"Blessed be the LORD God of Israel; For He hath visited and redeemed His people, And hath raised up an horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David; as he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began; That we should be saved from our enemies and from the hand of all that hate us; to perform the mercy promised to our fathers and to remember his holy covenant; The oath which he swore to our father Abraham, That he would grant unto us, that we being delivered out of the hand of our enemies might serve him without fear, in holiness and righteousness before him, all the days of our lives." ### JUDGING XMAS

- by Pastor Mark Downey -

In case you didn't notice, I spelled Christmas X-m-a-s, because that's the way pagans spell it. They don't believe Jesus Christ is in their celebration and they would be correct. Christ is not IN Christmas any more than the Federal Reserve is in the federal government. If you corner an honest Christian, they will admit that the Bible does not sanction Christmas and that it does indeed have pagan origins ... but, but, but... Therefore, judging this Christ-less celebration with Christ arbitrarily interposed in the name of the so-called holy day or holiday is justified and deserving of adjudication, even though some Christians think that it's Christian. Let's keep it simple: if a pagan god is the reason for the season, would this not be having another god before the Almighty? A violation of the First Commandment? "Thou shalt have no other gods before Me" Exodus 20:3. In other words, even if the word "Christ" is used, it is not the same Jesus, the Messiah we worship. It is a vicarious identity that has no relationship to Christianity.

We can thank Constantine for the mix-up, who instituted the Edict of Toleration in 313AD declaring the equality of all religions (the original universalism), including Christianity, which had been harshly persecuted for three hundred years previously. This poses an interesting quandary for the average Christian: do you want more persecution or are you willing to merge with pagan religions? The floggings will continue until morale improves. This political expediency is the fly in the ointment that has been with us for over a thousand years. Does longevity of tolerance then prove righteousness or the sanction to insinuate something new that the Bible never mentioned? The Pharisees accused Jesus of casting out demons by Beelzebub, but we know that the Lord did it through the power of God. By the same token, Jesus is accused of being the pagan god in a universalist (catholic) mass. I know some of our Christian Identity folks come from a Catholic background, but our movement does not have a mass, other than what is callously passed off as Christmas.

How do we judge things? We judge things exactly as God's Law prescribes judgment. Some may charge legalism here, but legalities should not be confused with what is lawful. Can the average Christian agree that only God is our Lawgiver? Does one dare to stand before God and accuse Him of being legalistic? We are told that 'unalienable rights' come from God, but throughout history it is government that substitutes itself for God and passes laws that are not the same as God's Law. People have been sold the idea that privileges, social conduct, selfishness, even slander and lies are 'rights.' They think they shouldn't have to suffer any consequences for their actions because it's their right to say as long as it's not against the law. Notice I did not say as long as it's not against God. Is it then fair to say that the real legalism here is wrangling a 'right' out of Christmas? The problem with this way of thinking is that it isn't how 'rights' work, especially when it comes to dealing with a philosophy of mongrelization. If Christian Identity were to exercise our rights at the expense of alien's given their rights also, we would soon have a shooting war. Why? Because we (CI) are forbidden to mix with other gods and religions, regardless of what the secular government decrees, which is a universal freedom to practice Christmas however you wish. It doesn't hinder our occupation government. Let's look at it another way. Is Christmas going to be celebrated in the Kingdom of Heaven? I honestly don't think so. Should we be living our lives today as if we were already living in the Kingdom of God? I don't see how any believer could say no.

This message is not intended for saber rattling, but "The Word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discernor of the thoughts and intents of the heart" (Hebrews 4:12) and "Moses said unto the judges of Israel, Slay every one his men that were joined unto Baal-peor" (Numbers 25:5). These were White people who were committing the whoredoms of mongrelization with strangers and their strange gods and judged severely by the "fierce anger" of God.. There's no way I can minimize the gravity of their sin and their subsequent judgment. In our recent study of Baal worship, our ancestors thought their religion was normal and that they had the right God, but they were wrong. Is identity theft a form of stealing? Yes, of course it is, and Bob can't go around calling himself Fred because that would be bearing false witness. Well, so far the Law has judged Christmas with three violations: 1. The First Commandment, 2. Stealing and, 3. Lying. But adults will say that Christmas is really for children and giving them presents to see their happy faces in the morning under the decorated tree. When I was a boy, I didn't want socks or sweaters; I wanted a Schwinn bicycle and toys like other kids who had parents with money. Violation four: Thou shalt not covet. Do you think I was just an atypical child-sinner or is this behaviour nurtured by a crooked and perverse generation?

This message is not intended to be holier-than-thou, but it is asking a lot of questions. Jesus asked a lot of questions in order to distill the importance of an issue. Christmas is so ingrained in our psyche, that very few dare to peel back the layers of transgression that will reveal the spirit of antichrist. If we are to be a "holy nation" (1 Peter 2:9) and the word holy means pure, the opposite of being profane i.e. heathenish and wicked, then wouldn't the toleration of Constantine's edict and its modern equivalent be the same as race mixing? I heard someone say, "Any holiday with Christ in the title can't be all bad." If that is the logic, then the holiday on January 16th with Martin Luther in the title can't be all bad. And where is December 25th in the Bible again? Some companies are now instructing their employees that they cannot say, "Merry Christmas," because it might hurt the little feelings of some Jews, and that "Happy holidays" is the politically correct salutation, which deserves a "Happy Holocaust." But, are the merry men of messianic mistletoes willing to lose their jobs over the utterance of a convoluted "Merry Christmas"?

Judgment in the Bible is associated with fire. The downfall of Mystery Babylon is described thusly, "For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies..... Therefore shall her plagues come in one day, death, and mourning, and famine; and she shall be utterly burned with fire; for strong is the Lord God who judgeth her" (Rev. 18:3, 8.) Doesn't this sound like the drunken revelry and sexual promiscuity, the creed of gluttony of a happy holiday? The Lord said, "If you love Me, keep My commandments" (John 14:15). And, "He that loveth not his brother abideth in death" (1 John 3:14). The sentiment here is that people remain dead in their sins to the world and if they call themselves "Christian" they've really never been converted to the spiritual life of the Christ. These are the kind of brethren who call us scrooge or legalistic or just a party pooper raining on their Xmas parade.. Jesus said, "For whosoever shall do the will of My Father which is in heaven, the same is My brother" (Matthew 12:50). This begs the question: Do we love those who don't do the will of the Father and drag the nation down the road to judgment? Do we insist that they keep the commandments so that as a race we are not alienated from God?

Philippians 2:15 is telling us what kind of people God expects us to be, but many translations lose the racial import. The KJV says that we may be "blameless and harmless;" the Ferrar Fenton says, "Blameless and pure, beautiful children of God, in the midst of a deformed, degenerate race—among whom you will shine like bright lights to the whole world." William Finck in his translation settles this word "harmless" (as rendered in the KJV) to be "with unmixed blood." The Greek word akeraios ( ak-er'-ah-yos; #185) has a connotation of being racially unmixed and figuratively speaking means innocent or harmless. And this ideal White Christian is "In the midst of a race crooked and perverted—among whom you appear as luminaries." The average American spends up to $64 a year on Christmas lights in a world wide mongrelised holiday and yet it's the darkest day of the year. This message is a "Light [that] shineth in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not" (John 1:5;). Philippians 2:21, in the Ferrar Fenton, "Because they all seek their own business, not that of Jesus the Christ." There is no Jesus, no Messiah, no Anointed of God in Christmas. The 'X' in Xmas blots out the name of our Kinsman Redeemer. The intended goal is to give the Judeo-Christian one day of the year for Jesus Christ, which isn't the real Jesus Christ, in contradistinction to the other 364 days of the year; a pretty neat shell game for religious hustlers.

Jews have the Talmudic vision to boil the frog ever so slowly in a conspiracy lasting hundreds of years. Christmas is Jewish and the Judeo-Christian frogs were basking in the comfort zone of perfectly warmed waters. They even wrote songs for us to sing and a greeting card and decorations industry to make everything pretty. In the last decade or so, the Jewish Christmas peddlers have shifted gears and turned the heat up so that the holy day becomes more generic. Christian symbolism is slowly removed and the real motive becomes apparent: the frog is boiled to death. Had the frog never jumped into the saucepan, do you think we would have the same situation we have today? But the thinking goes that "Oh well, once we're in the water, there's no getting out and we should just make the best of it." This is the psychology of defeat and the Jew is banking on you not jumping out before the hot bubbling cauldron engulfs your frantic attempts to get out.

A short history lesson from Alexander Hislop's classic book The Two Babylons (#907 @ $45.00) reveals that Christmas goes back further than Constantine. Indeed, the Winter solstice was and is the epitome of pagan celebration having its roots in Babylon during the reign and deification of Nimrod, who Hislop claims was a negro. He writes, "Babylon was, at that time, the center of the civilized world; and thus paganism, corrupting the divine symbol as it ever has done, had opportunities of sending forth its debased counterfeit of the truth to all the ends of the earth, through the Mysteries that were affiliated with the great central system in Babylon." It is no big surprise then that permutations of pagan traditions were adopted by Anglo-Saxons in later times. But, let's make an analogy in the extreme and say that it was the literal personified "Satan" whose birthday was December 25th and later became Christianized. Would it then make any difference to a Christian who regarded Christmas as something legitimate? Can the unpardonable sin become Christianized? Can the abomination of desolation be Christianized? Can the mixing of a false Christ and Jesus the Christ be Christianized?

