"Blessed be the LORD God of Israel; For He hath visited and redeemed His people, And hath raised up an horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David; as he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began; That we should be saved from our enemies and from the hand of all that hate us; to perform the mercy promised to our fathers and to remember his holy covenant; The oath which he sware to our father Abraham, That he would grant unto us, that we being delivered out of the hand of our enemies might serve him without fear, in holiness and righteousness before him, all the days of our lives." IT'S A WONDERFUL RACE

by James Bronson

- a fictitious story sent by email by a reader -

...There once was a college freshman named George who thought he knew it all. One night over dinner, George got into an argument with his father. The argument began when the young student tried to explain to his father that as White people, they should be held accountable for all the evils that they had inflicted upon non-Whites throughout history. George explained: "Because of European racism, we stole the Indians' land (Aboriginals' land in Australia!), we held blacks in slavery, we persecuted the Jews, and we plundered the environment. We've been oppressive racists for thousands of years so it's only fair that we pay economic reparations for all the harm we've done to the world. I'm pleased to see that we are ending our political and economic domination of the oppressed peoples."

George's dad was shocked to hear such talk. "Who put such commie-pinko nonsense into your head, boy? Did one of your sandal-wearing hippy college professors teach you that?" the father asked.

To which the son replied: "That's the truth dad. My anthropology professor, Dr. Irving Silverstein, says so. He ought to know. Dr. Silverstein is a well-respected Ph.D. People of your generation just don't understand because you were raised in a White supremacist racist society. That's why I've come to admire Dr. Rev. Martin Luther King as the greatest man in American history. He stood up to the racists of your generation. Because of him, my generation of White kids is completely color-blind."

The father angrily replied: "That's bulls..t! I've always been fair-minded and tolerant of people from all backgrounds and races. I haven't 'oppressed' anybody, and furthermore there's nothing wrong with being proud of one's own people, including the European race of people. Your race is in your blood. It's like an extension of your biological family and you ought to be proud of your European heritage and identity, just like every other racial group in America is proud of its heritage. Why is it OK for them to have a strong sense of racial identity but it's evil for us Europeans to feel that way?" [something mixed-breeds lack]

The young 'intellectual' laughed at his father. "Come on dad, that's the kind of crap that Hitler tried to peddle. Those racist attitudes were discredited years ago. There's only one race and that's the human race. Diversity is our greatest strength. Differences in so-called 'race' are as insignificant as differences in belly-buttons. And besides, UN statistics now show that low White birth rates, along with the fact that we live in a multicultural society, will mean that Europeans and their ethnocentric and racist culture will have died out by the end of the century," young

George said.

Turning red with anger, the father yelled: "You are a walking cliché, you know that, boy? And you think it's a good thing that the European peoples of the world will have faded out and ceased to exist?" Young George replied, "I think it's great! It will mean the end of racism and the end of hate. The oppressed peoples of the world would have been better off if us racist Europeans had never existed to begin with."

SUDDENLY, there was a blast of cold wind, an explosion, and a huge smoke cloud. When the smoke had settled, George found himself alone and lost in a cold open field. An angel named Clarence then appeared to him and said, "Well, George, you've got your wish." George asked: "Where am I? What's going on here? And who are you?"

The angel answered, "George, I'm Clarence the Angel. I was sent here to show you what the world would have been like if Europeans, or Whites, had never existed. You now live in a world where Europeans never existed."

"Oh. That's cool. I'll have no problem adapting because there's not a racist bone in my body. And when I get back to my world, I'll be able to tell my professor and my friends how great this non-racist world was. Say, I'm freezing my a.. off out here. Where's the nearest motel?"

"Motel?" replied the angel. "There are no motels here in what was once called North America. But there are some caves up in those mountains where you can find shelter."

"Caves? No way, man. I want a nice warm bed to sleep in."

"I don't think you understand George. There are no buildings here in non-White America because the evil Europeans never came here to build them. Whites never existed, remember? The natives live in tents. Would you like to go meet some local Indians? Perhaps they'll let you stay in a tent."

"A tent? But it's 10 degrees outside!... Oh well, it's better than a cave I suppose. Let's go talk to these Indians... Wait a second, are these Indians friendly or hostile?"

"Why, George, that's a racist question to ask. Just because some Indians were brutal savages who scalped their victims alive, it doesn't mean they all were," said the angel sarcastically

"I know that, Clarence. And I'm not a racist. I hate racism. Nonetheless, I'd feel safer if I could have a gun to defend myself if they turn out to be violent."

"Gun?" replied the angel. "There are no guns for you to defend yourself with. Firearms were invented by evil Europeans. Though we could make a spear with those twigs over there."

"That's too much work. Give me a telephone then. I'll call the Indians to ask if it's ok."

"Telephone?" replied the angel. "There are no phones here. Alexander Graham Bell was another evil White man, so he never existed. No Europeans, remember?"

"Forget it, then," replied George. "I'll sleep in the damn cave."

Upon arriving at the cave, a shivering George asked the angel for a lighter so he could light a fire.

"A lighter?" replied Clarence. "There are no lighters here, and no matches. Those are European gadgets, and evil Europeans never existed, remember? If you want to get warm, you need to do like the locals do and start rubbing twigs together."

"Oh, come on, man! You mean to tell me these people still rub sticks together for fire?"

"That's right, George. The Indians live exactly as they did before the evil pilgrims arrived from Europe just a few centuries ago," said the angel sarcastically.

"I refuse to stay in this cold cave, and I damn sure ain't gonna light a fire with twigs, and I refuse to sleep in a teepee. I'll go to South America. I can make it in a warmer climate, and I'll adapt quickly to the great Incan civilization I learned about at college. Since European racists like Columbus, Cortez and Pizzaro never existed, the Incas will still be there... I need a car."

"Car?" replied the angel. "There are no cars here. Daimler and Benz, the evil German inventors of the internal combustion engine, were never born... nor was Henry Ford. There are no paved roads either. This is a world without evil Europeans, remember?"

"No cars! Oh, I'll just have to take a train."

"There are no trains in this world either, George. Evil Europeans weren't here to build locomotive engines or to discover the many uses of coal, oil and gas, or to build trains or lay tracks. But I'll allow you to cheat just a bit. Grab hold of my magic robe and we'll fly south."

George touched the angel's robe and they flew south until they arrived in an abandoned mud hut in the midst of Incan territory. George was grateful for the warm weather but it wasn't long until he began to complain about the heat and humidity.

"Clarence, this hut is a little s..thole and I'm sweating up a storm here. Get me an air-conditioner please."

"Air-conditioner?" replied Clarence. "There are no air-conditioners here. Air conditioning and refrigeration were inventions created by evil White men."

"What?! You mean to tell me that in the year 2002 these people still haven't figured out a way to keep themselves or their food cool?" a frustrated George asked.

"No George, they haven't. And they never will."

"This is ridiculous. Let's go to the main city to see the Emperor. I can't live like this. Where's a car... Oh, I forgot... no cars! Damn, I'll walk. Let's go."

After walking through the jungle for about an hour or so, it began to get dark. George then asked Clarence to give him a flashlight so that he could see...

"Flashlight? Sorry George, but Thomas Edison was an evil White man too... and he was never born. There are some branches over there if you want to make a torch?"

"Never mind that!" George shouted back.

By morning time, Clarence and George had arrived at the temple of the Incas. A bloody human sacrifice was in progress. George turned to Clarence and cried, "They're going to butcher that poor soul! Somebody has got to stop this. What horrible murdering beasts! Can't anyone stop them?"

Clarence replied, "I'm afraid not. Ritual killings are commonplace here. Those evil European racists like Columbus, Cortez and Pizzaro never existed, so the Incas just continued their brutal ways.

In fact, it was the oppressed peoples themselves who made up the bulk of the Spanish armed forces. The people saw the Spaniards as liberators who would rid them of the oppressive Incan and Mayan rulers and give them a better life."

"I can't blame them for helping the Spaniards, then. This is a horrible place. Get me out of this hole now!" said George.

"Where would you like to go" Clarence replied.

"Take me to Africa, maybe there's a more advanced and humane civilization there that I can fit into. Where's the nearest airport? Oh, I forgot... no Wright Brothers," George said. "How about a boat?"

"Boats?" replied the angel. "I'm afraid the most seaworthy rafts available to you won't be of much help in crossing the vast Atlantic. The great Viking sailors and European navigators never existed. No Phoenicians, no Leif Erikson, no Henry the Navigator, no Columbus, no Magellan, no Hudson and no Robert Fulton. Even if you could build your own ship, there would be no compass for you to navigate with and no sextant either. I'm afraid you're stuck here, George."

"Can I touch your robe and fly to Africa, then?" asked George.

"You're cheating again, George, but ok. Touch my robe and we'll fly to Africa."

When they arrived in Africa, George saw thousands of half-naked African tribesmen being herded along a dirt path. They were guarded by other Africans with spears.

"What are they doing to those poor men?" George

GOD'S PLAN FOR FINDING A MATE

This is the message that tells parents and youth what to do and how to do it to get safely to the marriage altar. Using the stories of Chad and Heidi Eves and Israel and Brook Wayne, Dr. Davis illustrates four key principles that everyone should follow to get to the marriage altar:

1. Stay asleep or go to sleep in relation to the desire to have a mate or to get married.
2. Wake up with the leadership of God-given authority figures.
3. Make a wise decision as much apart from emotion as possible to avoid defrauding.
4. Establish a secure relationship that includes physical purity and the winning of the lady's heart.

asked Clarence.

