laws takes place only when folks are ignorant or rebellious. Both cases lead to men making their own laws, as parliament does.

But wait, that hypothetical Minoanian law that allows all religions to blossom freely, that allows any one of any religion and thus of allows any creed to rule in the land was not translated from a clay tablet found in Minoanian dirt It comes from the Australian Constitution, chapter V section 116. It allows Freemasonry, Humanism, Evolutionism, Judaism and yes Islam and so on to take root in Jesus' Kingdom and the upholders and followers of such to rule over white Christians. Even the Australian Constitution's opening statement does not seek God's Law. It simply states that it relies on God to bless the laws of men set out therein. Ha! They ask for God's blessing! Look the White Star Line asked God to bless the Titanic - while people were saying that God Himself couldn't sink this vessel - asking for a blessing does not mean you'll get what you ask for. It's like praying to God to destroy His enemies - could get you into very serious trouble, if you are not living totally in accord with His Law - you might be the enemy to be destroyed! What you want and what you get can be two very different things. Asking God to bless rebellion is like baptizing a swine and saying it is now a priest. (sometimes there may be similarities even without the baptism).

If you want God's blessing, follow His Constitution! His Constitution says that a non-white is not even allowed in the land (Exodus 23:33) and if such does come, such must be killed that a mongrel or mixed breed shall never come into the land (Deut 23:2,) ... that Whites shall make no deals with pagans, let alone allow them to hold office (Judges 2:2; Prov 6:1-2; Amos 3:3; Axed 23:28; Deut 17:15; Jer 30:21; Matt 15:24, 26; Matt 7:6; Jer 3:35)

In history there is always cause and effect. Australians put up with, yea. even fight for the Australian Constitution, a document that mostly opposes God's Law and has given us a society no different to that of Crete. "If thou wilt not ... do all the words of the (God's) law (and yield instead to 'based-on-God's-law' laws), the LORD will make thy plagues wonderful, even great plagues, and of long continuance, and sore sicknesses, until thou be destroyed." Deut 28:58-66. Welcome to the Constitutional Commonwealth. **

Addition to the above story:

Volcanoes it seems are God's tools, as we have read in the case of Crete. Also later, an Indonesian volcano in 535 AD created a volcanic winter that withered crops for up to ten years leading to great starvation. Also to a re-evaluation of religions. British Celts who whored with Romanism were weakened enough for the Saxons to go in like "a dose of salts" (547 AD). In 570 AD, Mohammed was born. Arabs sought answers and in 622 AD, he gave them Islam. Thus Islam was born not long after the end of the volcanic winter. As plants grew well, green became the symbol of the new faith, hence green is the colour of Islam. Later again, 6 years before the French Revolution of 1789, another volcanic winter, caused by a burst in Iceland. Again, failing crops and starvation. The rich had food the rest did not. Again, out of the bottomless pit of the heart came another doctrine. It was God's doom (judgment) upon a rebellious folk. In the Protestant nations however, two years after the French Revolution a new level of Christendom took place as the birth of the missionary societies. Again, God's Word needs to be recalled to mind:

"Shall there be evil in a city and the LORD hath not done it?"

The missionary guilds however also broke God's Laws. The fall-out of that is being felt in the shut-down of many white colonies, with whites ethnically cleaned out and multiracialism in white homelands. The full outcome is yet to happen.