This powerful presentation traces the biblical roots of child sacrifice and then delves into the social, political and cultural fall-out that this sin against God and crime against humanity has produced in our beleaguered society. It not only references abortion's specific target, the sacred matrix where human beings are formed in the womb in the image of God, but also implies the existence of a conspiracy, a matrix of seemingly disparate forces that are driving this holocaust.

It is bad enough that Churchianity celebrates the birth of a swarthy coloured Babylonian on December 25th; and then chastises some of us in Christian Identity who celebrate the life and resurrection of a White Saviour every day of the year. "Therefore if united we have become in the likeness of His death, then also shall we be of His resurrection" Romans 6:5. I can't find any passage that would emulate the birth of baby Jesus as compared to the significance of His life, death and resurrection. Perhaps some baby Christians are still sucklings on the milk of Babylon and have never matured in Christ to feed on the milk of the Word to know that Christmas is anathema to Christianity. There's no record of Jesus or Christians after Him celebrating His birthday for 300 years, so why should we?

There are many Christians with good intentions about Christmas, but have a bad understanding of the intent of God's Law. White people more than any other race, have a unique love-hate relationship with their own kind and especially with their immediate families. This struggle is exacerbated from alien elements that divide and conquer the nuclear family. I personally have had an internal conflict over Christmas with family for many years, and I know that others have had the same problem. About 10 years ago I gave up on trying to convince friends and family that Christmas was wrong. But, the last couple of years I've gotten my second wind. The only thing that compelled me to sit down and eat a Christmas dinner with my parents was the command to, "Honor thy father and thy mother." It was not just a reluctant obedience to the letter of the Law, but a spirit of love for my late mom and dad, in spite of my own sense of hypocrisy. I felt guilt for acquiescing to Christmas in this way, because the New Covenant has the Law written in my heart and mind. I might add that 20 years prior, I had a sit down Bible study with my parents, which I thought was going well, but after 2 hours, my father decreed that politics and religion would never be discussed under his roof again. I've heard from other Christian Identity folks that have it far worse, where brothers and sisters, aunts and uncles, cousins, bring a mamzer into the congregation of the family for the holiday. "What communion hath light with darkness" is not referring to light and dark turkey meat at the dinner table. Life is not always an opportunity to witness the Word, but a challenge to our testimony of walking in the Word. I guess the cliché example would be teaching morality in a brothel. We have a lot of admonitions to balance. "Abstain from all appearance of evil" 1 Thess. 5:22. And, "If thou warn the wicked, and he turn not from his wickedness... he shall die in his iniquity; but thou hast delivered thy soul" Ezek. 3:19. We are forced to judge things! It's imperative that we engage in judging Xmas because of the appearance of wickedness. It makes a guest appearance every year.

It is with sadness and pity that a natural alienation occurs with the alien character of Christmas, between kith and kin, for merely professing the truth of Christ. If we could only muster the diplomacy of a perfect ambassador of Jesus Christ to articulate this terrible day of Babylon, where the Lord implores His people to "Come out of her ...

that ye receive not of her plagues" Rev. 18:4. Lot was told to leave town and not look back (Gen. 19:17), not to reason with those who were about to be destroyed. Matthew 10:35-36 predicts trouble with our relatives as Jesus declares, "I am come to set a man at variance [division] against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law, And a man's enemies will be of his own household." What traditions do you suppose could possibly precipitate such an inglorious family feud? This is quite a remarkable statement for the families who heard these sayings of Jesus as His predictions took place shortly after their final rejection of Jesus and His offer of Salvation. There is an urgency that must be tempered with patience to plant the seeds of a real and constant language of faith and love. Nothing could be worse than the condemnation of divine judgment for following the traditions of man, which run the expanse of time. Man does not have the right to say anything he wants. He can try to pick a fight with God. He can say, "Do what thou wilt shall be the whole of the law." But there is a cause and effect to everything: the wages of sin is death and Christmas is a deathtrap. Just like a mousetrap with a little bit of cheese on it waiting for the mouse to take a nibble.

It seems that every year Christmas deteriorates in ratio to the ungodliness and lawlessness throughout our land. It's because Israel dumped the system of judges a long time ago and wanted to be like the other countries with really cool kings. But, it quickly devolved into various systems of tyranny. Did you hear about the Xmas shoppers and a stampede for Nike's new 'Air Jordan' shoes? People trampled and fighting: police using pepper spray. This is what Xmas has become in the United States of Kenya. How long do we go? Most people don't think of Christmas as a government sanctioned national holiday, a day of rest, but it is. But most Christians should know that only God can declare a Sabbath, a day of rest. We have the option at any time to pronounce 'no king but Jesus' and return to the Laws of God to govern our land, but, but, but..... The Law still judges, in spite of the browning of our land. It's not dead, it's just not used. "Let every soul be subject unto the higher authorities. For there is no authority except from God; those authorities that exist are ordained by God. Whosoever therefore resists the authority is opposed to the appointed of God, and those in opposition will receive judgment." We know that Romans 13 has been thoroughly subverted to serve the tyrant in both church and state. That's why Christmas was practiced in the old Soviet Union i.e. Jewish communism under the auspices of a KGB-controlled "Orthodox Church."

We know that the Jews love to play their game of Marxist Dialectics and very few of our people know that they're being scammed. First the Jew sets up and promotes the oxymoron of a pagan Christmas, the thesis; then he sets up a myriad of other holidays that, are in competition with Christmas, the antithesis; the Jew then enforces man-made laws with the help of the ACLU to remove Christmas from certain venues and thereby infuriating Christians to love the pagan Christmas with even more passion, the synthesis. It is contrived from the beginning of Black Friday to the end of the Rose Bowl. It's like George Bush all over again: "Fool me once, shame on... shame on you.... Fool me ... you can't get fooled again." It's just nuts, isn't it?

Anybody who tries to incorporate the Christian ideal, whose manifestation would be for the blessing of his kindred, must first find teachers and students who are committed to the ideal until the final objective is achieved. Ask yourself: who are the pied pipers of Christmas and what else do they teach? The Christian ideal is to judge everything that hinders God's Kingdom. But the aspirations for God's blessings are always met with the pervasive spirit of the status quo, using worn out excuses from the dead past to mislead and misinform our people. Therefore, any counter-measures to Christian principles, in an attempt to revitalize pagan principles, are the vainglory of delusion. God only allows a silly reason for a season. The foolishness of Christmas will not last forever as we see it swirling down the Jewish toilet, as its new all-inclusive holiday mutation is likewise flushed into oblivion.

Warnings must go out to those marginal Christians who are peddling pagan folklore inadvertently and will never advance the Kingdom of God; non-Christians do even less to enhance the possibility for White advancement. Pagans bear no visible fruit in society today other than one more self-serving subculture of human fungus. This can be no more evident than a movement with a Big Tent philosophy in which only a very small percentage commit to the organization and its ideology. The majority are just along for the ride with the intent of serving and helping themselves.

The Christian Identity imperative has a much higher calling and purpose, which sacrifices 'self' to the Cross of Christ. Our focus in everything is to the glory of God and with that kind of vision we will see the victory over our enemies. If Christian Identity is a movement of God, it will not be possible for anyone to promulgate their old secular ideas or religious leaven into the pristine message of who we are and who the Jews are not. Try as they may to drag their denominational baggage, including Xmas, into our movement, we will accept no substitutes for the truth; and for that commitment by our members, our primary mission remains intact and stronger than ever, in spite of doctrinal conflicts. But, I believe we could be even stronger if we go on the offensive and bury the Xmas myth in unison. After all, what has Xmas done to help save White civilization?

In the perfidy of Jewish self-interest to treat the secular comedians of Xmas with respect and latitude, while at the same time taking gratuitous swipes at the tenets of Christianity. If the Judeo-Christian could only realize that the Jew attacks Christ and Christians 24/7 every day of the year, and that Jews would be in real trouble if the masses of Christendom were to boycott the monstrosity of Christmas altogether. Repudiate and repent of the holiday-beast 666. But they will do nothing until and unless they understand that Jews are antichrists and not Israelites. We are persecuted by the Jew, because we are feared. We are a threat to the merchants of Babylon. They don't care about the mythological gods of the Vikings or Norse. The Jew cannot tolerate a bigoted Christian and a Christian bigot cannot tolerate a Jew. The Jew can control just about any Joe Six-pack, but he has no control whatsoever against the White man who puts on the whole armor of God.

Xmas is a pacification program to spiritually disarm us, so that our attention is diverted from the necessity of fighting together in a common cause against a common enemy. I would reject any leadership among us that says we've got to stick together and then promotes the proverbial Christmas party. How in the heck can you bring down the Baals if you're partying? Do you really think the Lord will forgive them, for they know what they do? Judgment is coming. Are you on the side of Christmas or Jesus Christ?