"They are being enslaved by another tribe. Slavery was common in Africa long before the Whites arrived." Clarence said. "In fact, most of the slaves who were shipped to the Americas were sold to the slave traders by African tribal leaders."

"That's so sad." George said. "I want to meet Martin Luther King. Since his White assassin never existed, this great man should still be alive. He's probably a great tribal chief somewhere and leader of an advanced civilization. He will free these slaves from their African masters. Take me to him, Clarence."

Clarence led George to a little hut deep in the heart of Africa. The naked women and children looked at George in wonder. The young men were out on a hunt but the older men stayed behind. George was led to the dingy little hut of the tribal witch doctor and spiritual leader. There he saw a wild-looking man with a necklace of teeth around his neck and a huge ring pierced through his nose.

"What the hell is that?" George asked.

"Meet witch doctor Matumbo Lutamba Kinga" Clarence said. He never became Reverend Martin Luther King because there were no universities or seminaries built to educate him. Europeans weren't there to create such opportunities. But he did become the tribe's spiritual leader. He specializes in casting evil spells. Perhaps he can help you?"

The witch doctor gazed in wonder at George. Then he motioned to his henchmen to seize young George. The tribesmen grabbed hold of George and tied him to a nearby tree.

"Stop it! Let me go. What are they going to do to me?" cried George hysterically.

"They're going to perform a ritual killing on you George. The good doctor King... I mean Kinga... believes that by cutting your heart out while you are still alive, it will bring good fortune and fertility to his tribe," laughed Clarence.

"Clarence! Clarence! Help me, Clarence! Help me!"

"But George, you told me that you wanted to go to Africa to meet your hero, Reverend King."

George said: "This part of Africa has not developed yet. I can see that now. Take me to North Africa where Egypt and Carthage established great civilizations. Just get me out of here, please!"

Just as the witch doctor's spear was about to carve out George's heart, George vanished into thin air. He then found himself on the banks of the Nile in Egypt.

"Thank you Clarence. Thank you," George said. "I don't understand it Clarence. Why does so much of the world remain so brutal and primitive? I learned during Black History Month about many talented black inventors and scientists. Garrett Morgan, George Washington Carver, Benjamin Banneker, Granville Woods. Then there's Dr. Carson, the pre-eminent brain surgeon in all of America. Where are these men?"

Clarence replied: "Don't you understand yet? America, and Africa, exist exactly as they did before the Europeans discovered them. Civilization as you had known it had only been introduced to these people just a few centuries ago by evil White Europeans. There are no universities, no hospitals, no means of transportation other than animals, no science, no medicine, no machines. In fact, the wheel hasn't even been discovered in Sub-Saharan Africa!"

"Those black scientists, and Pakistani inventors, doctors, athletes, and entertainers you speak of, were never given the opportunity to realize their full human potential because Europeans weren't around to introduce higher civilization and learning to them. There are no George Washington Carvers in this non-European world, no Dr. Carsons, no Booker T. Washingtons, no Benjamin Bannekers, no Michael Jordans, no Oprah Winfreys, no Bill Cosbys, no...,"

"Stop it! That can't be!" cried George. "Let's walk over to the great pyramids of Egypt right now and I'll show you one of the great wonders of the world... built by non-Whites."

They walked a few miles before George stopped and asked where the nearest toilet was.

Toilets? replied the angel. "There are no toilets. or urinals in this world. Plumbing was developed by evil Europeans. The people in this non-White world still relieve themselves in open fields."

Clarence turned around so George could do his business.

"I need some toilet paper." George said.

"Toilet paper?" replied the angel.

"I know, I know. Toilet paper hasn't been invented yet. Just hand me a rag then."

Clarence obliged and the two of them went on their way.

"I don't understand. According to my recollection from Geography, the great pyramids should be near this very spot. We ought to be able to see them from miles away," said George.

"Well, George, I'm sure your professors at the college never told you this, but the ancient Egyptians were not black or brown. They were Caucasians. The anthropologists who examined the Egyptian mummies confirmed this fact. There are no pyramids and no Sphinx either. And the Carthaginians were White too."

George became depressed, but was determined to prove his beliefs. "What's in Europe?" he asked.

"Europe became populated by Huns and other Asiatic tribes. They've settled down a bit but life is much the same as it is in North America. A nomadic existence based on hunting food and gathering. No great cities, no science, no buildings, no culture, no fine art - just a hard daily struggle against life and the elements of nature. In a Europe without evil Whites, the Roman Empire never existed nor did the Greeks. There was no Renaissance either."

"Take me to Asia then. Surely the great civilizations of Persia, India, China, and Japan will suit me" George said. "Clarence, to the Taj Mahal please."

"The Taj Mahal?" replied the angel. "Don't you know that the ancient Persian and Indian civilizations were established by ancient Indo-European tribes who crossed the Himalayas? They are the ones who civilized India and built the Taj Mahal. Those are the great civilizations that Marco Polo, Columbus, and others were searching for. Did you know that Iran is Persian for "land of the Aryan?"

George said: "Don't tell me that the Indians were White men! That can't be. In the world I came from, I knew many Indians and they were not White!"

Clarence explained: "As the centuries passed, the Indo-Europeans who created Indian civilization intermarried with the native majorities who populated the Indian subcontinent. Gradually there were less and less people until they faded out completely, along with the advanced civilization they had built. You will notice that there are still a few white-skinned and fair-haired Indians around today - in the world you came from, that is."

George became worried. He knew he could never fit into the harsh primitive world he had been thrust into.

Suddenly he thought of Japan. "Japan! I'll show you now Clarence. Take me to Japan. If the Japanese can make TV's and cameras then I'm sure I'll find a decent civilization that I can live in."

Clarence transported George to Japan. George observed that Japanese society was the most orderly, advanced and civil that he had seen, but it seemed as if almost everyone was either a rice farmer, a fisherman, or a soldier. There were no cars, no skyscrapers, no lights, no stereos, no sciences, no technologies, no universities. It was a stagnant agricultural society that seemed to have reached its high water mark and was incapable of moving forward. George knew he could not live here either.

Clarence explained to George: "Even the industrious Japanese and Chinese peoples had to rely on the evil Europeans to build modern Asia that you had in mind. In this world, Japan exists exactly as it did before Commodore Perry's American naval ships arrived in Japan in the 1850's. There's no industry, no technology, no Fuji film, no Sony, no Hitachi, no Panasonic, no Toyota, no Sushi bars, no baseball... none of the trappings or comforts of modern life. These things don't exist in Japan or anywhere else because Europeans weren't there to create them and share them with the rest of the world. Would you care for a bowl of rice, George?"

George began to feel sick in both his body and his mind. Not only was he depressed, but exposure to the harsh elements of nature had left him physically ill. "Clarence, I seem to have contracted some type of sickness. I must have some antibiotics."

"Anti-biotics? There's no..."

"Oh, Shut up already! Then just take me back to the world as it was!"

"Sorry George. I'm not authorized to do that. Only my boss can make that call." Clarence said to him: "You see George, your father was right. You really had a wonderful race. Don't you see what a foolish mistake it is to be ashamed and guilty about your own people, and to let them die out? This is what the world would be like without the creative spark of Edison and Ford and Pasteur and Marconi.

"No great scientists, or mathematicians, or inventors or fine artists. No Archimedes, no Aristotle, no Socrates, no Alexander, no Renaissance, no Newton, no Kepler, no Goddard, no Medel, no Tesla, no Faraday, no Guttenberg, no Shakespeare, no Dickens, no Twain, no Mozart, no Beethoven, no Da Vinci, no Michaelangelo, no Galileo, no Copernicus, no Venice, no Paris, no Lisbon, no Madrid, no Zurich, no Berlin, no St. Petersburg, no Budapest, no Rome, no Milan, no Vienna, no London, no New York, no Rio, no Sydney.

"No orchestras, no museums, no universities, no hospitals, no libraries, no theaters, no radio, no books, no television, no electricity, no refrigeration, no heating, no plumbing, no houses, no steel, no stadiums, no vaccines, no cars, no planes, no trains, no ships, no dentists, no surgeons, no computers, no telephones, and most important - there's no creative genius to be found that could create and sustain such a high level of civilization.

"There's nothing for the people of this world to build upon. It's just a daily struggle for subsistence. A brutal planet where the few people who aren't mired in eternal ignorance and darkness have reached their peak of civilization and are advancing no further."

Clarence went on to lecture the broken and depressed young man for seven days straight. He covered everything. History, science, economics, philosophy, art, literature, fine music, architecture, medicine, politics, agriculture, religion, and all the creations and contributions that the European peoples had made in every conceivable field of human endeavour. George listened closely to every word. He felt like a man who had been reborn.

After his lecture, Clarence the angel floated away towards heaven.

"I hope you have found all this to be educational, and I hope you have learned an important lesson. Enjoy your world George!" mocked the departing angel.

George began to sob like a baby. It was the year 2002 and he was alone and hungry in a backwards world where Europeans had never existed.

He cried out to the stars: "Please God. I see what a fool I've been. I understand now what my father was trying to tell me. I want to go back to the world that I came from. A world where Europeans not only existed, but blessed the rest of humanity with their unique creative ability. I want to live in a civilized world. Please God!... take me back!... take me back!... Oh God... please."