One feels embarrassment when noticing the avatars of runes and meaningless pagan symbols, and an undefined implication of volkish things of a long forgotten past, reinvented for the consumption of those who can't get it into their heads that Christianity is not Jewish; but they have this insatiable religious yearning for the truth about our race. They subsequently fall into the trap of Yuletide cheer borrowed from the Mystery Religions of Babylon and a Negro god. We can have no hope of achieving, let alone maintaining a unity in Christ, if we judge things according to what we think is right, when God has already judged things for us. This doesn't mean we can't think for ourselves; it means our thinking is in league with Judaism and secular humanism. Every White person has the gift wrapped present to have the mind of Christ (1 Cor. 2:16).

The problem is a glamorized reinterpretation of the White race and our sinful pagan past, which can never be adopted into a modern wholesale cultural state of neopaganism or be the basis of a militant theocratic movement. Christian Identity cannot afford to compromise our children's future with milquetoast toleration of ancient traditions. Christmas stands in our way. It will either crush our racial integrity or we will crush its insidious universalism. How can we be a holy people, whom the Lord has chosen to be a special people above all the races that are upon the earth (Deut 7:6), if we choose not to be holy and prefer to be equal with all the other races and religions? The strange gods have contaminated White Christian culture, because Xmas has been a party to the traditions of the elders (The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion, #464 @ $21.85 or small #463 @ $6.85), the Masonic 'brotherhood of man' and the ill begotten Hinduism of "Peace on earth, and good will towards all races and religions."

If churchianity is so hot and bothered (think frog in saucepan) about Obama notifying the official White House [named not for its colour, or the race who built it, but rather for the name of its designer] Christmas ball ornament artist not to paint anything religious on the balls this year, because 'change you can count on' is changing 'Christmas tree' to 'Holiday tree' and likewise the governor of Rhode Island is doing the same thing; if White Nationalists are so steamed about a giant Menorah being put in place (with a giant construction crane and a bucket full of rabbis lighting the candles .... really!) in front of the White House, while at the same time, less than life-size Nativity scenes with plastic figurines in a manger (probably made in China) are deemed illegal and removed from public places (just like the Ten Commandments), then I ask you: why don't they do something about it? Why don't they bring down the Baals? I'll tell you why. It's because they obey the ancient decree of the Buddhist king Asoka, "One shall not condemn another religion or race by word or deed." They might be arrested for vandalism. They might be charged with a hate crime. Or they might be condemned by God for whoring after strange gods. I had to laugh about a news report that said people were getting sick from a mold growing naturally on Christmas trees, from a spore that triggers a wide range of health complaints. Lord only knows how unnatural a Christmas tree farm is and all the chemicals they use, former rabbi Brother Nathaniel, a clownish jew who thinks it's Halloween and dresses up in an Eastern Orthodox priest costume, both of whom get regular internet exposure on the Jeff Rense website (who also is jewish), have written almost identical articles on Christmas: 'The Jewish War on Christmas' and 'The Jews Who Stole Christmas' respectively. The jews are not at war with Christmas as Duke contends, but rather thrives on its Talmudic obsession to destroy Christianity. What better way to do that than to plant the tares of pagan holidays with the wheat of God's Sabbaths? Duke calls the disparity between the legality of Christian and jewish decorations on public properties a "hypocrisy [that] reveals the real rulers of America." However, that is not how the neurotic mind of a jew works. They consider themselves the masters of the double-mind as an asset in their conspiracy to work the wonders of Marxist Dialectics. Their lack of moral compunction goes way beyond mere hypocrisy. It is the oriental art of war found in Sun Tzu that is predicated on the most elusive of deceptions. The motto of the Mossad is 'By way of deception, we shall wage war.' He should have titled it 'The Christian Deception of Jews.' I hate the term 'Jewish Supremacism' that Duke uses, because the superiority is a virtue which only God can give to people. Hanukkah and the Menorah are not celebrations of jewish supremacy from other people per se as Duke asserts. No, it's a flamboyant and repugnant symbol of jews, that God is using to show the eternal conflict between Jacob-Israel and Esau-Edom. I suppose Duke would display a modicum of righteous indignation over the jewish mayor of nazareth for banning Christmas trees. But so what? Jews spit on Christians in Israel-LIE year round. It's the spittle of hate within the jewish soul that far outflanks any silly notion that there's a war over a tree.

It's uncanny how former Klan leader David Duke and

Brother Nathaniel does a wonderful job of jewish disinformation and deception in his pitch at being a pretend Christian. But, as most Christian Identity adherents know, no jew can ever be a Christian. The jews aren't a "Grinch" which he alludes to. They are more like the proverbial parasite that feeds on a putrefying body; the body of Christ that has become apostate. When a member of our body turns gangrene, it has to be amputated; dead branches need to be pruned. Christmas is the cancer on our body politic.

There is no greater cultural transgression in the history of our race against the God of Israel than the false Christology of Christmas. It mocks God and dares Him to execute His judgments. True or false? "If a man abide not in Me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned" John 15:6. It's true and yet those who call themselves believers incredibly justify the dead fruits of Christmas with the fruits of the Holy Spirit. What blasphemy! Jesus Christ said, "I am the True Vine, and ... the branch is not able to bear fruit by itself unless it should abide on the vine" John 15:1, 4. Xmas is more like the vine of poison ivy. The spirit of Christmas is clearly a rejection of Jesus Christ no matter how many tearjerker movies they make on the Hallmark channel.

What has been stolen, Rabbi Nathaniel, is the title of "Christ." And the universalists did that with clever word-smithing. Christmas has always been a mutation, a deviant aberration and a fraud. If you know the truth, that nothing has been stolen or taken from the pagans, but rather something that has been foisted upon us and given to us on a silver platter that masquerades as Christian. It's Halloween in December. The truth can make us free from any obligatory demands of the pagan gods or family pressures with a guilt-free conscientious objection and rejection of December 25th having any significance whatsoever. It would be the worst day to proselytize the celebrants who love this so-called holy day, because it is the climax of their preconditioned programming. Cognitive dissonance would be at its highest levels. We could go down the street to the mega-church and do a Fred Phelps protest with signs saying 'God hates Christmas.' But here's a kick in the pants: I've heard that some churches are closing their doors today (25-Dec-2011) so that people can be with their families. I don't think that's what "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy [set apart]" (Exod. 20:8) means ....

do you? Oh yeah, it's a holy day, a holiday. But what is being hallowed for God's sake?

I think the Puritans had it right among the 13 colonies to reject Christmas and made it illegal from 1659 to 1681. It was repealed under pressure from English political authorities even though the common sentiment was against it. In 1701, Puritans broke windows (vandalism) at the King's Chapel in Boston, protesting the Anglican Christmas service. Noted Puritan minister Cotton Mather warned his congregation against secular celebrations of the holiday in his Christmas day sermon of 1712: "Can you in your conscience think that our Holy Saviour is honoured by Mad Mirth, by long eating, by hard drinking, by lewd gaming, by rude revelling? ... If you will yet go on and do Such Things, I forewarn you That the Burning Wrath of God will break forth among you." Even after the founding of the United States, no state recognized Christmas as a legal holiday. It wasn't until 1870, after 620,000 White men died from a jew manipulated civil war, the War of Northern Aggression, that an alcoholic President Grant declared Christmas a national holiday. God had nothing to do with it.

God wants us to be merry, but I don't think he wants us to say, "Merry Christmas." Not when you consider the sordid details and evil machinations behind the scenes to make it happen. God wants us to rejoice. "When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice; but when the wicked beareth rule, the people mourn." Prov. 29:2. America's first homosexual president and Jewish agent for the Rothschild's, Abraham Lincoln, suspended the laws of the United States and instituted Martial Law Rule in its place. It has never been rescinded. Since that time, America has been ruled by tyrants and the matrix of Christmas has been a controlled government operation. As time rolled on, the American people i.e. White Christians, would be re-educated in government schools and they would eventually forget their Christian heritage, and would lose the dignity of White men who know they are the most superior creations of a loving God. They would shrink in their stature, the head would become the tail, and they would think they deserve only those privileges bestowed on tax slaves by their schizophrenic masters of usury and a law of the jungle. I can't think of one righteous man in office and so we have no business rejoicing in a prefabricated holiday of the antichrist. The state approved church will twist any truth that gives you the notion that you have a right to judge anything. The Grinch hasn't stolen Christmas, it has stolen our identity. Without knowing who we are, we have no idea of the authority that God, not government, has given to us to execute His Laws. Had the Puritans executed a few Baal priests of Christmas, blasphemers of the Holy Spirit accusing Jesus of paganism, much like Elijah dispatched the priests of Baal, we wouldn't be in the universalist paradise of Mystery Babylon. But maybe this apostasy was always in God's plan to bring forth the final judgment, a final solution to their Jewish menace, the Jewish-catholic-pagan Xmas. Our people have been conned into worshipping what they feel, not what they know or should have understanding of. "Shall I not punish these people? saith the Lord; shall I not avenge Myself on a nation such as this? A shameful and horrible thing is committed in the land. The prophets prophesy falsely, and the priests rule on their own authority, and My people love to have it so; and what will you do when the end comes?" Jer. 5:29-31.

I believe the Kingdom Age is nearly upon us and much like in the days of Noah, the people are partying right up to the final moments of divine judgment and destruction for those who did not "Come out of her" and did not become overcomers of the world and loved their 'Merry Christmas' right up to the very end. If we understand the signs of the times and seasons in which we live, we will be able to see how prophecy is being fulfilled, without being fooled by the spirit of antichrist, and be able to plan our lives accordingly. It's not a time to head for the hills or go into hiding, but rather a time of preparation to evangelize the lost sheep of the house of Israel with the Gospel of Truth for judgment is coming and Christmas will be judged. How can it escape the damnation of hell?

We are first and foremost, the servants of Jesus the Christ, not servants of the church or governments or traditions. No man has the right to judge a servant of Jesus the Christ, but the Christian has a duty to discern what is of God. When Paul said, "One man esteems one day above another; another esteems every day alike. Like every man be fully persuaded in his own mind" (Romans 14:5), the context was the institution of Israel's Sabbaths as it applied to those Israelites in Judea and also the Israelites in dispersion (called gentiles) who were becoming new Christians. It could not possibly have had any application to Christmas, because it was non-existent to the apostolic church in the 1st century. The early Christians would have easily condemned such nonsense. Christmas would have been found guilty and blasphemous.

Jesus said to the Disciples who left everything to follow Him, "Truly I say to you that you who have followed Me in the regeneration, when the Son of Man shall sit on the throne of His glory, and you also shall sit upon twelve thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel. And everyone who gave up [their homes and family - paraphrase] ... for My name's sake ... shall inherit eternal life" Matthew 19:28-29. What do you suppose they'll be judging? by what standard? Mark 7:6-9 provides a clue, "But He said unto them; 'Well did Isaiah prophesy concerning your hypocrisy, as it is written that 'This people honours Me with their lips, but their hearts keep far from Me! And vainly do they worship Me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men! ... And He said to them, You skillfully sidestep God's Law in order to establish your own tradition.'" In this same chapter Jesus speaks about honouring your mother and father and as we relate that family relationship in regards to Christmas and how we reconcile the December deja vu of so many hypocrisies, I found comfort in verse 15, "There is nothing outside of man entering into him which is able to defile him, but the things which come out of him, those are they that defile him." Having an understanding of the Law and knowing the import of sin will cause us to seek the grace of God, preventing the vile thoughts and affections that work from our vain imagination and lusts of the heart. The Christmas spirit feeds from within and breeds contempt for spiritual purity just as much as the spirit of universalism has enmity towards racial integrity.

The Christmas spirit feeds from within and breeds contempt for spiritual purity just as much as the spirit of universalism has enmity towards racial integrity.

In the fourth century, the Church councils attempted to force all Christians to a uniform belief system on the grounds that there was but one universal church. This is the ideal, but because they redefined the Church to mean an organization rather than the body of Christ, they applied it in the wrong spirit and usurped the sovereignty of God and began to judge the servants of Jesus the Christ and the non-conformists were branded heretics who would be tortured and murdered. Paul taught his brethren to show love toward those who hold differing opinions or alternative interpretations of Scripture, because there were controversies about the food laws and feast days. The principle holds true on all matters that do not involve the exclusive nature of sanctification, justification and glorification as it pertains to the true Israel. Our unity is racial identity and knowing what to do with it per Scripture.

The body of Christ constitutes those who have faith. Apart from His resurrection, there is no resurrection for us either. You cannot say that about His birth, which has been turned into a carnival of sin. I cannot judge another servant of Christ, because it is the Law that judgeth. But I can judge Christmas as God would judge it. The First Chapter of Isaiah conveyed how God felt about such things. "How is the faithful city become a harlot! It was full of judgment; righteousness lodged in it; but now murderers. Thy silver [money] is become dross [fiat], thy wine [blessings] mixed with water [diluted]; Thy princes are rebellious [lawless legislatures], and company of thieves [corrupt corporations]; every one loveth gifts [Xmas presents], and followers after rewards [bribes]... And I will turn My hand upon you, and thoroughly purge away your dross ... And I will restore thy judges as at the first, and thy counsellors as at the beginning ... Zion shall be redeemed with judgment"

Isaiah 1:21-23, 25-27.

There is justice in God's plan for the ages and we can see it through God's perspective. His justice is inevitable and unavoidable for each of us as well as the adversaries of God. However, our most dangerous adversary, the one that will subject us to the wrath of God, the one that falls short of the glory of God, the one whose righteousness is as filthy rags, is not the outside agitators, but the sinner within. Before we can battle victoriously against the jew devils that are manifested in the corruptions of modern Babylon, we should pray for the courage of personal repentance, accept what we can't change in other people and wisdom to know one from the other.

AFGHANISTAN

(sent in by a reader, with no date or identification, FYI)

This morning's news brought more bad news from Afghanistan.

Before the censors get to this story it might help to understand what is going on there as it is an exact replica of what happened in the Soviet revolution in Russia. It is clearer if you have a map of Afghanistan handy, or you can Google Afghanistan.

The world's largest known reserves of on-shore oil are in the Kazakhstan, Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan and two other "Stans." These known reserves are far greater than all the Arab and Persian deposits, most of the territory was once under Soviet control. Because of the mountainous terrain throughout this region, Afghanistan offers the only practical route for an Oil pipeline into China. If you look at a map you will notice that Afghanistan is land locked, but has a very narrow long northern strip of territory reaching to the Chinese border.

It is through Afghanistan and along this corridor that the world's largest civil engineering Oil line project is nearing completion. Just inside the Chinese border the line runs into a 24,000 foot high mountain range, which has been tunnelled through to deliver what they call the "Asian Oil Supply Line." This line will supply China with its oil, which will deliver in one day what would take 5 supertankers to deliver in a week

Together with associated pumping stations and other ancillary structures, the estimates of its costs are in trillions, not billions or millions of dollars. When David Hicks stumbled across this project he presented a risk of disclosure about the Americans building this project, so he ended up in Guantanamo Bay Prison, (America's Gulag) on the charges you would be familiar with. (Religious ideas).

The Americans finance and support the Northern "Taliban" terrorist outfit, that keeps unwanted people away from the project, while the Southern "Taliban" insurgent terrorist outfit, by the same name, keeps our troops occupied and the world's attention away from the real unprecedented engineering feat in the North. This project, which the news told us last week, is to be guarded by an Afghanistan military unit who will be trained by NATO forces (in the meantime the arms, food, ammunition, etc. for the Taliban will be found laying about the countryside for them to continue their unorganized activities?)

Like all energy, he who controls it is King. In this case, as in the Russian Revolution, he who pays for it will be King. A King who controls energy with one hand and the supply of money with the other hand has power never seen on this earth before and he (they?) will remain nameless. This will bring China and other nations under the control of those who own and built this massive engineering structure.

The great Chunnel project, all the massive bridge and railway building in China, all added together did not cost what the Asian Pipeline is costing in dollars. But, like all revolutions, money is not a problem, only the silence about its source matters.

We can only guess when the world will be informed about this project, but it will be a lot later after intervening events can be woven into a plausible history that will never mention who financed it. The later history will be cleansed of all the conspiratorial material that already exists. So much of the existing information has reached us from Afghanistan people, the Chinese workers invalided out, defectors to the north into the Soviet Union and one or two western reporters. Not to mention what information our own soldiers are now forbidden to reveal.

In the sanitized new history of this affair, you will be able to have a "Ball" with all these eye-witness conspiratorial people, who like their previous Russian counterparts will be "murdered," leaving the officially paid historians without fear of contradiction. But don't worry, the lie is the safest haven in this world. Nobody will harass you there and you could even pick up the occupancy of a safe LNP political seat, as others have done and had no further financial worries.

In the meantime don't believe any of the above, research it yourself and I will be pleased again to be corrected. Today's "informants" are tomorrow's "Conspirators."

DEUTERONOMY 28

(from an appendix in The Two Creations by Gabriel, #423 @ $24.95)

To identify a true nation of Israel, we must have a Bible measuring rod. That "rod" is Deuteronomy 28. We know this to be the case because of God's statement in verses 45-46:

"Moreover all these curses shall come upon thee, and shall pursue thee, and overtake thee, till thou be destroyed; because thou hearkenedst not unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep His commandments and His statutes which He commanded thee: and they shall be upon thee for a sign and for a wonder, and upon thy seed forever."

We know that America, and the Western nations have received the curse of debt-usury money to fulfil vs 43 & 44; and how the Lord gives us bumbling leaders in vs 29 (Daniel 4:17). Now let's examine this chapter a little more, and see if we can identify more of these nations' plagues.

DEATH AND PESTILENCE

These plagues are covered in verses 21-22, 27, 35 and 59-60. The “botch of Egypt” in vs 27, is believed to be cancer. And who can deny that our current pestilence of AIDS (said to be on the rise again in Australia!) is the fulfillment of vs 21 and 22! If vs 35 isn't arthritis, I don't know the description of the disease.