Suddenly George was transported back to his college dormitory. Drunk with joy, George jumped into the showers before he could even take his clothes off.

"Warm water! and soap! Life is beautiful!" he screamed. George's floor-mates looked at him as if he was crazy. "George! Have you gone crazy?" asked a bewildered schoolmate.

"No, my friend. I haven't taken leave of my senses. I've come to them!" George replied.

George then began to sing classic European folk songs in the shower. Miraculously, he was able to sing in many different languages. He sang O Sole Mio in Italian, Amazing Grace in English, Gloire Immortelle in French, Das Ist Der Tag in German, and also Belgian, Spanish and French ballads and waltzes. Tears of sheer joy began to stream down his cheeks. The degenerate music of Hip-Hop, Rock and Rap lost all of its appeal to young George.

After his shower, George drove to a nearby restaurant and ordered two whole entrees. One was Lasagna and the other was a delicious Veal Marsala. With his Italian food he had a Greek salad with Spanish olives and Russian dressing, drank a whole bottle of French wine, followed by a German pastry for dessert. He finished his meal off with a hot cup of English tea and a Cuban cigar. He also decided not to support Bob Geldof's programs for giving aid to Africa.

George said out loud: "Oh those European peoples and their delicious cuisine. Clarence was right after all. What a wonderful race!"

George was happy, but at the same time he realized there was much work to be done. He thought of all those poor Whites in Rhodesia and South Africa who were being murdered and raped ever since they gave up control of those once-European nations.

He thought of the many thousands of qualified Whites who were passed up for good jobs and college entrance because of racial quotas that discriminate against Europeans. He thought about the declining birthrates among all the European nations of the world.

He remembered that Europeans everywhere were dwindling in numbers every year even as their own nations were being flooded with third world immigration. He recalled the O.J. Simpson verdict and how millions of blacks in Africa cheered when that brutal double murderer was set free by a black jury after he stabbed two Whites to death.

He remembered the Los Angeles riots of 1992, where dozens of Whites were dragged out of their vehicles and killed like dogs in the streets by packs of White-hating monsters who were never even punished!

He remembered the time when Jesse Jackson led a cheer at Stanford University: "Hey Hey, Ho Ho, Western Civ. has got to go!" His European blood began to boil in righteous indignation when he recalled how Jesse Jackson once said he had spit in White people's food when he was a young restaurant worker.

George now understood that his people were on a collision course with worldwide disaster and genocide. George realized that this great people must not perish from the face of the earth.

George could not wait to see his father. He longed to embrace him and apologize for all of the foolish and disrespectful things he had said to him.

But first, George had a score to settle with a certain college professor. He walked into Dr. Silverstein's auditorium and quietly took a seat in the back row. The nasal voiced Silverstein was lecturing on and on about racial and gender inequalities in European-centered civilizations.

It was vintage Silverstein. George's impressionable White school-mates, with their baggy pants, hip-hop clothes and backwards baseball caps, were swallowing Silverstein's poison pills hook, line, and sinker.

After letting Silverstein spew his cultural poison for about 15 minutes or so, George raised his hand so that he could give the professor a piece of his newly educated mind.

"George? Is that you? I remember you from last semester. I wasn't aware that you were here today. I failed to recognize you in that shirt and tie, and without your earrings. You must have enjoyed my course so much that you signed up again, eh?"

"Class, I'd like for you to meet George. He was one of my brightest students last semester. He truly has a thorough grasp of the ideas presented in this course. George, would you be so kind as to tell my class about that brilliant term paper you wrote about European racism, imperialism, and the need for monetary reparations?"

That's when young George let loose on the unsuspecting Professor.

"ENOUGH! You scheming devil! You mendacious fabricator of falsehoods! You pusillanimous purveyor of pinko propaganda! How dare you try to corrupt and manipulate our young minds with your filthy lies. We Europeans have nothing to be ashamed of, nothing to apologize for, and everything to be proud of. And most of all, we don't owe anybody jack-s.-t - not one dime! To the contrary, it is the rest of humanity that owes us a debt which can never be repaid!

"We are the rightful heirs and protectors of a rich cultural heritage. You vile manipulator! We are the sons of the Romans, the sons of the Greeks, the Celts, the Vikings, the Normans, the Saxons. Why do you inflict shame and guilt upon us? We Europeans didn't just contribute to civilization... WE ARE CIVILIZATION!

"And I declare that I will no longer tolerate you s..thead 'intellectuals' trying to tear our people down. Never again will we walk on eggshells when we speak, always fearing that we might be called 'racist.' I no longer care what people think. All that matters is the truth which you have sought to pervert!"

"What are you up to anyway? Why do you corrupt my young peers by shoving false heroes down their throats? Enough of your Marxist games of divide and conquer, you commie-pinko subversive! I don't want to learn any more about Martin Luther King, Jesse Jackson, Al Sharpton or Black History Month. They would not have amounted to anything without the institutions of high civilization created by the European peoples.

"I'm going to set this class straight about who the truly great men of history are - the European statesmen, scientists, explorers, monarchs, navigators, conquerors, inventors, artists, writers, philosophers - the innovative giants of history that you and your ilk have erased from our collective memories. You speak of a world liberated from European influence? Permit me to tell your students about such a world, Silverstein, because I can speak from personal experience, you wretched little conspiring monster!"

Silverstein turned white as a ghost. He was shell-shocked and rendered speechless for the first time in his career! Never in all of his years at the University has a student dared to so boldly challenge his falsehoods.

Speaking from the heart as well as the mind, and with an eloquence he never thought he could muster, George broke out into a 60-minute monologue on history, science, philosophy, culture, and all the other attributes that constitute high civilization.

The young students were captivated by George's brilliant oratory. Many were moved to tears. By the end of his tirade, George's reawakened classmates were thundering their approval of his speech. The class gave George a standing ovation and they thanked him for helping them rediscover and reclaim their own sense of pride and lost identity.

The unstoppable power of truth had melted away years of Marxist guilt tripping, self-hate, wimpishness and cultural brainwashing in just one unforgettable hour. The inspired students proceeded to storm out of Silverstein's class, throwing their hip-hop baseball caps and nose earrings at him as they stampeded out and vowed never to return. They lifted George up on their shoulders and carried him out of the auditorium like a conquering hero. With a glint in his eye, George glanced up towards the sky, winked and said, "Thank you, Clarence."

Dr. Silverstein was left humiliated and visibly shaken. He knew that these re-awakened European kids could never again be brainwashed with 'political correctness' and White guilt. Silverstein's greatest fear was that more of these proud European youths would one day re-awaken and take their country and civilization back from the Silversteins of the world.

Silverstein was worried, but he remained confident that most young men and women would never learn the truth about their glorious past and unique creative abilities. After all, the mass media, Hollywood, the music industry, the colleges, and the public and many private schools are all controlled by 'liberals' like Dr. Silverstein. With the power of political correctness in their hands, they can continue to tear down our European ancestors, destroy our institutions and traditions, instigate blacks and other races against the whites, flood the nation with third-world immigration, and push hip-hop music, homosexuality, and other garbage onto a weak, confused and morally degenerate youth.

After reflecting upon these facts, Silverstein smiled a devilish grin and muttered to himself: "A few of these European sheep may wake up to what's being done to them, but the majority of these idiots never will." And he smiled again... and laughed with diabolical Marxist glee. Then he repeated to himself "No... they will never figure it all out until it's too late."

... Or will they?

3. GITDOM (the land of the gits)

'Gitdom' ran right throughout the white befolkung (population), (plenty of it in all white lands for that matter) yes, the white rulers, the masters of rebellion to God's laws. It must be understood that whites do not back whites. Whites only back the ones that soothe their egos. They like to smile at a crocodile, and be taken in by his friendly grin. White settlers somehow believed that Britain called the shots. When the truth is told, she had long ago whored herself to the 'Gold bugs', such as Barney Barnado (Barnett Isaacs), the Rothschilds, the Oppenheims, Alfred Beit, Lionel Phillips and other motley Canaanites.

The last thing the Canaanites wanted was another white dominion; they were pretty peeved when the whites in Australia drew up the White Australia Policy. White Rhodesians were blissfully unaware that whoring Britain wanted Africa under black mayhem. Britain's whoring role was that of the Canaanites and their gross 'UN,' that being, de-colonization. (De-colonization was a smokescreen for ethnic cleansing of the whites). When the whites at last understood this, they felt let down. But why, they love their blacks so much? 'In for a penny, in for a pound.' Have blacks until they 'come out your ears.' It's all or nothing. The whites should have ethnically cleansed the blacks, but they did not. Had they done this it would be easy to spot an illegal immigrant - he would have been non-white. Instead, whites spent years and millions of dollars filtering out the good from the bad blacks - a thankless and hopeless under-taking. A black is a black, like a snake is a snake. King Jesus said that an Ethiopian could not change his skin. So there is no such thing as a good black. Where are the rallies by blacks around the world and calls for boycotts to save the Rhodesian Whites? NOWHERE! But dumb whites rallied to save the 'beast of the field' of Suid Afrika against the whites. Now in 2002 the whites still don't get it. Now, because the whites did not turf out the blacks, the blacks turf out the whites.

In 1922 Southern Rhodesia could have joined Suid Africa, but did not. I guess the thought of mixing with non-English speaking whites must be unbearable. Fine! So cast your lot in with 'the beast of the field,' and Rhodesia did just that. Instead Northern Rhodesia's Roy Welensky of the Northern Rhodesian Legislative Council together with the then Southern Rhodesian PM, Sir ('Sir' is a title often given to cronies) Godfrey Huggins, chose to form a bond-state (federation). It took a while to get it all to work but at last it all fell in place by 1951 with much grumbling from Canaanite-swayed Britain.

The bond-state was partly allowed by Britain as a knee-jerk reaction to Afrikaner (Boer) nationalism after the Suid Afrikaner vote of 28th May 1948 leading to an Afrikaner state, free from the commonwealth and the UK crown. Britain allowed for the bond-state, not to bolster Rhodesian whites, but to have a political counterweight to Afrikanerdom. Britain saw herself, rather, as a keeper of the blacks, and she ultimately worked towards black mayhem, wrongly called black rule. Yet the bond-state which included Nyasaland, did not last long and by 1962 Nyasaland broke away. A year later, so did Northern Rhodesia. Both these lands were 'shut down,' and the whites were spewed out. Southern Rhodesia simply became Rhodesia. But still the whites did not have a clue as to how to save their hides from the coming storm.

4. A LIST OF BLUNDERS

This then leaves us with a list of blunders that is the time-spell (history) of Rhodesia. The 'BSA' (British South Africa Company) was a Jewish 'gold bug' business which made a treaty with the black tribal king, Ndebele in 1888 to allow mining in their kingdom, which was their first blunder (God's Law forbids the use of racial aliens, so Britain should not have let the Jews make treaties on her behalf. Double-trouble, as it was with other racial aliens too).

The twi-fold (second) blunder was that the dumb whites honoured the treaty between themselves and the blacks (two racially alien groups) and fulfilled it (made it effective) by settling the land together. War broke out between the whites and Ndebele in 1893, the Jews were unscathed. Whites fought for a Jewish treaty and won, making the area safe for Jewish outtoilers. More settlers came in thinking they were home and hosed.

In 1890 there were only 200,000 blacks. It would have been a doddle to have driven them out, but no one did. The British/Jewish BSA Co. set aside the wild-parks (reservations) where blacks could live under their own chiefs. The white settlers never stirred. They must have thought this to be quaint or exotic. Although the 1931 Land Apportionment Act allowed whites to buy most of the land outside the Hueling wild-parks; it also allowed for some percentage to be sold to blacks. So, not only were blacks allowed to stay, they were also allowed to "eat the children's bread" (swallow up some of the land God set aside for whites). Dumb whitey never really asked who had the right to even sell the land and who was raking in the increase? After all, the BSA Co. took it from the blacks and then sold it to dumb "goy" whitey. Good business, right? While dumb whitey was busy working to stave off debts and dreaming of hitting farming booms, the real booms were taking shape in the wild-parks; breeding booms - blacks were growing in large amounts.

White women just hate feeling like breeders. After all it is 'their bodies' to make choices over, not God's; or so they believe. The women-kind (female) of the black specie, however, sees things surprisingly more clearly - the more offspring, the stronger the specie. The black befolkung (population) grew by a staggering 45 times between 1890 and 1990, from 200,000 to 9 million by 1990! The dainty whites on the other hand went from 500 to only 275,000 and most of that number was not boosted by babies but instead by immigration. What is more, Rhodesian whites thought to be smart - they were picky as to which whites they let in. They did not want a poor white class. No, one can't have white rabble. Oh, but one can have lots of poor blacks. Yes, don't help your brother who is 'poor by thee' standards, it is much more fun to train a black. (many today are training people from India or other places, in how to do the jobs from which they will then be fired - see the video AMERICAN JOBS - CI-390 - LOAN ONLY). When will they learn to just quit without training a replacement who will work for lower wages?) A white farmer not long ago pleaded for 'reason' to rule in 'Zimbabwe.' He loves his blacks and even pities them and hopes for a better black leader! It seems that after 20 years of black majority sway of mayhem, whites are no smarter.

Well the blunders simply kept on coming. The blacks were in their wild-parks as late as the 1960's. So in order to get workers for the farms, mining and industry, whites did what:???

- (a) have more children
 - (b) seek blue-collar workers and the jobless of Europe
 - (c) infare (import) MORE blacks from neighbouring lands
- ANSWER: C - yes C! the utter self-hurting dozy gits!

5. BLACK SWAY ON THE

RISE

All the signs were there. Black nationalism was on the rise, easily out-toiled (exploited) by the likes of Canaanite Nicolaas Hoogstraten, backer of Mugabe, the current 'beast of the field' that supposedly runs Zimba... aarggh-yuk, the name won't go by my lips, former Rhodesia. Still, one can't blame blacks if they want to live in a black run land where only blacks live. As a white, I want to live in a land where only whites live and only white culture and music is found, guided by the Law of Our God. Yet the bulk of whites are a bunch of dummies who would rather live in a melting pot - something all other races baulk at.

God gave our white race the niftyness to create anything from a hammer to a laser-guided rocket. Do we worship such a God? No! Instead we dump Him and His Laws and set up our own gods, set along heathen lines - man-kings, such as Prime Ministers, Presidents, kings and queens, law systems (equity, admiralty) and a host of froward lawgivers to whom our race yields. Yet Blacks, Arabs, and Asian heed their gods. Shame on our race!

Black nationalism would, of course, have gained no foothold, had Rhodesia been empty of blacks! That's rather a simple thought to grasp, is it not? Hmm... too hard for white settlers? I mean, call me simple, but, it seems to me, that in order to get rid of black misdeeds, you get rid of blacks. If you don't like wolves eating sheep, you wipe out the wolves, right? Or are we to worry about some ecological celestial harmony? But the blacks were never driven out, so it was only a matter of time that the whites would have a black problem, called Black nationalism. Whites call themselves Christian, but they never heed the Law of their God who behests them to do thusly with the blacks: "And thou shalt smite them and utterly destroy them, thou shalt make no deals with them, nor shew kindness to them." (Deut 7:2) [and what are our people doing with 'Band Aid' and 'Live Aid' and help to feed Africa programs????? Feed

100 today, and feed 10,000 tomorrow!]

So the Banda of Nyasaland and the Kauna of Northern Rhodesia tried hard to split these two states from Southern Rhodesia, thereby breaking the Rhodesian Bond-state (federation). It was quite easy to split the first two states as they were held in the sway of the Canaanite and black-loving parliament in London. Southern Rhodesia however was more beholden to its own folkmete (government) in Salisbury, now called Har .raagh, spit, I can't say it. It is not that the folkmete in Salisbury were more Christian than the string-pullers in London; the folkmete in Salisbury were good to 'their blacks.' (Yes, for some ungodly reason, they thought these beings were 'their blacks'). In order to be good to their blacks, they, of course, had to rob God. How so? Well simple. God gives us the land, he then gives us the means to make wealth from the land. The tithes (taxes) are His to be channeled into His kingdom. This is the "bread of the children (of Israel, namely, Saxons and them alone) which is not for the dogs." Matt. 15:24-26.

By giving any resources in any shape to non-Saxons is thus robbing the 'Children of Israel,' the Kingdom and God. Basically, the whites in Rhodesia were making twoth (second) rank whites in black hides, thinking they were doing good, when God says put them to the sword, "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against Me." Ex. 23:28. The whites could not see God's anger brewing against them over their non-white loving behaviour. The white Rhodies believed they had 'happy kaffirs' in their fool's heaven.

The happiness was skin deep, small half-hearted uprisings began in 1939 and then there was the 1945 railway strike by black beasts, all signs unheeded by cloud cuckoo-land whites. Again another strike in 1948, but this died down. Ah, see, they aren't so bad, really. Sure. Yet, for all the blindness of whites, blacks were always seeking ways to rise and it was only a matter of time. Because whites think non-whites are somehow 'exotic' and many dumbos actually think 'erotic,' the whites there had two sorts of blacks; those they liked around them as hirelings and cheap workers, ('their blacks,') and those they felt would outnumber them just ever so much, and so they set up 'wild-parks' (reserves) where these other blacks had to dwell in their 'quaint natural state.' These 'quaint wild-parks' were to become recruiting grounds for the nationalists. And why not? Blood is thicker than water.

Having learned from their racial kin of Nyasaland and Northern Rhodesia, the Southern Rhodesian 'beasts of the field' understood that they needed to be more militant, and set up a campaign of angst (terror) with the help of the beast, Joshua Nkomo, who in turn was backed by Canaanites from the USSR as early as 1956. Thus was set up the militant "Youth City League" (naturally only for black youths) in Salisbury. It was later renamed, "the African National Youth League." With Nkomo as president, they linked up with the ANC in 1957. Still whites did not cotton on (understand) that these black groups were not seeking a happy melting-pot; the only part the whites would have in their 'dream' was to GET OUT.

In September of 1965, this black bewaying (movement) held a bus boycott in Salisbury which in turn led to a night of mayhem and bloody misdeeds. Again, I stress, no blacks - no black uprisings.

6. WHITES SIMPLY DO NOT GET IT

Still whites did not get it. Surely by now they would have tossed the blacks out? Surely they owed this much to their comely rosy-cheeked children, of the race Jesus died for? Sadly they were unable to do the right thing, instead their leaders squabbled leading to a cabinet revolt in early 1958 against the Southern Rhodesian PM, Garfield Todd.