FALLING BIRTH RATES AND ABORTION MILLS

This is covered in verses 18, and 62-63. Notice in vs 63, that the Lord will rejoice over you to destroy you, and to bring you to nought. It certainly doesn't sound like the God preached in today's churches, does it?

HUMANISM TAUGHT IN OUR SCHOOLS

This is promised in verses 32 and 41. I would be willing to bet (if I was a betting man) that you don't know that this is a curse from God; Right?

ALIENS (WITHIN AND WITHOUT)

The Bible is full of examples of how God uses the aliens to inflict his people when they are in disobedience. Aliens are prophetically called thorns, briars and various kinds of worms. Verses 33-34, 38-39, 42, and 48-51, are vivid descriptions of how the aliens will suck up our sustenance and leave us destroyed. Some good examples of this is how the Communist nations are given our grain, beef, and technology on loan agreements that are never repaid. Eventually the debt is forgotten, or forgiven (but your loan is not).

Another example is the generations of welfare recipients that dwell in our cities. They consume the tribute of the taxpayers who are squeezed by the bureaucrats to ensure the pillage continues under the guise of “humanitarianism.”

FOREIGN WARS

The Lord promised in verse one, that if the people of Israel obey his laws, he would set them high above all nations of the earth. Part of that promise was recorded in verse 7: He said their enemies that would rise up against them would be smitten before their face. And that the enemies would flee before them seven ways. The Lord also promised (v.25) that if they wouldn't observe His way, that they would be smitten by their enemies, and flee seven ways from before them. The Korean War, and the Vietnam debacles and the wars since are the fulfillment of that promise.

HIGH TAXES

The Lord uses His “locusts” [tax collecting agencies] to make sure His plagues are carried out. Mention of the “locusts” is in verses 38 & 42. To prove to yourself that these “locusts” are the Lord's army, which he has sent, I suggest you read Joel 2:11 and 25. This is God's promise of restoration after the “locusts” have done their job.

FAILING FARMS AND INDUSTRY

The wealth of any nation comes from the ground. And agriculture is the backbone of a nation's economy. God has defined laws governing agriculture, and violation of those laws will bring disaster. Most notable of these laws is the land Sabbath laws of Leviticus 25. Violation of the land Sabbath laws is so serious to the Lord that He promises to pluck the land from those that will not observe the Sabbath rest law. [at the time of David, Israel had not kept a Sabbath year, nor a Jubilee year, since entering the promised land.

They “owed” God 70 years. God moved David to say ‘Go number Israel’ and for this sin - because no half-shekel was collected at this census, it was the reason God smote 70,000 people. A thousand people for every year owed]. Read Leviticus 26:32-35, for an explanation of why we are seeing so many farm foreclosures.

Of course, there are many more violations of God's Law than come into play within agriculture today. Included in that list are: (1) hybrid seed (or genetic modification), which violates Leviticus 19:19. (2) chemical farming, which causes the plague of Deuteronomy 28:23. (3) lusting after another's land, which is a direct violation of the 10th commandment of Deuteronomy 5:21. All of these trespasses are compounded by borrowing the money through usury to further deepen the final catastrophe.

Failure of agriculture will send shock waves and have a ripple effect through the industrial complexes of the rest of the nation. The continuing demise of organised labour is just one example. Industry is calling for, and getting, wage concessions to compete in what is called the “world market.” The Lord is deceiving our leaders to believe that “free trade” will save us, when the reality is that “free trade” will destroy the standard of living of the country, as any perceptive mind can see [now Julia Gillard is promoting ‘free trade’ in/with Asia!]. Of course this is beyond our leaders' perception, because the Lord is using “free trade” to bring us low, just as He promised. You can blame anyone you like - just like Adam and Eve - for the debacle, but the truth is that our problems stem from the violation of God's Laws. We, as a nation, have sown the wind, and we shall reap the whirlwind (is that perhaps a cyclone, or tornado?) (Hosea 8:7).

ACID RAIN

This is a recent phenomenon that no one has an answer for, but verse 24 of Deut. 28 will explain this curse for you.

IMMORALITY AND ABORTION

The following verses in Deuteronomy 28 cover this state of affairs: 30 & 56-57.

SUMMARY

I suggest that you read all of Leviticus 26; because this is the second witness to Deuteronomy 28. Deuteronomy 28 doesn't give us the solution to how we can stem the tide of these curses once they begin. Leviticus 26:40-43, on the other hand, does: If they confess their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their trespass which they trespassed against Me, and that also they have walked contrary to them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if then their uncircumcised hearts be humbled, and they then accept the punishment of their iniquity: then will I remember my covenant with Jacob, and also my covenant with Isaac, and also my covenant with Abraham will I remember; and will also remember the land. The land shall also be left of them, and shall enjoy her Sabbaths, while she lieth desolate without them: and they shall accept of the punishment of their iniquity: because, even because they despised my judgments, and because their soul abhorred my statutes.

It behooves the reader to continue reading the conclusion to these startling announcements from God in Leviti-

Further, it is your Christian duty to alert your brethren, high and low, as to WHY the Lord is afflicting our nation. Whether or not they will hear is up to the Lord. Your responsibility as a "watchman on the wall" is to give them the message!

TAKE AMERICA WHERE?

by Robert McCurry

(the same could be applied to Australia and all Western lands)

Christians and conservatives alike are all talking it up these days about "Taking America Back." Is that really what we need to do - take America back? I would say that "Taking America Back" is NOT the solution at all but RATHER THE PROBLEM.

I know "Taking America Back" sounds patriotic and we SO love to blame this mess we're in on the communists, the liberals, the feminists, the pagans, the homosexuals, the abortionists, the media, the Supreme Court, the Congress, the Senate, Barack Obama, George Bush, Bill Clinton, FDR, the Illuminati, the Council on Foreign Relations, the Bilderbergers, the Rockefellers, the Rothschilds and the DEVIL HIMSELF but aren't silent, passive pastors and churches ultimately responsible for what has happened to this country? After all, THEY didn't take this country away from us; We GAVE it to them. My question is: "What were WE doing with it in the first place?"

Do you honestly think that our omnipotent Lord is unable to deliver us from the evil now running roughshod over this country? Is wickedness increasing all around us because HE can't stop it or because WE can't? If it is WE that cannot stop it then why should WE take America back? What do you suppose we would do with it if we COULD take it back? In light of our fallen nature and track record, probably just what we did before — lose it!

What's a child going to do with a broken toy when he snatches it from the hand of the little friend who broke it? Not much, is he? Probably just sit there, cry for a while and play with the broken pieces until he gets bored and frustrated and it ends up back in the hands of the mischievous friend he took it from, or is abandoned altogether.

It seems to me that in all our pride and permissiveness we're trying to pump each other up into little guts and glory gods here in the big sandbox. When Israel's enemies wreaked havoc over them (because of their own sin), was their battle cry: "We're Taking Israel Back"? Were they going to somehow conquer the Assyrians and the Philistines FOR GOD while giving lip service to Him? Is that really the way we think the relationship between man and his maker works? Apparently so.

"Thus saith the LORD; Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the LORD." Jeremiah 17:5.

My point is this: WE CAN'T FIX AMERICA anymore than we can fix ourselves. We can't deliver the nation from sin anymore than we can deliver ourselves. "Taking America Back" may sound high-minded, moral and sell a lot of books and bumper stickers but for a Christian it's as tragic and treacherous an idea as standing up in church to declare: "I'm taking my life back!"

It's the typical pseudo/psycho/self-help/self-empowerment/self-indulgent/self-esteem philosophy we hear every day on television and radio that the world just loves and God hates. "Take control of your life!" "You deserve it!" How will the Lord deliver anyone who refuses to yield and obey Him? He won't — anymore than He will deliver a nation where millions of proud and sin-plagued people are hell-bent on taking control.

We ought to be on our knees before the God of our fore-fathers in fear and trembling, repenting and surrendering ourselves into His gracious, merciful and all-powerful hands, one soul, one family, and one church at a time, in humble obedience, trusting HIM for the victory — not bragging to ourselves like a bunch of drooling drunks around the bar at last call, announcing to the world that we're "Taking America Back!"

"If My people (Israel), which are called by my name (or more correctly: Upon whom My name is called; a reference to Numbers 6:23-27), shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; THEN will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."—2 Chronicles 7:14.

ON MOTHERHOOD AND PROFANITY

by Elisabeth Elliott

"OK now, which one of you clowns put that bag of M 'n' M's in the grocery cart?" The mother looked harried.

Two boys, maybe five and seven, eye each other and race away toward the gumball machine near the supermarket door. There is an infant strapped to a plastic board on top of the groceries, and a two year old occupying the built-in child seat in the cart. The mother picks up the M 'n' M candy bag and starts toward the aisle to return it. The two-year-old screams and she relents, throws the bag in with the rest of her purchases, patiently waits her turn at the check-out, fishes five ten-dollar bills from her purse, receives her small change, and pushing the cart with the babies in it, herds the two boys through the rain to the station wagon in the parking lot.

I go with her in my mind's eye. Jump out in the rain. Open the garage door. Drive in. Close door. Babies, boys, bags into the house in how many trips? Phone rings. Answer phone, change baby, wipe muddy tracks from kitchen floor. Feed baby, put groceries away, hide M 'n' Ms, start peeling vegetables, take clothes out of dryer, stop fight between two older children, feed two-year-old, answer phone again, fold clothes, change baby, get boys to: 1) hang up coats; 2) stop teasing two-year-old; 3) set table.

Light oven, put baby to bed, stop fight, mop up two-year-old, put chicken in oven, answer phone, put away clothes, finish peeling vegetables, look peaceful and radiant — husband will be home soon.

I see this implacable succession of exigencies in my mind's eye. They come with being a mother. I also see the dreams she dreams sometimes—write a novel, agents call, reviews come in. TV interviews, autograph parties, promotional travelling, a movie contract—preposterous dreams. Try something a little more realistic. Cool modern office, beautiful clothes, make-up and hairdo that stay all day. A secretarial job perhaps, nothing spectacular, but it's work that actually produces something that doesn't have to be done over at once. It's work that ends at five o'clock. It means something.

I know how it is. I have a mother. I am a mother. I've produced a mother (my daughter, Valerie, has a two-year-old and expects another child soon). I watched my own mother cope valiantly and efficiently with a brood of six. ("If one child takes all your time," she used to say, "six can't take any more.") We were—we still are—her life. I understand that. Of all the gifts of my life surely those of being somebody's wife and somebody's mother are among the greatest.

But I watch my daughter and other mothers of her generation and I see they have some strikes against them that we didn't have. They have been told insistently and quite persuasively that motherhood is a drag, that tradition is nonsense, that what people have always regarded as "women's work" is meaningless, that "roles" (a word we never bothered much about until a decade or so ago) are changing, that femininity is a mere matter of social conditioning, that it's time to innovate. If the first-grade readers show a picture of a woman driving a hook-and-ladder (fire truck) and a man doing a nurse's job, see what happens to the conditioning. Abolish the stereotypes and we can abolish the myths of masculinity and femininity.

I hear this sort of claptrap, and young mothers often come to me troubled because they can't answer the arguments logically or theologically. They feel, deep in their bones, that there is something terribly twisted about the whole thing but they can't put their finger on what it is.

I think I know what it is. Profanity. Not swearing. I'm not talking about breaking the Third Commandment. I'm talking about treating as meaningless that which is freighted with meaning. Treating as common that which is hallowed. Regarding as a mere triviality what is really a divine design. Profanity is failure to see the inner mystery.

When women—sometimes well-meaning, earnest, truth-seeking ones—say, "Get out of the house and do something creative, find something meaningful, something with more direct access to reality," it is a dead giveaway that they have missed the deepest definition of creation, of meaning, of reality. And when you start seeing the world as opaque, that is, as an end in itself instead of as transparent, when you ignore the Other World where this one ultimately finds its meaning, of course housekeeping (and any other kind of work if you do it long enough) becomes tedious and empty.

But what have buying groceries, changing diapers and peeling vegetables got to do with creativity? Aren't those the very things that keep us from it? Isn't it that kind of drudgery that keeps us in bondage? It's insipid and confining, it's what one conspicuous feminist called "a life of idiotic ritual, full of forebodings and failure." To her I would answer: ritual, yes. Idiotic, no. Not to the Christian—for although we do the same things anybody does, and we do them over and over in the same way, the ordinary transactions of everyday life are the very means of transfiguration. It is the common stuff of this world which, because of the THE WORD's having been "made flesh," is shot through with meaning, with charity, with the glory of God.

But this is what we so easily forget. Men as well as women have listened to those quasi-rational claims, have failed to see the fatal fallacy, and have capitulated. Words like: personhood, liberation, fulfillment and equality, have had a convincing ring and we have not questioned their popular definitions or turned on them the searchlight of Scripture or even of our common sense. We have meekly agreed that the kitchen sink is an obstacle instead of an altar, and we have obediently carried on our shoulders the chips these reductionists have told us to carry.

This is what I mean by profanity. We have forgotten the mystery, the dimension of glory. It was Mary herself who showed it to us so plainly. By the offering up of her physical body to become mother to the Son of God, she transfigured for all mothers, for all time, the meaning of motherhood. She cradled, fed and bathed her baby—the son of God—so that when we cradle, feed and bathe ours we may see beyond that simple task to Him, who in love and humility "dwelt among us and we beheld His glory."

Those who focus only on the drabness of the supermarket, or on the onions, or the diapers themselves; haven't an inkling of the mystery that is at stake here. The mystery revealed in the birth of that Baby and consummated on the Cross: my life for yours.

The routines of housework and of mothering may be seen as a kind of death, and it is appropriate that they should be, for they offer the chance, day after day, to lay down one's life for others. Then they are no longer routines. By being done with love and offered up to God with praise, they are thereby hallowed as the vessels of the tabernacle were hallowed—not because they were different from other vessels in quality or function, but because they were offered to God. A mother's part in sustaining the life of her children and making it pleasant and comfortable is no triviality. It called for self-sacrifice and humility, but it is the route, as was the humiliation of Jesus, to glory.

To modern mothers I would say, "Let Christ himself be your example as to what your attitude should be ....."

It is a spiritual principle as far removed from what the world tells us as the heaven is above the earth: If you are willing to lose your life, you'll find it. It is the principle expressed by John Keble in 1822:

If on our daily course our mind
Be set to hallow all we find,
New treasures still, of countless price,
God will provide for sacrifice.

DNA DISCOVERIES DEMONSTRATE DIVINE DESIGN

by Mario Seiglie

Recent discoveries about DNA—including the finding that so-called "junk DNA" is anything but—once again clearly points to a supreme Intelligence having imbedded an incredible multifaceted code in our genes.

When first discovered, scientists believed that DNA was a somewhat simple genetic code filled with what they termed "junk DNA," useless bits assumed to be evolutionary remnants from our supposed ancestors. But now they have found the code to be astoundingly complex, multilayered and even bidirectional

On Sept. 5, 2012, The New York Times reported: "The human genome is packed with at least four million gene switches that reside in bits of DNA that once were dismissed as “junk” but that turn out to play critical roles in controlling how cells, organs and other tissues behave . . .

“The thought before the start of the [DNA] project, said Thomas Gingeras, an Encode researcher from Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory, was that only 5 to 10 percent of the DNA in a human being was actually being used. The big surprise was not only that almost all of the DNA is used but also that a large proportion of its is gene switches.

“Before Encode, said Dr. John Stamatoyannopoulos, a University of Washington scientist who was part of the project, ‘If you had said half of the genome and probably more has instructions for turning genes on and off, I don’t think people would have believed you’” (“Bits of Mystery DNA, Far From ‘Junk,’ Play Crucial Role,” Sept. 5, 2012, online edition).

The astounding complexity of the DNA code was the main reason Sir Antony Flew, the late world-famous philosopher who had been the leading atheist in England, renounced his atheism a few years back and accepted the existence of a divine intelligence behind it all.

He wrote: “What I think the DNA material has done is that it has shown, by the almost unbelievable complexity of the arrangements which are needed to produce (life), that intelligence must have been involved in getting these extraordinarily diverse elements to work together” (There Is a God: How the World’s Most Notorious Atheist Changed His Mind, 2007, p.75). Let’s see some of the examples of the incredible complexity of the DNA code<sup>4</sup>.

SPY CODES—as in Washington’s Day.

Back in the days of the American Revolution, George Washington and his officers sent each other letters with double meanings. A letter intercepted by the enemy would simply have sounded like a typical message describing incidents on a farm. But to those with the deciphering key, the same message may have described troop numbers and locations. Yet without the key, the secret message would be safely hidden.

Similarly, scientists have come to realize that certain areas of the genetic code have secondary messages that can be deciphered by a cell’s translating devices.

Comparing DNA to a spy code, science historian Stephen Meyer explains: “In the same way, the cell has protein machinery and RNA codes that jointly function as a cipher enabling it to access and read the secondary imbedded messages within the primary message of the genome . . . The presence of these genes imbedded within genes (messages within messages) further enhances the information-storage density of the genome” (Signature in the Cell: DNA and the Evidence for Intelligent Design, 2009, pp. 463-464).

Imagine how difficult it would be to write a message and inscribe within it other messages! Mindless evolution could never produce genetic information of any kind, much less in overlapping levels of this nature!

DNA’s Bidirectional Code

Scientists also have found the genome to be bidirectional—relaying different messages when read from opposite directions—providing efficiency of space.

Dr. Meyer explains: “In the same way that words are ordered into sentences and sentences into paragraphs, nucleotide bases [within the DNA molecular into specifically arranged gene clusters.

“Or think of these individual genes as computer data files and groupings of genes as folders containing several files. The groupings of DNA ‘files’ that we observe serve several roles. These groupings allow the cell to make longer transcripts that are combinations of different gene messages. In other words, the coding modules of the gene files in a ‘folder’ can be combined in numerous ways—and in both directions—to greatly increase the number of encoded transcripts and protein products from the same genomic region or resources” (pp. 467-468).