Todd was once a sendling (missionary, namely, a Judeo-Churchy bleeding heart for non-Saxons but who could not care less for Saxons) and thus a member of that age old, poxy-cult of Judeo-Christianity. King Jesus' words of 30 AD ring true even today, "this people honour me with their lips but their heart is far from me. But for naught do they worship me, teaching for doctrine the laws of men."
Matt 15:7-9.

So Todd set off poorly by 'bettering' the pains of Judeo-men's laws. Clouded by the traditions of men he somehow believed that blacks were MAN, yet only Adamics are MAN, that rare specie that can blush. He tried to tinker with the common roll in October 1957 to lure more blacks to vote. The 'clown' wanted blacks in the folk-mote (parliament)! As if blacks wanted to sit side by side with dozy self-hating ungodly whites. Indeed, the blacks ignored him. Instead, the blacks wanted all out freedom from the whites, and rightfully so.

Blacks do not want a slice of Wally-World. Yet, to prove his heartfelt love to this cause, as if to say, we whites really do love you blacks, Wally-Worldly King Todd went another step deeper into sin by taking away the 'Immorality Act,' an Act that had much to do with the sunderness (apart-hood, segregation) of the races. All this went too swiftly and his cabinet tossed him out. God's Law seeks death for such besnarers (traitors), but because his bleeding heart kinsmen did not seek God in this matter, Todd lived on, and now so many whites would die due to his life being spared. He threw his lot in with the black nationalist Nkomo and his anti-white bewaying (movement), ZAPU in their struggle to oust whites. After Todd came 'Sir' Edgar Whitehead - another establishment whore who was seen as a 'reformer,' (basically, that means one who will sellout his own kind). He was keen to break up the Rhodesian Bond-state (federation) and to have Southern Rhodesia fall from white held sway. He strove for a 'home-sway' (self-government) set in Salisbury but as a full multi-racial democracy.

This rat-bag took away many apart-hood laws and swore to have a top-heavy black cabinet. He was voted out in 1962, not so much that whites were against the changes as such, but events in the Belgian Congo shook them up a bit - where blacks had just done a full-on bit of ethnic cleansing of the whites there. (interesting to view AFRICA ADIOS in that regard! CI-00@ $6 LOAN ONLY).

Whitehead's timing was a bit off. Whites are like wildebeests, they are all in a flap when a lion goes in for the kill. Once a beast has been felled, the herd calms down and lives in blissful ignorance of the fact that the lion will kill again when it is hungry. So when the dust settled in the Congo, that is to say, no more whites were killed (never mind the fact that there were no more whites to kill and eat), Rhodie whites, like wildebeests, calmed down and soon loved 'their blacks' again.

So Whitehead was at it again and shoved through a CON-stitutional formula which was taken on by all including Nkomo, but not by the white bestriding (opposition) party, the Dominion Party. The thrust of the plan was to have more black say in the folkmote (parliament). This anti-Christ formula was put to a referendum and taken on by whites in 1961. Whites were not against robbing God and fordoing their land, they were only worried about the speed at which it was done.

Whitehead, like Todd, did not understand that blacks wanted no part in a white brewed up melting-pot Wally-World. The Blacks were cheesed-off with his melting-pot nightmare as any real red-blooded Christian ought to be. Indeed, he was met with a hefty black backlash and in response he was driven to ban the ANC in 1959. But his black bestriders (opponents) simply bounced back as the National Democratic Party (NDP) (again, no blacks, no bounce back). In mid-1960 the NDP stirred up violence in Salisbury and Bulawayo. The answer? Drive them out.

Whitehead's answer was to justify his existence. If he'd drive out the blacks, the whites would have no need for a 'protective government' in the same way healthy folks don't need doctors. If there is frith (peace) then there is no need to keep the frith and when there is no need to keep it, frith-keeping government becomes unneeded.

So rather than drive out the blacks, Whitehead strengthened the government's frith-keepers; in this case, the multi-racial police reserve, all of which was not the Godly way to go. God in turn stirred up the heathen and Nkomo struck back forthwith behesting majority, namely, black rule.

More bloody misdeeds were carried out against our racial kin and Whitehead's response was typically establishment- he banned the NDP (which simply regrouped as the Zimbabwe African Peoples Union - ZAPU). Still whites did not get it. African Peoples mean?? The melting-pot of cuddly, warm and fuzzy cooperation between blacks who really do love whites? No! It means Blacks and only blacks. I know this may come as a shock to some of my white kin - Blacks don't really love you!

Thus a flood of blacks was coming upon the house (nation) of whitey and was beginning to sweep it away. Church goers all seem to know Jesus' words about a man building his house upon a rock rather than on sand yet they never understood it (Luke 6:46-49). In Jesus' likeness (parable) the house is the nation(s) of Israel (Saxondom), the rock is the Law of Jesus (which is the same Law of His Father). Whites are to build their lands on this law and not the shifting laws of man (sand). If the white nations face a flood (of non-whites) and their laws are the shifting laws of man, then their lands will be washed away.

Let's face it, if our race loves blacks so much, then why settle for a few? God can find plenty more where they came from and he'll send them, more and more, until we heed Him and rue our lawlessness and change our ways, or we will die in our lawlessness.....

The Dominion Party stood up to Whitehead in 1962, it was made up of selfling (individual) members from other parties, one of whom was Ian Douglas Smith. In turn, this mob set up the Rhodesian Front and beat Whitehead that year. Thus whites were given more time from God to rethink their ways and stave off God's foreclosure of the land. But would the Rhodesian Front bring the whites to God's Law and save the land, and drive out the blacks and all other non-whites? Would it make an oath (covenant) with God to enshrine His Laws as the Ground-law for Rhodesia, or will it tinker with the shifting sands of man's Ground-law called the CON-stitution? Can you guess the answer? Let me put it this way, is there such a place called Rhodesia today where whites live in safety and frith? I guess then that Smithy was not really on God's side.

The Rhodesian Front was nothing more than a 'front,' the so-called Gentile front of kosher-conservatives and kosher right-wingers, but in no wise of Christian hardliners seeking God's Law for Rhodesia. Therefore, like a dog going back to its own puke, this 'front' backed ideas, such as the 1931 Lands Apportionment Act. God would not suffer this and stirred up the blacks to start a bloody overthrow of stiff-necked whites. The whites were 'weighed in the scales and found wanting,' and there were none who sought to cleanse the land of the great sin of loving the heathen and of robbing God. Still the whites gave jobs to blacks and robbed God a little bit more. They overlooked the fact that God had made a pact with whites and signed it with the blood of Jesus, His only begotten Son. And what do whites do? They pooch on this and make pacts with the heathen, whom God has behested us to put to the sword, every single one of them. And to tear down their places of worship, so that there will be no remembrance of them.

When whites make a deal with the non-whites, they effectively tear up the contract Jesus made with them on the cross. It is a serious business to be on the wrong side of the Lord! The Rhodesian Front was not the 'Gideon' Rhodesia so badly needed. God will not be mocked. The Rhodies mocked God when they hypocritically believed that all was hunky-dory to keep the blacks in the land, but somehow not let themselves be under the blacks. It's all or nothing; there is no compromise with God's Law. The blacks are either out or the whites will be out! Blacks of course did not go along with the 'Front's' version of Wally-World either and a 'Zimbabwe Revolution' was scried for and all blacks were urged to sign up. Fires were started and sabotage became commonplace. The BSA Company's woodland near Melseter was set alight. Police raids netted many blastables (explosives) and machine guns, making many arrests. Yet without doing it God's way, there would be no turning back. The ark door was closing on the melting-pot whites...

COVENANT SUCCESSION
by Douglas Wilson

Throughout Scripture, God has given many promises to parents who fear Him. From the beginning, biblical child-rearing in the light of these promises has been covenantal. "But did He not make them one, having a remnant of the Spirit? And why one? He seeks godly offspring" (Mal. 2:15). In the previous verse the wife was described as a "wife by covenant." Marriage is a covenantal union, designed by God with a set purpose in mind, which is a fruitful covenantal union. God designed marriage with the intention of bringing godly offspring into the world. Now, it is true that a marriage can exist apart from the covenantal redemption that we have in Christ - non-Christians marry and are obligated to fulfil their vows. But marriage does not exist as God requires in His Word unless the marriage covenant is set in the context of the redemptive covenant in Christ. In other words, there is no way to honor the marriage covenant properly without a larger covenantal submission and obedience in view.

Now, the scriptures are equally clear that, the heart of covenant-keeping is promise-believing. This is why the Bible, from beginning to end, teaches the centrality of faith. But as it was with Abraham, faith without works is dead. Nowhere is this more important to understand than in the arduous task of bringing up our children. But as we come to understand these promises concerning our children, we will then rest in them, and that evangelical rest will result in godly, trusting, faithful, effective parental works.

OLD TESTAMENT PROMISES & PREDICTIONS

"The children of Your servants will continue; and their descendants will be established before You" (Ps 102:28).

This is a promise to parents that is based on the unchanging character of God, shown in the previous verses. "But You are the same, and Your years will have no end" (Ps. 102:25 -27).

Because God does not change over generations, He can sustain the descendants of His servants. But this is not merely a statement about God's abilities; it is a promise concerning His intentions. We are not told here what God can do; we are told what He will do. And this unchanging purpose is based squarely on His unchanging character.