Again, imagine how difficult it would be to design something like this! If you read forward, you find one message. If you read backwards, you find another message. Again, how could evolution possibly account for this? It is further clear evidence of a brilliant Mind at work!

FROM “JUNK DNA” TO A COMPLEX COMPUTER OPERATING SYSTEM

Computer users are familiar with a computer’s operating system, such as Microsoft Windows, which sets and controls the environment in which software programs run.

Scientists are now startled to discover that many regions of the genome, previously thought to be useless, in fact provide key functions similar to a computer’s operating system.

Dr. Meyer explains: “Portions of the genome that many biologists previously regarded as ‘junk-DNA’ are now known to perform many important functions, including the regulation and expression of the information for building proteins . . . the nonprotein coding regions of the genome function much like an operating system in a software program, directing and regulating how other information in the system is processed” (p. 367).

Discarding the “junk DNA” Myth

To believe that all this incredible, efficient complexity simply evolved through mutation and natural selection is to deny the overwhelming facts.

As molecular biologist Jonathan Wells concludes: “Scientists make progress by testing hypotheses against the evidence. But when scientists ignore the evidence and cling to a hypothesis for philosophical or theological reasons, the hypothesis becomes a myth. Junk DNA is such a myth. . . .

“As recent discoveries have demonstrated, we are just beginning to unravel the mysteries of the genome. Indeed, the same can be said of living organisms in general. But assuming that any feature of an organism has no function discourages further investigation. In this respect, the myth of junk DNA has been a science-stopper. Not anymore. For scientists willing to follow the evidence wherever it leads, these are exciting times” (The Myth of Junk DNA, 2011, p.107).

WHEN DOES LIFE BEGIN?

by Jenny Stokes

Life begins at fertilisation—when the sperm enters the egg. We often refer to this as conception. Medical texts affirm that life starts at fertilisation—for example: “Although life is a continuous process, fertilisation is a critical landmark because, under ordinary circumstances, a new, genetically distinct human organism is thereby formed.”<sup>1</sup>

Such an understanding is confirmed by common sense.

Growth and development occur immediately after fertilisation. Everything is already there for complete development—the baby just needs food and shelter, as Sen. Brian Harradine used to say.

The Bible affirms the creation of life. In Jeremiah 1:5, God says, “Before I formed you in the womb I knew you, and before you were born I consecrated you.” David says, in Psalm 139, “For you created my inmost being; you knit me together in my mother’s womb . . . your eyes saw my unformed body. All the days ordained for me were written in your book before one of them came to be.”

However, the legal position of an unborn child varies depending on the country or state, and laws that have been passed by parliaments. Unborn children are often not protected by the law.

In the ACT, the Human Rights Act states that “Everyone has the right to life.” But it goes on to add that this “applies to a person from the time of birth.” (Section 9).

In Victoria, the Charter of Human Rights and Responsibilities states that “Every person has the right to life.” (Section 9). That certainly sounds better than the ACT charter—until you realise that the Act has a ‘Savings provision’ that states, “Nothing in this Charter affects any law applicable to abortion or child destruction.” (Section 48).

In fact, the initial proposal for Section 9 mirrored the ACT Charter’s wording. The section was changed—and the Savings Provision added—following concerns expressed during the debate on the Charter.

In 2008, when Victoria’s Abortion Law Reform Act was passed, the standard process of checking legislation against the Charter to see if it is compatible was not followed—the parliamentary committee decided that the Charter didn’t apply because the Bill was about ‘abortion.’ That’s why the Abortion Law Reform Act denies the rights of doctors to follow their conscience, even though the Charter says that “Every person has the right to freedom of thought, conscience, religion and belief.” (Section 14).

Some people claim that life begins at ‘implantation.’ In normal pregnancies, this occurs at about 8-10 days after fertilisation, and in IVF procedures, when the embryo is artificially placed in the woman’s uterus. Of course, this belief about the beginning of life allows some people to support embryo stem cell research, which kills the tiny developing baby in order to extract stem cells from the embryo at an age of 3-5 days. Their conscience is clear, they contend, since the embryo is destroyed before 8-10 days—and is thus ‘not alive.’ This was an important part of the debate on the use and creation of embryos for research in 2002 and 2006.

As Dr. Stanley G. Korenman writes, in a book prepared for the US Office of Research Integrity, “The core issue related to hESC research is the status of the early embryo. Is it a human being with a soul that must be protected or is it a collection of cells that will not become part of humanity until a later time?” He adds, “This issue cannot be resolved on a scientific basis but rather plays a central role in religious and political differences within America.”

There are two problems here—firstly, science has something to say about when life begins. Secondly, when people reject religious moral convictions, they are left with their own ideas of right and wrong.

In Canada, Conservative MP Stephen Woodworth, recently put forward a private member’s bill, aimed at establishing a 12-member, all-party committee to study the definition of when an unborn child can legally be considered a human being. Currently the Canadian Criminal Code says that, “A child becomes a human being within the meaning of this Act when it has completely proceeded, in a living state, from the body of its mother.” Mr. Woodworth argued that the 1988 ruling that allowed abortion noted that there was a potential need to protect the unborn at some point during a pregnancy. Unfortunately his Bill was defeated by 203-91. But the good news was that ten Cabinet Ministers supported his Bill and the debate showed that there is a concern about Canada’s current law which has no restrictions on abortion.

A Queensland judge recently decided that ‘conceiving a child’ means the ‘implantation’ of an embryo. Brisbane Children’s Court judge Leanne Clare was ruling on a case involving surrogacy and an IVF embryo. She said, “The point of conceiving a child is the commencement of the pregnancy, which involves an active process within a woman’s body.”

Why did the judge make this ruling? Queensland’s law requires that surrogacy arrangements—where the birth mother assigns parenthood to the surrogate parents—must be signed before a child is ‘conceived.’ But the law doesn’t define what ‘conceived’ means. The case in question involved an IVF embryo that had been created and frozen in 2008—but a surrogacy arrangement was not signed until April 2011. Implantation in the surrogate mother’s womb was in July 2011. So the judge’s ruling means that the law now defines ‘conception’ as being the ‘implantation’ of the embryo into the surrogate mother. This is making laws to suit individual cases—and changing the meaning of words. But the legal ruling doesn’t match reality!

THE WAY TO PEACE

by Pastor Ray B. Anderson

“Whom shall He teach knowledge? and whom shall He make to understand doctrine? them that are weaned from the milk, and drawn from the breasts.” (Isaiah 28:9).

Freedom from want has been the goal of mankind from the cradle to the grave. However, once man experiences such freedom (liberty), he finally elects to disobey God’s Law (the way of righteousness and prosperity) and his paradise is quickly lost. Justice is impossible and the administrators of God’s perfect Laws cannot be exercised, until they are accepted and kept by man. This is what I learned having spent thirty years at the Minnesota State Capital. Yes, I knew the Minnesota men who ran for the Presidency; I knew them quite well. In my lifetime, in the course of human history, I have seen great changes come as a result of conflict and war, having served in WWII as a pilot. Many people say we are at war with terrorism. Plans for a summit talk with Russia were in jeopardy because of the hostage crisis.

Since Israel-America has traded her liberty given to her by God and has disobeyed her Maker, we were forewarned by God what that consequence would be. God said that if you revolt against Me:

“You shall be cursed in the city, And cursed in the field! Cursed in your basket, And cursed in your cask! Cursed in the fruit of your body, and fruit of your farms, The cast of your cattle, And breeds of your sheep! You shall be cursed in your going, And cursed in your coming! The EVER-LIVING will send you cursing, blundering, and blame in every attempt of your hand, till you waste and rapidly perish before the evils assailing you, and become desolate! These things shall pursue, until you cease from the land that you go to possess!” (Deut. 28:16-21, Ferrar Fenton).

This national prosperity and the prosperity of its citizens is dependent upon the observance and the keeping of the commandments, statutes and judgments of God; but national conflicts and troubles arise from their violation. Did you hear what God told Moses regarding blundering and blame? Our princes of Israel, the leaders of this nation, have blundered, causing other countries to blame America for the conditions in the world today. Moses spoke of a curse that would be placed upon the people because of the administration that failed to administer God's perfect law. This curse has affected the farmer, the city dweller and others, causing a curtailment of food and fiber for our people, as to their needs and necessities of life. Many who look only in their back yards or think only of themselves do not see the poverty and destitution that is caused by maladministration.

God places no limit on wealth a man or woman may acquire, as long as all the rights of his fellowmen are held inviolate, with the complete observance of God's law. His estate under God becomes his to pass on to his heirs, free from governmental levies and confiscation. If we accept the planners' programs, whether it be fiscal, economic or otherwise, we might as well jump from the frying pan into the fire. Anything we attempt of the hand without God, God states we will waste and perish until we become desolate (Deut 28:16-20). Our leaders must be weaned from the milk and drawn from the breast (Isaiah 28:9) and know what God wants before they try to lead this great nation, Israel-America.

Many things that are sold in America today are not all American made. Prosperity and wealth do not exist in a nation when its leaders are squandering the people's substance, through unjust and maladministration. For years we have known of corporations and individuals who boast that they pay little or no taxes. There is a vast gulf between those who secure legitimate and honest profits, and those who scheme and plan to defraud their fellowmen in the name of business. Micah the prophet condemned such evil practices for gain when he said:

“Woe to them that devise iniquity, and work evil upon their beds! when the morning is light, they practise it, because it is in the power of their hand. And they covet fields, and take them by violence; and houses, and take them away: so they oppress a man and his house, even a man and his heritage.” (Micah 2:1-2).

The Lord said if Israel would hearken to His voice and keep His laws:

“You shall be blest in the city, and be blest in the field; Blest in the fruit of your body, and blest in the fruit of your farm; and blest in the fruit of your cow, and blest in the cast of your cattle, and breeds of your sheep. Blest in your basket, and blest in your cask. Blest in your going, and blest in your coming. Jehovah will make your opponents to stumble before you, --They shall advance by one path, and fly from you by seven! The EVER-LIVING will command blessings to your barns, and to every work of your hand, and will bless you in the country that your EVER-LIVING God has given you. Jehovah will establish you as a People sacred to

Himself, as He promised, if you keep the commands of your EVER-LIVING God and walk in His paths.” (Deut 28:3-9), Ferrar Fenton)

Millions are spent by this government to combat drugs, AIDS, crime, and the threat of communism in other lands, with little thought for the poor and elderly in this land. Amos, the prophet stated:

“Hear this, O ye that swallow up the needy, even to make the poor of the land to fail, .... making the ephah [measure, Ex. 16:36] small, and the shekel great, and falsifying the balances by deceit.” (Amos 8:4-5)

Isn't this what manufacturers' practice when they label a product new and improved? They make the measure small and falsify the price? Because this is so, God pronounces judgment upon those who practice these evils in the land, for He told Amos:

“The Lord hath sworn by the Excellency of Jacob, Surely I will never forget any of their works. Shall not the land tremble for this, and every one mourn that dwelleth therein?” (Amos 8:7-8).

We are experiencing this trembling throughout this Israel-land and its people are mourning, because of the unrighteous. How, then, is peace to come to a troubled world? Is it through our might? Is it through un-regenerated men and nations that will bring this peace? Wickedness is like a troubled sea; it cannot rest, its waters cast up mire and dirt (Isa. 57:20-21). There is no peace to the wicked.

Anglo-Saxon-Israel has made a covenant with death with godless nations and their gods. She is unable to extricate herself from this position she is now dwelling in. Peace can only be attained when He who is the Prince of Peace returns to take the crown and the throne of His father David. His Kingdom will establish world peace.

“There is none like unto the God of Jeshurun [God's chosen Israel], who rideth upon the heaven in thy help. And in His excellency on the sky. The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms: and he shall thrust out the enemy from before thee; and shall say, ‘Destroy them.’ Israel then shall dwell in safety alone: The fountain of Jacob shall be upon a land of corn and wine; also his heavens shall drop down dew.” (Deut. 33:26-28).

Israel was given this name Jeshurun, for it was a name of endearment used in poetry for the nation of Israel with reference to her moral character. The name Jacob is connected with divine safety and earthly substance. When Israel (Jeshurun, God's beloved one) kept and administered His Laws, these blessings followed:

“Happy art thou, O Israel: Who is like unto thee, O People saved by the Lord [this is Israel's greatest glory], The shield of thy help, and Who is the sword of thy excellency! And thine enemies shall be found liars unto thee; and they shall tread upon their high places.” (Deut. 33:29).

The way of peace is not in solemn agreements laid with godless nations, but in the establishment of His Kingdom in righteousness. Because Israel, the Anglo-Saxon-Nordic people, are blind to their origin and identity with its resulting responsibilities, most are walking like the blind and stumbling at noonday as though it were night (Isa. 59:10). When we try to make peace with those who know no peace, the prophet Ezekiel likens this endeavour as to building cities, towers and buildings with untempered mortar (Ezekiel 13:10-11). It is really foolish then for the nations of this world to seek peace apart from obeying Israel's Laws. God has decreed that there is only one people through whom peace will come. It is the people who are called Israel and this fact is written in the Holy Bible. It is to come when David His servant shall be prince forever. God declares:

“Moreover I will make a covenant of peace with them; it shall be an everlasting covenant with them: and I will place them [or settle them], and multiply them, and will set My sanctuary in the midst of them for evermore.” (Eze. 37:26).

God’s people are so foolish and blind to expect peace through international agreements, when His Word clearly states that peace will come to them as a direct gift from God when they become willing to observe and keep all of His Laws. It is in God’s government that the foundations of peace have been laid. Israel was to serve only one God! Above all this material blessings, resulting from interesting discoveries of new sources of power in the Kingdom Age, there is to be added the spiritual attainments that will follow as the result of the outpouring of the Spirit of God upon His People. It comes only with the changed spiritual aspect, that men and women can be trusted with this increased prosperity and power that is to come into their hands. Israel must awaken to true spiritual values; Ezekiel prophesied of that day saying:

“Then will I sprinkle clean water upon you, and ye shall be clean: from all your filthiness, and from all your idols, will I cleanse you.” (Eze. 36:25).

Isaiah, God’s servant and prophet, had this to say regarding Israel for the latter days:

“And the ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion [the sheepfold of the Lamb] with songs, and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.” (Isa. 35:10).

For many today who are in pain, who sorrow and suffer, the promise of the one God to them is:

“And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away.” (Rev. 21:4).

So Jesus is to come to Israel and to her government. not to a League of Nations or some other world power. He is coming to a people whom He declares are His people. When will this be then? Isaiah states in chapter 59:19, when the enemy comes in like a flood. This will be a time when “the spirit of the Lord shall lift up a standard against him.” Thus the Scripture states that Jesus Christ will come to Zion and will lay the foundation of peace.

Israel is directed to rise and shine (Isaiah 60:1-3), for the glory of the Lord is risen upon them. Isaiah is told that darkness shall cover the earth, and gross darkness upon the people. The Nations shall come to thy light and recognize that you are the people (the Anglo-Saxon-Celtic-Nordic people) called Israel, and that the Lord hath risen on thee. Praise His Holy Name!

MARRIAGE—THE NEXT STEP

The House of Representatives and the Senate both resoundingly defeated Bills aimed at legalising same-sex ‘marriage’ during September. In the House, the Labor MP Stephen Jones’ Bill was defeated by 98 votes to 42 votes. In the Senate, a similar Bill was defeated by 41 votes to 26 votes.

We are extremely grateful that these two bills were defeated. However, it is vitally important that we realise that the same-sex ‘marriage’ issue is NOT going away!

There are still two Greens same-sex ‘marriage’ Bills in the federal parliament: one in the Senate and another in the House. The Greens want to keep the Bills, but will probably delay debate on these bills.

The homosexual lobby is committed to continuing the fight. They will be lobbying politicians who voted against the Bills, and those who abstained, in order to try and persuade them to change their mind.

They will also be lobbying the Coalition to change their policy. One reason for the decisive votes was the Coalition’s opposition to the Bills and their refusal to grant a ‘conscience vote.’ As we approach the election, we must ensure the Coalition continues to oppose same-sex ‘marriage.’

In addition, Liberal MPs Malcolm Turnbull and Warren Entsch have announced that they will introduce legislation for a federal ‘civil union’ scheme. Prior to the defeat of the ‘marriage’ bills, the homosexual lobby rejected this—but they may re-consider on the basis that, as Malcolm Turnbull says, ‘something is better than nothing.’ Such schemes could eventually lead to legalising same-sex ‘marriage,’ as it has in Europe.

STATE SAME-SEX ‘MARRIAGE’

The homosexual lobby is also working on state governments to persuade them to pass same-sex ‘marriage’ legislation. Greens Senator Sarah Hanson-Young has called on the Prime Minister to NOT challenge state based ‘marriage’ laws in the High Court.

* In Tasmania, the Bill co-sponsored by Labor Premier Lars Giddings and Greens leader Nick McKim passed the House of Assembly. Fortunately it was defeated in the Legislative Council.

* The SA parliament will debate a same-sex ‘marriage’ Bill early in 2013, co-sponsored by homosexual Labor MP Ian Hunter and Greens MP Tammy Franks. Labor Premier Jay Weatherill supports it and Labor MPs will have a conscience vote.

On October 18, Independent MP Bob Such introduced an ‘alternative’ ‘Civil Partnerships’ Bill in the lower house.

* In Victoria, the Greens same-sex ‘marriage’ Bill had its second reading on June 6, 2012. Liberal Premier Ted Baillieu opposes the Bill and says he will not give Coalition MPs a conscience vote.

* In WA, the Greens announced on 13 September that they will introduce a same-sex ‘marriage’ Bill.

* In NSW, a cross-party group is preparing a same-sex ‘marriage’ Bill - and all political party leaders have said they will allow a conscience vote.

* In the ACT, Labor Minister Andrew Barr, an open homosexual, announced that, “a re-elected ACT Labor Government will introduce same-sex marriage legislation.”

ACTION: If you live in any of these states, please contact your MPs in both houses and ask them not to support ‘state-based same-sex marriage.’ More details on www.saltshakers.org.au - on the Campaign page.