This intention of God's is also seen ill the Ten Commandments, "... you shall not bow down to them nor serve them. For I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me, but showing mercy to thousands, to those who love Me and keep My commandments." (Deut. 5:9-10). The implication here is that blessings flow to thousands of generations. But we do not need to rest on implications or conjecture.

"Therefore know that the LORD Your [Israel's] God, He is God, the faithful God who keeps covenant and mercy for a thousand generations with those who love Him and keep His commandments..." (Deut 7:9). This passage is just a few chapters after the Ten Commandments, and it clearly echoes the language of the Decalogue. Here it spells out God's intention of blessing to a thousand generations. Secondly, it says that this is the result of a faithful God keeping covenant with families.

The paradigm for this is, of course, Abraham - the father of all who believe [of his descendants, CIM]. "And I will establish My covenant between Me and you and your descendants after you in their generations, for an everlasting covenant, to be God to you and your descendants after you" (Gen. 17:7-9). There were, and are, two elements in this. covenant. The first, and most important, is "I will be your God." Not only does He promise to be Abraham's God, He says He will be God to Abraham's descendants. [notice that there is no mention of other races! ONLY Abraham's descendants. CIM]

The second promise here is that He will give to Abraham and his descendants the land of Canaan. This latter portion of the promise has been physically fulfilled, but this does not mean that the fullness of the promise has been exhausted. Paul teaches that the promises concerning the land of Canaan are still in force, although under the New Covenant they have been greatly expanded. "For the promise that he would be heir of the world was not to Abraham or to his seed through the law, but through the righteousness of faith” (Rom 4: 13). The New Covenant does not have God scrapping the covenant with Abraham; rather, God fulfills His covenant with Abraham. Our children are not excluded. Does it automatically include them then? Certainly not. If parents are not covenantally faithful in how they bring up their children, and if their children do not embrace the faith of Abraham their father, the genetic relationship alone will not cut it. God can make sons of Abraham out of rocks. But we must not forget that God can make sons of Abraham out of sons of Abraham. He has declared His intention to do so.

The promises in the Old Testament concerning the Christian aeon, are indeed glorious. Moreover, these promises are certainly not silent on the subject of the children of Christians [Israelites, CIM]. “David My servant shall be king over them, and they shall all have one shepherd; they shall also walk in My judgments and observe My statutes, and do them... and they shall dwell there, they, their children, and their children's children, forever [the continuing race, CIM]; and My servant David shall be their prince forever. Moreover I will make a covenant of peace with them, and it shall be an everlasting covenant with them [Israel]; I will establish them and multiply them, and I will set My sanctuary in their midst forevermore” (Ezek 37:24-26).

Ezekiel is talking about the time when Jesus, the son of David, shall reign. Notice how this is a prophecy of a great expansion of generational blessings. When Jesus reigns, whom shall He rule? He shall rule them, their children and their grandchildren, and He shall do so forever. Not only do these blessings cross generational lines, they do so again on the basis of an everlasting covenant. In other words, Ezekiel predicts that in our era, our great-great-grandchildren will be brought up in the Lord. This is not something that might or might not happen. God promises that it will happen.

This is also predicted in Isaiah's great millennial prophecy. Notice how Isaiah speaks. “They shall not labour in vain, nor bring forth children for trouble; for they shall be the descendants of the blessed of the LORD, and their offspring with them” (Isa 65:23). As a result of Christ's work on the cross, His people shall no longer bring forth children for trouble - they and their descendants shall be blessed of the Lord. When shall this be? It will not be after the final resurrection of the dead - at that time we will no longer marry or be given in marriage. We will not rear children then. In other words, these are promises that apply to us, and as the Christian aeon progresses, the glory of these promises will be increasingly manifest.

There is another wonderful promise very much like this just a few chapters earlier in Isaiah. The prophet is talking about our day, and the days to come. “‘As for Me,’ says the LORD, ‘this is My covenant with them: My spirit that is upon you, and My words which I have put in your mouth, shall not depart from your mouth, nor from the mouth of your descendants, nor from the mouth of your descendant's descendants,’ says the Lord, ‘from this time and forevermore’” (Isa 59:21).

God did not abandon His commitment to generations in the four hundred years between Malachi and Matthew. In all ages, our God remains a covenant-keeping God. He delights to keep covenant with families across generations [of His people, CIM]

NEW TESTAMENT CONFIRMATION

Not only do the saints in the Old Testament look forward in expectation to the fulfillment of such wonderful promises, the saints in the pages of the New Testament look back at the promises. And what is very important, they teach us how we are to think, as Christians, about these promises. “But the mercy of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting on those who fear Him, and His righteousness to children's children, to such as keep His covenant, and to those who remember His commandments to do them” (Ps 103:17-18).

This promise is stated as everlasting. Now some believe that the transition from the Levitical administration to the New Covenant somehow sets aside such ‘ever-lasting.’ However, Mary, our Lord's mother, thought very differently about it. Notice how she refers to this passage in her psalm of praise. “And His mercy is on those who fear Him from generation to generation” (Luke 1:48-50).

Notice also how Mary uses the term ‘generation.’ She does not believe that the Messiah to be born of her is coming to introduce some new approach to the generations of God's people. It is not as though God used to be concerned, but now, in the New Testament He says, “Every man for himself!” The arrival of the Messiah is a demonstration of God's faithfulness to the generations of His people; it is not the point at which He abandons them.

We also see this understanding in Paul's treatment of the family in Ephesians 5:31, “Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right”. “Honour your father and mother, which is the first commandment with promise: that it may be well with you and you may live long on the earth” (Eph 6:1-4). Paul is addressing ‘gentile’ parents here [descended from the lost Northern house of Israel in dispersion, CIM]. He expressly tells them about a promise from the Ten Commandments which he says applies to them [because they are the descendants of those who were at Mount Sinai, CIM]. A prominent feature of faithful covenantal thinking in the Old Testament is the salvation of offspring. The New Testament echoes this language. In Ephesians the promise from the Decalogue concerning the well-being of descendants is expressly applied to believing ‘gentiles’ [dispersed Israel, having been cast out by God from their original land, CIM]. Peter also confirms this in his sermon at Pentecost. He is preaching to Israelites present in Jerusalem. Peter says that “the promise is to you and your children” (Acts 2:39).

Peter tells them to repent, and he tells them to be baptized. Why? It is because the gift of the Holy Spirit awaits the promise - there's that word again - is to them and to their children. Now what are these children doing here? They are invited by the promises of God all through the Old Testament - promises of the coming Holy Spirit. This spirit was not portioned out with a teaspoon; it was poured out.

And as we look forward to an ever-increasing fulfillment of its ministry and work in our world, we can expect the Holy Spirit to efficaciously and sovereignly regenerate countless generations. With assurances like this, we can truly rejoice that our God is a covenant-keeping God. “For the Lord is good; His mercy is everlasting and His truth endures to all generation.” (Ps. 100:5) *[edited by CIM]

LOVE'S GOT NOTHING TO DO WITH IT

by Steve Hays

With all the wrangling over same-sex marriage within both secular and religious circles, the debate seems stalemated. And one reason Christian debaters have not succeeded is that they overlook one simple fact: Biblical love is not based on romance.

For the most part, Christians have raised obvious objections - man and woman are made for each other, children need a father and a mother, sodomites are notoriously promiscuous, they seduce underage youth at a disproportionate rate, the queer life-style is disease-ridden, and so on. All of these are common sense objections, grounded in the nature of things and the consequences of flouting the creation mandates. All are valid objections, and well worth repeating.

But if sodomites can draw a conclusion from the Christian's starting point, utilizing things which homosexuals and heterosexuals have in common, and unspoken and unquestioned assumptions, then they can bring the Christian on board. The Christian will be made to feel hypocritical if he appears to play by a double standard. This has a lot of emotional as well as logical force.

The Romantic Model of Marriage

What is the primary argument that you hear for same-sex marriage? In a word - love. Sodomites proclaim a romantic model of marriage. If two people fall in love, they have the right to marry. And if they fall out of love, they have the right to divorce. Love is what validates a marriage, and the absence of love is what invalidates a marriage.

This has enormous popular appeal in the general culture. What is more, it has a hook in the contemporary church. If you accept the premise, then it builds a natural bridge between heterosexual and homosexual marriage. It builds on an assumption that many on both sides of the debate share. This is what makes it both so plausible and insidious.

It has all the power of a half truth. For the romantic ideal is just that - an ideal. It is something we should aim for. And you can find this ideal in Scripture. Jacob falls in love with Rachel and ties the knot. Husbands are commanded to love their wives. So you find folks in Scripture who fall in love and seal their love by the bond of matrimony. You find marital love held up as a marital duty. So far, so good. But where does the analogy break down?

Marriage as Covenant

In Scripture, marriage is a covenant (Pr. 2:17; Ez. 16:8; Mal. 2:14). As such, it is possible for one or both of the parties to breach the contract through infidelity or desertion. By the same token, a covenant is not a matter of mere feeling. Love is not the glue that seals the deal. The absence of love does not dissolve the deal. To be a covenant-keeper is to honour the terms of the contract; to be a covenant-breaker is to dishonour the terms of the contract. No one is released from a binding contract just because he no longer feels like keeping up his end of the bargain.

This may sound dry and cold-blooded, even legalistic. But honouring one's word is the basis of any social bond, whether between God and man, man and man, or man and woman. Without trust and truth, love is the first casualty. So even at an emotional level, this forms the framework of a loving relationship. Love is, at best, the flower, not the flowerbed. The covenant supplies the potting soil.

Although Scripture is never against romantic love in its proper context, it never makes romantic love a condition of a valid marriage. Yes, the story of Rachel and Jacob is love at first sight. But Jacob was also wedded to Leah, whom he did not love - and did not even seek to be his lawfully wedded wife. Yet Scripture treats his union with Leah as just as valid as his union with Rachel - his true love. For better or worse, he was stuck with Leah.

In general, marriages in Scripture were arranged. A classic case is the marriage between Isaac and Rebecca. Although she consented to the proposal, romantic love had nothing to do with it; they never even met until she became his bride. Isaac didn't even pop the question. Abraham's old servant handled everything.

So even if queer 'couples' were truly loving and committed to each other, romance would not at all justify same-sex marriage as the Bible defines matrimony. What makes love vicious or virtuous is not the affection, but the object of affection. Love of sin and commitment to evil are hardly virtues.

We sinners are hard to live with. We don't get through a marriage without hurt feelings and disappointed expectations. And we cannot survive that level of emotional exposure and scrutiny unless our marriages are glued together by God's promise to us and our promise to God. In this respect, the covenantal character of marriage is of a piece with the other doctrines of grace.

The Beginning of True Love

So true love begins with a promise, not a passion. Only in the promise of God can we be honest with ourselves and one another. Only in the promise of God can we grow in grace and holiness. Only as the Lord's betrothed can we betroth another, for God's good promise to us is what redeems our promise to one another.

Yahweh's marriage to Israel (Is. 54), and our Lord's marriage to the church (Rev. 19-22), are exemplary of a man's marriage to a woman (Eph. 5:22-33).

Nature and grace, type and token, sign and seal go together. God made man make and female, and made the woman for the man (Gen. 1-2; 2 Cor. 11:7-9). The Son of God became a man, and in relation to the groom, the church - as the bride of Christ - is feminine, not masculine.

God didn't love us because we were lovable; and we don't love God because we are loving (1 Jn 4: 19). The covenant of marriage, between a man and a woman, is an earthly emblem of the heavenly covenant - in which the Father gave the Son a people to redeem (which were under the law, Gal. 4:5) and make His own (Luke 22:29; Jn 17).

1. free to choose their orientation. In that case, why treat them as a special class? And even if the former were true, how does that argue for equal or special rights? A rattlesnake can't help being a rattlesnake, but I wouldn't want one anywhere near my kids!

2. The media constantly refers to two boy-friends as 'couples.' To begin with, even a homosexual activist like Andrew Sullivan admits that monogamy is not a characteristic of the homosexual life-style. Hence, any same-sex marriage would be an open marriage. Since infidelity is a traditional ground of divorce, the average queer 'couple' is pre-annulled before they ever exchange vows. Furthermore, while two boyfriends may sodomize each other, they cannot couple.

"TRUTH IS FALLEN IN THE STREET"

Isaiah 59:14

"Behold the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear. But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hidden his face from you, that he will not hear. For your Hands are defiled with blood, and your fingers with iniquity (lawlessness); your lips have spoken lies, your tongue hath muttered perverseness.

"The way of peace they know not; and there is no justice in their goings; ... Therefore is judgment (true justice) far from us, neither doth righteousness overtake us. We wait for light, but behold obscurity; for brightness, but we walk in darkness.

"For our transgressions are multiplied before thee, and our sins testify against us; ... and as for our iniquities (sinful, evil ways), we know them,

"And justice is turned away backwards, and righteousness standeth afar off; for truth is fallen in the street, and equity cannot enter. Yea, truth faileth; and he that departeth from evil maketh himself a prey. And the Lord saw it, and it displeased him that there was no judgment (justice)." (Isa 59:1-3, 8, 9-10, 12, 14-15). In this portion of Scripture we hear the prophet Isaiah crying out to his people and warning them of the tragic nature and results of sin.

He assures them that the Lord's hand is not shortened (He is still able to help them) and His hand has lost none of its power. But, this is not the problem. The reason that the Lord does not hear, nor help His people, Israel, is due to their iniquities.

In verses 3 and 4 we read "Your hands are defiled with blood," speaking of the innocent blood that was shed and the sacrifices of children to pagan gods. Today, as we consider modern day Israel (Anglo-Saxondom), we think of the millions of children who have been sacrificed on the altar of the abortion clinics throughout our land. How unbelievable that our people would resort to this, and think nothing of it!

Isaiah continues on: "Your lips have spoken lies." The wicked oppressors devised wicked ways to destroy the poor with lying words. "None called for justice, nor pleadeth for truth, they trust in vanity," (i.e. literally in chaos, in false and vain statements). Thus, the whole basis of dealing between man and man was unsound, corrupt, and chaotic.

In verse 9, we read, "Therefore (i.e. on account of these sins) judgment is far from us." God was refraining from judging their enemies. And, we are of the opinion that this is also why the Lord is permitting our enemies to continue their influence over us today.

Isaiah continues on by saying: "neither does justice overtake us," speaking of righting the wrongs which we suffer at the hands of our enemies.

We can see how much this prophecy of Isaiah fits our people today. As a nation and people we are left by God un-avenged, and our enemies continue to increase in their wickedness and are left unpunished on account of our many transgressions and our disobedience of God's laws and commandments.

Looking now at verse 14, we read: "And judgment (justice) is turned away backward." Today we see that the crying sin of the perversion of justice is admitted with much amplification. Right judgment is exactly inverted, and the innocent are condemned, and the guilty acquitted. "Truth is fallen in the streets" 'i.e. false witness prevails over the true in the courts of justice' (from the Pulpit Commentary).

In verse 15, we read "Yea, truth faileth." 'Truth itself is altogether gone, is missing, not forth-coming. This is the worst of all. For truth is the basis of the social structure, and the groundwork of all morality.' When conditions exist where there is no regard for truth in a city, state, or nation, all virtue is undermined and social stability is greatly eroded, for "Truth is fallen in the streets."

This passage of scripture in Isaiah is describing the social conditions which prevailed some twenty-seven hundred years ago. When I think of these scriptures, and others of a similar nature, I am reminded of the Apostle Paul's words as found in the book of Romans. In chapter 15, verse 4, we read: "For whatever things were written in earlier times were written for our learning, that we, through patience and comfort of the scriptures, might have hope."

As we turn to the New Testament scriptures, we read in the Gospel of John where the Lord Jesus makes this wonderful, and yet profound, statement. "Thomas saith unto him, Lord we know not where thou goest, and how can we know the way? Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, and the truth, and the life (i.e. the way to eternal life), no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." (John 14:5, 6)

In his letter to his adopted son, Timothy, the Apostle Paul encourages him to "Study to show thyself approved of God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth ... in meekness instructing those that oppose him, if God will perhaps give them repentance (turning) to the acknowledging of the truth, and that they may recover themselves out of the snare (trap) of the devil, who are taken captive by him at his will." (2 Tim. 2:15, 25-26).

Today there are tens of thousands, even millions, of Christians who, for a lack of study of the scriptures, and other books on spiritual matters, have been snared, or trapped, by the devil because they have turned their hearts from obeying the Word of God, which is truth.

The Apostle Paul predicted, or prophesied, that, in the last days (end times) there would come a time of spiritual apostasy throughout Christendom. It would have to be among Christendom because it is impossible to have a 'falling away' (apostasy) outside of Christendom.

With this in mind, we turn now to 2 Timothy 3:1-7, where we read: "This know, also, that in the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, trucebreakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, high-minded. lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God, having a form of godliness but denying the power of it; from such turn away.

For of this sort are they who creep into houses, and lead captive silly women laden with sins, led away with various lusts, ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth."

We notice in verse seven that these people are ever learning, but never able to come to, or arrive at, the truth. With this thought in mind, I would like to share with you a footnote from my Bible regarding this word 'apostasy.' It states: "Apostasy, 'falling away' is the act of professed Christians who deliberately reject revealed truth as to (1) the Deity of Jesus Christ, and (2) redemption through His atoning and redeeming sacrifice (1 Jn 4:1-3; Phil 3:18; 2 Pet 2: 1)."

Apostasy differs, therefore, from error concerning truth, which may be the result of ignorance (Acts 19: 16), or heresy, which may be due to the snare of Satan (2 Tim. 2:25-26), both of which may exist with true faith. The apostate is perfectly described in 4:3-4. Apostates depart from the faith, but not from the outward profession of Christianity (3:5).

As we continue to move ever more deeply into this time of apostasy, deception, and perilous days, may the Lord Jesus Christ help us to remain faithful servants, walking in the light and truth of God's Word "Till we come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ; ... but, speaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, who is the head, even Christ." (Eph. 4:13, 15).

The Seventh Commandment Ted R. Weiland

"Thou Shalt Not Commit Adultery" (Ex. 20: 14) MARITAL INTIMACY

This article and the ones to follow are devoted to the sexual intimacy that Yahweh designed for a man and a woman, joined together in holy matrimony, to experience and enjoy. Adam referred to this aspect of a husband and wife's physical relationship after Yahweh had provided Eve as his helpmeet:

"Adam said, This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man. Therefore shall a man leave [loosen, permit] his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh." (Gen 2:23-24) This 'one flesh' relationship between a husband and wife is also how Yahweh designed procreation to be accomplished.

Sexual intercourse is one of the most intimate and beautiful aspects shared in by two individuals when it is approached and experienced as Yahweh intends it. However, when it is perverted or adulterated, it becomes one of the most debased, obscene and repugnant acts participated in by mankind. This should surprise no one because when man turns away from Yahweh's created order, man makes what is beautiful ugly, what is wholesome obscene and what is lovely vulgar. In short, he makes what is good evil, what is light dark and what is sweet bitter - Isaiah 5:20.

Without Yahweh and His Laws in his life, unregenerate man is capable of inventing and participating in the vilest behaviour, while at the same time attempting to justify his involvement in these activities. The Seventh Commandment is the antithesis of man's decadent conduct in this area of life, and it will bring Yahweh's condemnation upon anyone who does not repent of the sin of adultery.

The Seventh Commandment is found twice in the Old Testament and seven times in the New Testament: Exodus 20:14, Deuteronomy 5:18, Matthew 5:27, 19:18, Mark 10:19, Luke 18:20, Romans 13:9, James 2:11. The Seventh Commandment is also expressed in Hebrews 13:4: "Let marriage be held in honour among all, and let the marriage bed be undefiled; for fornicators and adulterers God will judge."

Hebrews 13:4, in the New American Standard Version, is fairly close to how the translators of The Bible in basic English rendered Exodus 20:14: "Do not be false to the married relation."

ADULTERY/ADULTERATION

Sexual relations with someone other than a person's husband or wife is adultery; but biblical adultery has a broader application than this limited understanding. In other words, sexual relations with someone other than your married spouse is adultery; but adultery is not simply sexual relations with someone other than your spouse. This broader understanding of the Seventh Commandment also pertains to miscegenation or interracial relationships. Miscegenation is adultery; however, adultery is not simply miscegenation.

The word 'adultery' is derived from the word 'adulterate.' Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary (1975) defines 'adulterate': ... to corrupt, debase, or make impure by the addition of a foreign or inferior substance ... spurious.

Both marriage infidelity and miscegenation satisfy this definition of adultery. Furthermore, sodomy, bestiality, incest and other spurious sexual relations also corrupt, debase and make impure by the addition of a foreign or an inferior substance. They are all counterfeit sexual relations that defile the marriage bed. In other words, adultery is not limited to just one act; it describes any sexual offense.

MOICHOS AND PORNOS

Adultery is any act that defiles the marriage bed including sexual impropriety, as defined by the Bible, which occurs prior to marriage. Hebrews 13:4, which is probably the single best commentary on the Seventh Commandment, associates not only 'moichos,' the Greek word translated 'adulterers,' with defiling the marriage bed, but it also associates ' pornos,' the Greek word translated 'whoremongers' or 'fornicators,' with defiling the marriage bed.

'Pornos,' which is a form of 'porneia,' from which our English word 'pornography' is derived, is usually translated as 'fornication' in the New Testament. 'Pornos' or 'porneia' are also more inclusive words than most Christians have realized. Fornication is usually portrayed as simply sexual misconduct participated in by an unmarried couple. This is one form of fornication. However, 'porneia' or fornication is not limited to just premarital sexual improprieties.

For example, incest is described as 'porneia' in 1 Corinthians 5:1, "It is reported commonly that there is fornication among you [the Corinthian church], and such fornication as is not so much as named among the Gentiles, that one should have his father's wife."

Harlotry or prostitution is also defined by the word 'porneia' in 1 Cor. 6:13-18, "... the body is not for fornication, but for the Lord; and the Lord for the body ... Know ye not that your bodies are the members of Christ? Shall I then take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid. What? Know ye not that he which is joined to an harlot is one body [with the harlot]? ... Flee fornication. Every sin that a man doeth is without the body; but he that committeth fornication sinneth against his own body."

Forbidden lineage and/or interracial relationships are likewise associated with the Greek word ' pornos ' in Hebrews 12:15-16, "Looking diligently lest any man fail of the grace of God ... lest there be any fornicator ... as Esau [who took two wives from the forbidden lineage of the Canaanites], who for one morsel of meat sold his birthright."

Sodomy or homosexuality is defined by the Greek word 'ekporneuo' in Jude 1:7, "... as [did] Sodom and Gomorrah ... giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange flesh [women with women and men with men - Romans 1:26-27], are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire ..."

'Ekporneuo' is a combination of two words including 'porneuo,' from which 'porneia' is derived, and it is defined by James Strong as 'to be utterly unchaste.'

These four acts of immorality - incest, harlotry, forbidden lineage and/or interracial relationships, and homosexuality - are identified in the New Testament as instances of 'porneia' or fornication, which is according to the author of Hebrews defiles the marriage bed. This defilement is not limited to sexual misconduct committed after the wedding. Sexual sins committed PRIOR to the wedding also defile the marriage bed because Yahweh's design for sexual intimacy is exclusive to the marital relationship between husbands and wives.

Although not specified as 'porneia' in the New Testament, there are other sexual perversions, for example bestiality, that also constitute 'porneia' or fornication or that can also be placed under the broader heading of adultery. Webster's American Dictionary of the English Language (1828) corroborates this broader definition or understanding of the word 'adultery':

1. Violation of the marriage bed; a crime, or a civil injury, which introduces, or may introduce, into a family, a spurious offspring. In common usage, adultery means the unfaithfulness of any married person to the marriage bed ...

2. In a scriptural sense, all manner of lewdness or unchastity, as in the seventh commandment.

LEVITICUS 18

The Seventh Commandment is found only twice in the Old Testament. However, most commentaries and books devoted to the Ten Commandments include Leviticus 18:20 as another instance where the Seventh Commandment is cited in the Old Testament: "... thou shalt not lie carnally with thy neighbor's wife, to defile thyself with her."

With the limited definition that most Christians assign to "Thou shalt not commit adultery," it is immediately apparent why most Christians think that this verse is another Old Testament instance of the Seventh Commandment. However, Lev. 18:20 is not a reiteration of the Seventh Commandment, but instead it is one of the statutes that falls under or helps to explain the Seventh Commandment. Most of the other Seventh Commandment statutes are likewise listed in Leviticus 18. This is one instance when the Bible has the majority of a commandment's statutes listed in the same location. The next installment of this series will begin an expository study of Lev. 18:1-23 in which some of the other Seventh Commandment statutes that are found therein will be examined.

Suffice it to say at this point, that adultery is any sexual impropriety, committed before or after the wedding, that defiles the marriage bed or that is false to the marriage relation..

POLYGAMY

Again there has been the point raised about polygamy, in order to help build up the numbers of white people. This is not the answer (at this time). There have been many who have had multiple children with multiple wives, e.g. Clint Eastwood (I think it was 7 children with 6 wives), and Rod Stewart with similar numbers (admittedly, these are serial rather than concurrent).

What is needed is for white people to be committed to each other, and to just have a large family. And you can do that with one wife. I should know - we have 14. So if all those who are supposedly committed to the survival of the white race do likewise, then the numbers will increase. The idea of polygamy is just a cop-out, although probably a bit more honourable than Eastwood and Stewart.

However, not only are many more children required - their education is of greater importance. Better is one who is educated enough to understand the situation, one who trusts and believes in the God of his forefathers, one who commits himself to walk in Godly ways and perpetuate not only the race, but the message of the covenant as well; than 200 who will be absorbed into the Babylonian ways of the world, and turn their back, not only on their people, but on their God as well.

So, if you have the children - home-school them in the ways of the Lord, to walk in His ways and follow His Law according to the covenant made with our forefathers. Are your children perpetuating the covenant and the message as well as the race?

And, let me raise again, one of the main requirements of being able to do so, is to get together in church communities where people can strengthen each other and support each other because there is strength in numbers, and in regular fellowship! Those who are isolating themselves from a community situation will reap the results of that also. If not in their children then in their grandchildren, who will be absorbed back into Babylonian society and the weak Judeo-Christian churches (at best) the standards of both continuing to decline. What is required from all is commitment and dedication, steadfastness and trust in God who makes it possible.

Remember when our forefathers went down into Egypt, they did not scatter across the country. They remained confined to the land of Goshen, and married among themselves (first cousins was common). That is how they could come out in the Exodus as a largely homogenous community. Even though similar economics exist today (more bricks with less straw), how many of our people today would follow a Moses out of today's society to head for the wilderness, if a Moses was to show up? You work that one out!

Another month gone by and already we are hearing talk of 'Christmas shopping' so the end of this year already looms closer. Is it just me, or is everybody finding that time seems accelerated? One just doesn't seem to have the time that we used to have for doing things.

We are still waiting for the repair to be completed to our main printer, and so we still are limited to one colour per page, and no coloured boxes. One of the main reasons for having the coloured boxes, is to make sure the colour drums get run every month, in order to stop the ink from aging and going off. I know some have trouble reading the colour pages, but I have to try and run the colour drums on something. I will try and keep it to a minimum until the repairs are completed.

Thank you again for the letters, and requests for material, as well as some very favourable comments, re: the last Messenger. Thank you for your financial assistance which is needed and much appreciated.

May our Heavenly Father, the God of our forefathers, bless and keep you and give you His protection,
